FAR-REACHING.

TURN LIGHT ON TAXES.

President Issues a Sweeping Order.

Quarter Million Corporations With Fifty Billions Capital Affected.

Reports of All Concerns Having Stock for Sale Open to Inspection.

Taft Gets Easily What Roosevelt Tried for Six Years and Failed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Taft signed an executive order tonight, throwing open to public inspection the "corporation tax" returns of every corporation doing business in the United States and liable to the payment of a corporation tax.

Despite the restrictions which are placed upon this publicity, by simultaneous announcement of regulations by Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury Department, this is the biggest step yet taken for Federal publicity of corporations, and is bound to raise a storm from the corporations affected.

As the records of the department stand it opens up the reports of about 250,000 corporations with an aggregate capital of over $50,000,000,000.

PUBLICITY IS KEYNOTE.

The regulations issued by the Treasury Department open the reports of every one of the corporations to their stockholders, no matter how small the individual holding of stock. In addition to this, the general public is to be permitted to inspect the reports of any corporation whose stock is listed on any stock exchange, and of any corporation whose stock is advertised for sale, or which offers its own stock to the public for sale.

In all cases written application to the Secretary of the Treasury is necessary, stating the reason for the request, as well as setting forth the title of the applicant to such permit for inspection.

All inspection must be made in Washington, however, in the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and no collector or agent of the department elsewhere is permitted to open his books to the public. Officers of the government are to be permitted to inspect the returns upon a certificate from their department heads, but when this inspection is to secure evidence for cases in court, a special warrant from the Attorney-General is necessary. The same applies to requests of State officials for the right to inspect returns.

It is further announced that supplemental reports made by corporations to prove the figures in their original returns, as well as any information thus secured by department inspectors, will not be made public.

The actual publicity is to be confined to the original sworn statement upon which the tax is based. This statement, however, contains a long list of important figures for each corporation and the danger that this may fall into the hands of competitors—to say nothing of law officers—will make many corporations squirm.

WILL AID INVESTIGATION.

For instance, it will make a public record not only of the actual paid capital of every corporation, but also its annual gross income, its specific statements of losses sustained, of actual expenses paid, of actual depreciation, of Negro Porter Puts in Six Weeks Dry Travel for Five Dollar Bill.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Traveling with the Rockefellers did not make a hit with J. A. Ross, head porter.

"You see, Boss," said the porter, "I traveled for nearly six weeks with Rockefeller's son and mind you, Boss, for them six weeks there was not a drop of liquor on the train nor a good cigar and not even enough for us poor fellows to eat. Then we had prayer three times a day. But what nearly knocked me over was the $5 tip Ah got for six weeks' work."

FORMER RAILROAD HEAD TO START LIFE ANEW.

A. J. Davidson, Picked Up in Chicago After Four Weeks' Wanderings, Unable to Give Account of Himself—Wife Now in Texas Preparing to Sue for Goods.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After spending the night at the Congress Hotel in the custody of a detective, A. J. Davidson, former president of the St. Louis and San Francisco railways, was rescued from his predicament today by friends who made good the $3000 worth of bad checks he passed on the management.

He is said to be physically prostrated following his wanderings of four weeks. He was ragged and penniless when picked up Thanksgiving evening on Michigan avenue by Detective Frank Repetto of the Congress. A good meal was given him and he was invited to share a room with a detective in the hotel.

Plans have been made by former business associates to give Davidson a fresh start in life, and it has been arranged to take him to a sanitarium. He will go to New York, it was stated, after he has recovered physical tone and will begin a new life in the East.

Business troubles were said by one of his friends to have been the cause of his disappearance. "He has had a run of hard luck and worry," said the friend. "The amount of his checks has been made good. We will take him to New York and there among friends he can start anew."

No clear account could be obtained from Mr. Davidson as to where he spent the time since his disappearance. He left the Congress Hotel October 8, two days after Mrs. Davidson returned to St. Louis. Four days after he left the Congress Hotel he registered at the Lexington. He had given a check at the Congress for $3014, drawn on the Commercial Bank of St. Louis. He remained at the Lexington until October 23. Little was seen of him by employees of the hotel, as he came and went at irregular hours.

Mr. Davidson was president of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railway for six years at an annual salary of $25,000. He was dropped a year ago, just before the road separated from the Rock Island system. Mrs. Davidson has been in Dallas, Tex., for some time. She is preparing to make a legal fight for possession of her household furniture in St. Louis.

NAILED.

AMERICANS CONFIRM DENIALS OF REVOLT FICTIONS FROM MEXICO.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 25.—Dr. R. D. Robinson of El Paso, who has interests across the border, received a number of letters from Mexico today, all of them reporting the situation quiet at Parral and Torreon.

One letter, dated November 23, stated, when the disturbances were started, one building was burned at Loma, and one train delayed. Other Torreon trains, the letter says, are arriving on time.

"I went to Lomathe next morning," said the Torreon letter, "to see whether the bridge was burned. It was about 160 feet long. Engineer Boyles, of an approaching freight train, saw the flames in time to avoid a wreck."

Another letter adds confirmation of recent statements that fighting at Torreon are untrue. All letters received by Dr. Robinson agree on this point.

Another Torreon letter says: "My numerous Mexican friends assure me that no foreigners will suffer more than business losses occasioned by things being upset. Things, of course, are in an uproar politically, and a meeting of the business men was held at the Jefature on Tuesday. I attended. The city was without proper police protection and not sufficient money in the treasury to add the desired force. We contributed to make up the deficit and have enough police to feel safe. We have 1400 troops, well organized, that are doing grand work. The outcome is hard to predict. Frankly, I fear that it will last until the death of some of our present rulers and the re-establishment of the new policy. While not active all the time, it will keep the country unsettled."

The letters from which the foregoing statements were taken were shown to newspaper men under pledges of not disclosing the names of the writers. All are afraid that any mention of their names in connection with the disturbances might cause them trouble in Mexico. Messages were handled over Mexican lines today, but there was no confirmation of the reported wounding of Madero as reported from Eagle Pass yesterday.

QUIET ALONG CENTRAL.

All was quiet between El Paso and Mexico City when the train came through which reached El Paso from Mexico City this morning, according to the passengers. All the telegraph wires were in operation and there was no fighting.

Passengers who came in from Parral today declare there was no fighting there yesterday and that the troops reported as passing through Torreon "to quell rioting at Parral" were merely reinforcements and were not for maintaining order at Parral.

These passengers bring the report that an American named Storey was wounded in the Parral fighting Monday at the same time that Thomas Lawson, an American, was accidentally killed.

STATISTICS.

FIGURES GIVEN OUT ON CENSUS.

ONLY FIVE IMPORTANT CITIES STILL WITHHELD.

Lacking Portland, Seattle, Spokane, Duluth and Superior, Population of Centers of over 25,000 Aggregates 27,809,835—Iowa Only State of Eighteen With Decrease.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—With only Portland, Or., Seattle and Spokane, Wash., Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., missing the cities of the United States of 25,000 and over have an aggregate population of 27,809,835.

This announcement is made in a recapitulation bulletin issued today by the census bureau.

Forty-seven of the cities contain more than 100,000 and of this number eleven have risen into the 100,000 class since the census of 1900. There has been a much larger growth in the cities below 100,000 than in those above, the percentage for the former being 39.4 as against 31.8 for the latter. Portland and Seattle will be added to the class of larger cities. In 1900 Portland had 90,426 and Seattle 80,671. There will be at least 49 cities in the country containing more than 100,000 each.

A recapitulation covering the detailed figures for eighteen States, including Arizona and New Mexico, shows that Iowa only suffered a decrease. Aside from the sparsely settled regions of Arizona, New Mexico and Florida, the principal growth has been in New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

The census office makes special request that no effort be made to estimate the percentage of increase for the entire country on the figures given out on the eighteen States already announced. It is probable, it is said, the percentage for the country as a whole will be greater.

Oklahoma is not included in the eighteen States, notwithstanding an almost complete announcement has been made for that State.

OVERTON DICKINSON DEAD.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Jacob M. Dickinson, Secretary of War, last night received word of the death of his son, Overton Dichinson at Belmead stock farm. The family had just returned from a visit to his son, who was found apparently much improved. The younger Dickinson had been in ill health for more than a year and succumbed to heart disease. His illness was said to be due to the shock following the death of his wife fourteen months ago.

LIBERTY ASSAILED.

RIOTING CHICAGO UNIONISTS START BLOODY STREET ROW.

Thugs Stab and Beat American Citizen and Wife Who Dare to Exercise the Privilege of Earning Living for Selves and Dependent Ones.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Strikers and their "sympathizers," few of whom can speak the English language, and still fewer of whom are citizens of this country, precipitated a bloody riot today while trying to stamp and beat to death an American citizen and his wife, whose crime consisted of their persistence in working and supporting themselves and those dependent upon them.

After having been knocked down repeatedly and while the mob was kicking and stamping them to death, Vincent Belleno and his wife fired at their tormentors. They are non-union garment workers. When the police arrived they were stoned by the mob, but the only persons arrested were Belleno and his wife.

THE WOUNDED.

JOHN KELAITY, part owner of same saloon, shot in right wrist and in back of right shoulder.

ALBERT ALLIOTA, shot in right wrist and stabbed in right shoulder, back and neck. Condition serious.

Belleno and Alliota struggled and the police say the prisoner drew a knife and stabbed the man three times. Alliota was shot when he atempted to flee.

START OF TROUBLE.

The trouble started when Belleno and his wife were attacked by several pickets on duty near small tailoring shops along Larrabee and West Oak streets. The two were struck repeatedly and the man was knocked down. Within a few minutes a crowd of over 200 persons—men and women living in the vicinity, who were openly in sympathy with the strikers—had gathered at Larrabee and West Oak streets. They urged on the strikers, and Belleno and his wife drew revolvers and began shooting.

Several of the shots crashed through the windows of Kelaity & Gabler's saloon, and the owners were hit by the bullets while they were standing in the front of the place. Both rushed into the street, bleeding from their wounds, and other persons who were in the saloon at the time sent a riot call to the Chicago-avenue Station.

POLICEMAN TO RESCUE.

Alliota, one of the strike sympathizers, was shot while he was in the midst of the crowd in the street, and when he fell the mob fled in all directions.

Policeman Germanson of the Hudson-avenue Station, was passing on a street car and heard the shooting. He alighted and, drawing his revolver, rushed into the midst of the crowd of strikers and sympathizers.

Bricks were hurled at the policeman, but he braved the missles and continued on until he reached Belleno and his wife, who, he declares, were surrounded by a crowd of fifty or more men and women, who were shouting threats of violence. The man and his wife had already suffered injuries and were bleeding from lacerations on the hands and face.

Germanson drove off the crowd and assisted Belleno and his wife into the saloon. When he learned that they had done the shooting he kept them in custody until a wagon load of policemen reached the scene from the Chicago-avenue Station. Then they were taken to the station, where they are said to have admitted that they fired the shots.

MARRIED IN HASTE.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Wells Conkling, a wealthy and prominent farmer, 43 years old, eloped with and married Mollie A. Clifford, 14 years old, two weeks ago, and now is suing her for divorce. He names a brother-in-law of the bride as co-respondent and in his complaint further declares that the youthful Mrs. Conkling is about to become a mother. Charges of a serious nature are made against the girl's family and the brother-in-law is under arrest. In reply, the girl's relatives declare that Conkling committed perjury in marrying the girl, swearing that she was 18, and assert the ⇨ was informed fully concerning her mishap but insisted upon marrying her just the same.

Suffragettes Angry at Magistrate.

He Calls Them "Disorderly Women" Before Sending Them to Prison.

They Declare He Wouldn't Dare Use Such Words to Shining Lights.

Bishop Says They're Vixens and Police Should Carry Bags of Rats.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The suffragettes are up in arms again and this time they are resolved to be revenged upon the Police Court magistrates.

Sir Albert de Rutzen, chief magistrate of the Metropolitan Police Courts, in sentencing the women who recently attacked Premier Asquith, Sir Augustine Birrell and other public men, and smashed the windows of their residences, addressed them with these words:

"You disorderly women"—he cleared his throat and repeated the offensive words—"you disorderly women have been treated with altogther too much leniency in the past."

Then he sentenced twenty of them to two months each in prison.

None of the women who appeared for sentence today in the Bow-street Police Court is widely known, and other suffragettes declare that the magistrate would not have dared address them so had some of their shining lights been among the prisoners.

Mrs. Pankhurst tonight declared the suffragettes would make the magistrate "eat his words" before he pronounced sentence upon any more women working for suffrage.

CALLS SUFFRAGETTES DISGRACE TO NATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TORONTO (Ont.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Right Rev. J. P. Du Moulin, Lord Bishop of Niagara, in the course of an address delivered before the member of the Empire Club here today, a majority of whom are women, made a sensational attack upon suffragettes in general and the English in particular, characterizing their behavior as "a disgrace to the nation and character of women."

He did not believe in shutting them up in jail he said.

"Ornaments such as the women should be treated in a radical manner. In the hands of every policeman should be placed a fire hose nozzle for riot use; then, if water failed to stop them, about fifty bags of rats should be taken from the drains of London—the rest would be easy.

"If the evil day should ever come when petticoat government should be established in England—and everybody knows what petticoat government means to them—and if those vixens sat in the House of Commons, debates which now last until two and three a.m., would be prolonged until two p.m., next day."

Bishop Du Moulin is one of the oldest and most influential Episcopal bishops in Canada and his opinion so frankly expressed has thrown the women of the Empire Club into a state of consternation.

BIB AND TUCKER COST BOBS UP IN POLITICS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Spokane women helped to gown Mrs. Emma Smith Devoe, head of the Washington Equal Suffrage Association, that she might make a creditable impression in eastern Washington. Mrs. Devoe, it is stated, backed a movement soon afterward when the Seattle Convention repudiated twenty-two suffrage clubs from Spokane, refusing their delegates seats on the floor of the convention. An expose of facts, hitherto kept secret divulging the possibilities of ingratitude among women politicians in the recent suffrage campaign, is made today through the publication of the financial report of the Washington Political Equality League, an organization formed after a recent coalition of suffragists of eastern and western Washington.

Mrs. May Arkwright Hutton and Mrs. Helen Lareine Baker declare they purchased $241 worth of apparel for Mrs. Emma Smith Devoe, an itemized account of which they submit as follows: one silk umbrella, $10; one black semite silk gown, $100; one extra guimp, $25; one blue broadcloth suit, $60; dark red cloth coat, $17; one evening gown, $29.

ELEVEN ENTOMBED IN MINE.

Explosion in Kentucky Shaft Probably Means Death of Victims. Mule Blown 150 Feet in Air.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PROVIDENCE (Ky.) Nov. 25.—Eleven coal miners—two white men and nine negroes—were entombed in mine No. 3 of the Providence Mining Company today, by a gas explosion, and it is believed all are dead. The mine is new, the shaft being only 100 feet deep, with few entries.

The explosioon was so violent that little hope is entertaained of the miners having escaped. A rescue train from the mine rescue, station at Linton, Ind., is on the way to the scene tonight. Comrades of the men entombed are digging frantically to reach them.

The explosion blew great masses of slate and stone far from the shaft. A mule, blown out of the shaft, alighted 150 feet away, still alive.

CONTRADICTORY.

REBELS EXPECT BIG ENGAGEMENT

Mexican General to Attack Leader With Army.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Nov. 25.—Madero, the leader of the Mexican revolutionists, is not wounded, as reported, but instead is marching on the city of Monclova, in the State of Coahuila, at the head of a well equipped army, said to number as high as 6000 men.

This was the report brought by revolutionary sympathisers across the border into Douglas today. Much other information concerning the movements of the revolutionists and the extent of the fighting also reached Douglas in the same way. A local business man, who is a revolutionary sympathizer, received the data from friends in Mexico, and it was given out for publication here tonight.

A small printed document, published at Chihuahua, shows the local situation there and the purported movements of Madero. This document accompanied the others smuggled in today.

Madero is purported to have 1000 well armed mounted men, recruited from contrabandista and vaqueros, or Mexican cowboys, from the rich section of country between Monterey and Chihuahua. Since October 7, it is said, these men have been engaged in smuggling arms from the border, whence they arrived from San Antonio. All the funds were supplied by the Mexican junta and by Madero personally.

SMUGGLE ARMS FOR RECRUITS.

The cowboys are said also to have smuggled arms for the foot soldiers, and both the mounted troops and infantry of Madero carry repeating rifles of 30-30 calibre. Madero's mounted soldiers are considered particularly efficient. The foot soldiers were recruited from the cotton belt, where it was known for a long time that the peons were ready to take up arms.

According to the reports reaching Douglas, Madero's first movement was a bold stroke. With his men he marched to the great ranch owned by Terrazas, newly appointed Governor of Chihuahua, at Sans Ostenes, where he captured 400 horses. Madero and his soldiers then moved into the mountains. Here with his troops he will be able to stand off the government army for an indefinite period, is the claim of the revolutionary sympathizers.

The only big force of government troops in the vicinity where Madero is operating, is under command of Gen. Travino, who is reported moving by rail from Monterey towards Monclova to give battle to Madero if possible.

Travino's forces are said to be inferior in numbers to Madero's. Gen. Travino is reported to have left Monterey November 21, but supporters of Madero believe that the revolutionary leader has destroyed the bridges, compelling the government forces to march overland.

News received by the revolutionists on this side of the line today, state unqualifiedly that several towns in the State of Chihuahua are in the hands of the rebels. The more important of these places are Guerrero, San Andreas, San Isidro, Ojinada, and Guerachic.

CREDIT REBEL REPORTS.

It is believed here that there can be little doubt that the revolutionists have the upper hand in Chihuahua. There was available in that State only 170 foot soldiers of the Mexican Twelfth Infantry, which with four officers left Chihuahua November 21 to retake from the revolutionists the cities above named. The government troops started by train, but found the bridges burned and are now marching overland. After two days of forced marches they are said to have met the revolutionists, but after the first reports of the engagement communication was cut and since then no news has come through.

In the towers of the old cathedral at Chihuahua two Gatling guns have been mounted, and five other pieces—Mondagron machine guns—have been placed on the heights commanding the city.

According to the information received, Parral, in the extreme southern part of the State of Chihuahua, is in the hands of the revolutionists. The rebels are said to have entrenched on a hill known as Lacrux, and on La Prieta, both important cities. An engagement was expected there at any time. Revolutionists are reported gathering in Coahuila, Parado, Coyame and outside of Ojinada.

Madero owns many cotton plantations between Monterey and Chihuahua, and he waited until his followers were armed, when he crossed into Mexico to lead the organised forces. Madero was educated at St. Louis, Mo., where he was graduated as a civil engineer.

Gen. Terrazas, the newly appointed Governor of Chihuahua, is not a brother-in-law of Minister Creel, as reported, but is the latter's father-in-law. He is almost as old as Diaz, but replaced Governor Sanchez because the former was a Mexican army officer. The change gives control of the State to the military instead of civic officials.

TRY TO INCITE INDIANS.

The vigilance of the local Mexican officials resulted last night in the arrest of an Indian thought to be a Yaqui. He was carrying high power cartridges. Taken to prison at Agua Prieta, he was found to be a Pima Indian.

Revolutionary sympathizers in Douglas quickly sent out news of the arrest to the Pima tribe, located at Oputo, and Guazavas, on the western slope of Sonora, where 4000 of them live, hoping to induce the Pimas to take up arms.

Leaders of the rebels have arrived from Los Angeles and are going southward to the Yaqui tribe in Southern Sonora to induce these Indians to join the revolutionary movement. The Pimas are considered even better that the Yaquis.

Many arrests are being made in Mexican towns in the State of Chihuahua where the military controls. One young man was arrested for reading a newspaper containing photographs of Madero. The houses of all suspects were entered and searched by soldiers.

WHERE IS MADERO?

Mexican officials here report the conclusion of the trial of Madero at San Luis Potosi. The sentence adjudges him guilty of treason and sedition, and his lands and goods are ordered confiscated.

If Madero is controlling the country around Coahuila, as local adherents claim, the Mexican government forces must first rout him before putting sentence into effect.

The authorities here say Madero's followers are dispersed, but the whereabouts of Madero is unknown. They acknowledge that he has not been in Guerrero, where he was reported wounded.

ALL THERE SUNDAY.

With its new octuple press running, its fine five-cylinder, multi-color press once more in working order, and two other great perfecting presses agoing. The Times will be able to restore next Sunday every one of its popular features and departments.

The Times has printed for the past month the biggest Sunday newspaper on earth with the most advertising; but there have been some things lacking, on account of the injury to its equipment by the heartbreaking disaster of October 1.

Gradually, the equipment, typographical, dynamical, art, engraving, stereotyping, printing, and all, has been rehabilitated. The coming week will see The Times able to cope with any mechanical or journalistic emergency. Next Sunday's issue will be a Colossus and a beauty, with nothing worth while left out.

MEXICO.

from along the border of Sonora is that Hermosillo, Guaymas and Mazatlan are quiet. A message from Cananea says that quiet prevails there, where eighty-five soldiers are considered sufficient, forty of the garrison of 125 having been sent to Naco, Ariz.

"The story of revolutionists of Cananea supplying arms and ammunition to Yaqui Indians is nothing but a hoax," declared the Herald correspondent.

PARRAL IS TRANQUIL.

R. J. Marshall, a mining man who was at Parral during the fighting, was among the passengers who reached El Paso today.

"Americans were warned to keep out of it," said Mr. Marshall. "Tom Lawson was killed and Storrey was wounded, but they were hit by stray bullets. The official report at Parrall said only four persons were killed, but there were more than that, as I have seen a photograph of ten dead in one spot.

"All is quiet now and no more trouble is expected. It's all over. Business is going on as usual."

M. F. Chaffin, a mining man from the neighborhood of Zacatecas, reported that there had been no trouble in that vicinity.

WANT REVOLT REPORTS DENIED.

C. M. Newman of El Paso was another passenger who returned home today. He declared that American residents of Chihuahua had signed a public statement requesting the press associations to deny reports that there has been fighting at Chihuahua. Mr. Newman did not have a copy of the statement but quoted one line as follows: "There has never been a disturbance of any nature in the city of Chihuahua."

J. L. Vaughn, station master of the Mexican Central at Moctesuma, in the State of Chihuahua, arrived today on business and reported to the railway officials that quiet prevailed in Moctesuma and vicinity.

"The looting of isolated ranches and stores," he said, "has had the effect of creating a welcome for the soldiers. The arrival of the latter has served to impress the people, by contrast, with the security which they have enjoyed for many years under President Diaz."

H. J. Collins of this city received a telegram today from his nephew, W. C. Stewart of Madero, stating that the town is quiet. Troops were started for the city, the telegram states, but insurrectionists wrecked the train near San Andreas, killing ten soldiers, three women and a baby. Mr. Stewart's story of the wreck is confirmed by Superintendent Rutledge of the railroad (Mexico Northwestern.) Mr. Rutledge added that wires were cut, but states that no bridges were blown up, as had been reported. Mr. Stewart, in his telegram, states that troops are not now needed.

MEXICAN REVOLUTION NOTHING BUT A FAKE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Arthur E. Stilwell, president of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway, declared today that the "Mexican Revolution" was a pure "fake," concocted largely by persons who had interests to serve.

"Inside of ten days you will forget that you ever heard of it," he said.

"I have telegrams from my agents at Zacatecas where five hundred were supoesd to have been killed saying that nothing of the kind occurred. My agent at Torreon says that place did not fall. From Chihuahua I have a message saying that all is peaceful."

Command of Statistics Too Much for Experts.

Goes on Stand in Railroad Rate Hearing.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—A Baltimore economist, still in his 'teens, took the stand at today's session of the rate increase hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Henry C. Barlow, of Chicago, director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and former president of the Evansville and Terre Haute railroad, and traffic manager of the Wisconsin Central; Ezra E. Williamson, of Cincinnati, commissioner of the Receivers & Shippers' Association of that city, for sixteen years associated with the Queen & Crescent route, and B. B. Burgunder, of Baltimore, nineteen years old, whose command of railroad stock statistics headed off cross-examination, were the day's witnesses.

Burgunder was put on the stand to testify as to his own statistical computations concerning the "rights of stockholders." Within a minute he had the members of the commission poring over copies of his tables and all the counsel listening to his analytical interpretations of the figures.

SHOE CONSUMERS PAY.

Mr. Barlow believed in horizontal increase in rates, if any were necessary, which he was not willing to concede. He thought iron and steel and coffee and sugar should help bear the burden that the carriers purposed to place on the public. His position was that the increases were discriminatory, and that the shippers of those articles which were affected by the increases had already paid their pound of flesh.

Mr. Barlow's declaration that any increased freight rate always fell on the consumer was questioned by Chairman Knapp who asked the witness how he figured that an increase of less than five mills on a pair of shoes "when the increase of freight rates promised general prosperity" would be reflected on the prices of shoes a man wore.

Mr. Knapp explained that he recently had been shown some figures regarding shoes wkhich he had verified. The manufacturer had increased his price fifteen cents a pair, the retailer forty cents a pair, under a requirement from the manufacturer and owing to the freight increase.

PERKIN'S NAME BOBS UP.

Mr. Barlow said that when a manufacturer shipped one hundred thousand cases of shoes, probably on three or four per cent. profit, and a 15 per cent. rate increase was imposed on him, he probably would raise his price ten cents a pair. Then the retailer would increase the price to the consumer.

While discussing the packing-house products rates Mr. Barlow again brought the name of Geo. W. Perkins of the J. P. Morgan Company of New York into the argument.

Mr. Barlow said he understood Mr. Perkins agreed with the packers on an advance of only one half of what had been proposed.

"Did he purport to represent the railroads, the beef shippers, or any one else?" demanded Frank Lyon, attorney for the commission.

"I don't know," replied the witness.

"I am told Mr. Perkins came as a representative of Mr. Morgan as a peacemaker between the packers and the railroads."

RAILROADS PROSPERING.

Ezra Williamson filed a mass of memoranda replete with figures intended to show the immense strides the railroads had made in the direction of filling the pocketbooks of those controlling them. He referred particularly to two arms of the Pennsylvania system, the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago, and the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis.

He cited figures which he said showed the excessive earnings of the Ft. Wayne road and said both roads revealed a splendid condition of credit, quite up to the 7 per cent. standard fixed by President McCrea, of the Pennsylvania, and President Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio. Mr. Williamson declared emphatically the railroads did not need any advance in rates.

MILLIONAIRE BROKER DYING.

Richard T. Wilson, Head of New York Banking Firm and Once Wall Street Power, Near Death.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Richard T. Wilson, head of the firm of R. T. Wilson and Company, bankers and brokers, financier of the old school and one of the most powerful influences in Wall street in former years, is at the point of death at his home, No. 511 Fifth avenue. Two doctors are in constant attendance and the members of his family have been sent for.

Mrs. Wilson, who died nearly three years ago, was known as the "great American matchmaker." One daughter of the Wilson family is Lady Michael Henry Herbert, wife of a former British Ambassador to the United States. Another is Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and the third is Mrs. Ogden Goelet.

DEEPER.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Frank B. Harriman, John M. Taylor and C. L. Ewing, former officers and employees of the Illinois Central Railroad, and Joseph E. Buker were indicted today by the Cook county grand jury for conspiracy in connection with frauds said to have been practiced against the railroad. Two accounts in the blanket indictment also charge operation of a confidence game. Each defendant's bond is fixed at $250,000.

A total of $4,825,650, it is charged, was illegally taken from the Illinois Central Railroad by the four men named, in company with the Osterman Manufacturing Company, the Blue Island Car and Equipment Company, the Memphis Car Company and the American Car and Equipment Company which also are mentioned in the indictment. The loss by alleged fraudulent deals estimated by the present railroad officials was $1,500,000, but the whole amount of transactions with the car repair companies since 1906 (when the alleged illegal conspiracy is declared to have been conceived) is named in the indictment.

Buker, who escaped prosecution when arrests were first made, was indicted on the testimony of Henry Osterman, president of the Osterman Manufacturing Company, who testified that Buker was the go-between who carried the alleged illegal money gained by padding expense bills to the former railroad officials named.

Osterman also said that the four men indicted were stockholders or received a salary as a dividend from his company. Harriman formerly was general manager of the Illinois Central Railroad. Taylor was general-store-keeper, and Ewing was general superintendent.

At the time the alleged repair bill padding was done Buker was superintendent of machinery, remaining in that position until last April.

PARTY LINES FADING OUT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—James J. Hill had a talk today with President Taft. Afterward he had this to say on politics:

"The last election has taught the politicians and the country something valuable—that party lines no longer exist to an important extent, and that men are thinking, voting and acting along independent lines. The demagogue and the agitator have held sway so long that it is really a relief to see the flag of warning that has been hoisted for their benefit.

"I am of the opinion that the demagogue and agitator will go more slowly hereafter when he attacks everything and everybody in sight and merely appeals to the dissatisfaction of the people.

"It is highly probable that in a few years there will be little in the way of party lines in the United States."

WATERWAYS' ASSOCIATION HEAD CRITICISES PRESIDENT.

St. Louis Meeting of Lakes-to-Gulf Association Is Occasion of Political Fight, in Which Lorimer and Deneen Factions of Illinois Republicans Strive for Mastery.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 25.—Charges that President Taft is growing indifferent toward a deeper waterway for the Mississippi River, and contests between States for representation on the committee, enlivened the first session of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterway Convention, held here today.

President W. K. Kavanaugh, of the association, was cheered heartily by the delegates during the reading of his opening address when he declared President Taft has mistaken the sentiment of the nation.

The fight in the Illinois Republican party came to the surface when the delegation went into a caucus to elect a representative on the resolutions committee. Senator Lorimer's friends selected Congressman Rainey for this committee, and Gov. Deneen's followers announced they had chosen Isham Randolph.

When the factions reported, efforts were made to compromise on one man, but without avail, and the scene bordered on a riot. Delegates from other states gathered when Gov. Deneen mounted a chair to still the tumult. The Illinois delegation was prevailed upon to move to a far corner. After an hour of wrangling, it reported that Isham Randolph had been chosen for the resolutions committee, and Congressman Rainey for the nominating committee.

Isham Randolph of Chicago told the convention the waterways question was not a political one. He declared in favor of fighting for the deepest channel obtainable—if not 14 feet, then twelve or nine.

Edward A. Halsey of Chicago took a positive stand in favor of a fourteen-foot channel, saying anyone who did not stand for a channel of that depth ought not to be considered a waterway advocate.

Governor Deneen advised the convention not to assume a defiant attitude in advance of the report of the government engineers, who have completed a survey of the Mississippi waterway project.

Without opposition, Chicago was chosen the next meeting place of the convention.

TEN PRISONERS PAROLED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Ten men sentenced to the United States prison at Leavenworth, Kan., have been released on parole. These are the first releases under the new law providing that a Federal prisoner may be paroled with the approval of the Attorney General, after having served one-third of his sentence.

The department of justice will not make public the home place of the men or the crimes on which they were convicted. Their names are as follows:

Rudolph Bailey, Thomas F. Branch, Doc Killingsworth, Ralph E. Yeices, Angelo Brondo, Wesley A. Martin, Julian J. Klein, William Bresh, Nelson Jones and Edgar J. Summerhays.

Save This Recipe for Colds

The expert doctors' report from the hospital camps in the pine woods of Maine that pine contains the most active agents known to science for the rapid cure of coughs and colds and that the following formula will frequently cure the severest cold in a day's time:

"Mix half pint of good whiskey with two ounces of glycerine and add one-half ounce Concentrated pine compound. The bottle is to be well shaken each time and used in doses of a teaspoonful every four hours." Smaller doses to children according to age. Any one can mix this.

Any druggist has these ingredients or will get them from his wholesale house.

The Concentrated pine is a special pine product and comes only in half ounce bottles each enclosed in a tin top air-tight case, but be sure it is labeled "Concentrated."

Pine as a remedy is as old as civilization. It is frequently mentioned in the Bible.

SNOW IN NORTH CALIFORNIA.

Rains in Valley Counties Bring Joy to Farmers and Continuance Means Money to All.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Snow, wind and rain prevailed throughout Northern California last night and today. In the Siskiyous and as far down as the lower foothills of Shasta county, snow fell. At Truckee, Thanksgiving Day ended with a violent snow storm and over four inches lay on the ground.

Rain fell in Shasta, Trinity and Tehama counties so that the Sacramento and its tributaries have risen perceptibly. The river at Red Bluff and Redding showed a rise of five feet. The rain that has fallen in Butte, Yube, Sutter, Glenn and other valley counties is welcomed by the farmer and orchardist, and a continued downpour will mean fat pocketbooks for the farmers. The miners are also rejoicing.

Plowing with big teams will commence at once in Tehama, and at the big Standford ranch crews are already in the field.

HOLY ROLLERS LOSE CASE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After seven years' litigation, which started from a quarrel in the Holiness church, commonly known as the "Holy Roller" sect, O. A. Rudolph was today given a clear title to the so-called "plunge bath" property, a valuable brick building and business location on South Third street, valued at $25,000.

Some years ago the Holiness church purchased the property and its officers later deeded it to the Metropolitan Church Association of Chicago. This did not please some of the members and they started suit to recover. During the litigation the church association deeded the building and lot to H. T. Besses of San Jose, but he refused to accept it and it was deeded to Harrison Levy, who sold to O. A. Rudolph, the latter risking the title. Today's suit clears the title and gives Rudolph absolute possession.

CONFESSES TO MURDER.

Trenton, N. J., Mulatto Said to Have Admitted Killing of Aged Minister and His Wife.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TRENTON (N. J.) Nov. 25.—John Sears, who was arrested last night on the charge of having murdered Rev. Amzi L. Armstrong, and his wife, at their home in Dutch Neck, Wednesday night, is said to have made a confession.

It is understood that Sears believed that some provision had been made for him in the minister's will, and that he was impatient to receive the bequest.

Sears will be tried for murder in the first degree regardless of any confession. Sears, who is a mulatto, was not much given to associating with negroes. He is, or was, a member of the National Guard, belonging to a company at New Brunswick.

Sears' mother, the housekeeper of the Armstrongs, is still at Dutch Neck, under surveillance.

Mr. Keefe regards the proposed law as the only successful solution of the Chinese coolie labor question.

"While the number of Chinese departing from the country is much larger than the number who find their way into the United States, our information is that fifty per cent. of those now here are here illegally.

"Since the last registration, Chinese who were boys then have grown up and do not at present resemble pictures taken of them as babies, so it is impossible to refute pictorial evidence successfully."

STARTS NEUTRALITY PATROL.

Commander of Department of Colorado Leaves for Mexican Border to Study Situation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Brig.-Gen. Thomas, commanding the Department of the Colorado, passed through the city this morning for Douglass, where he will take personal charge of the neutrality patrol that is to be established by the United States government along the Mexican border. While here the general said:

"This movement is primarily for the protection of American interests in Mexico, which our government is bound to care for. We do not know just how serious the uprising may become, but propose to be ready for any emergency. A portion of the cavalry at Fort Huachuca takes the field today and we have other troops which may be put into action on short notice.

"I am on my way to Douglas and will inspect the situation there and at Naco, and other border towns. At Nogales, where I will be in a few days, I expect to have a consultation with Gen. Torres. You know we can at least talk across the line, if it seems best for each of us to remain in our respective countries."

On the same train with the general was Company B of the Thirteenth United States Infantry from Whipple Barracks, bound for Fort Huachuca, where it will take station at least while the Huachuca cavalry garrison is absent in the field.

While it is improbable that infantry will be needed the three remaining companies at Whipple are being held in readiness.

PEEVED AT WIFE, DEPARTS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frank Foster, an employee of the Friend and Terry Lumber Company of this city, angered because his wife scolded him for staying out in the rain, stole the small fortune of $500 which he and his wife had accumulated to pay off a mortgage, and deserted his wife and two small children last night. The family is practically penniless, only $35 remaining in the house, and Mrs. Foster has gone to the home of her brother at Napa to remain until officers in search for her husband have found him and recovered the money. When Foster returned home last evening he was wet and it was late. His wife suggested dry clothing and asked where he had been. In response, he took the money, left without the usual kiss and has not been heard of since.

SKELETON UNEARTHED.

MURDER MAY BE REVEALED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—Half buried in the ground several miles down the river, the skeleton of a man was found by a ranch hand Wednesday night. The body is believed by Constable William Russell to be that of William Crump, a well known Sacramento man, who mysteriously disappeared several years ago while supposed to be duck hunting. It is the belief of Russell and others that Crump went duck hunting in the marshes and tules along the river and there met his death. Whether he accidentally shot himself or was shot by some one else will be probed by the authorities.

TO RESTORE MISSION.

NATIVE SONS ASKED TO AID.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

MISSION SAN JOSE (Cal.) Nov. 25.—Resolutions requesting the aid and interest of the entire State in the restoration of the old mission San Jose, founded in June, 1797, by the Franciscan friars, Ysidro Baronallo and Augustin Merin, and urging that an electric line, skirting the foothills from Hayward, be built to this place, have been adopted by the chamber of commerce of this community, which is cooperating with the plans of Congressman Joseph R. Knowland to have the Native Son's organization take hold of the restoration project. The old mission, now slowly crumbling to pieces, with the historic gravestones in its burial grounds tumbled to the earth, was the cradle of Alameda county, for, when it was established at the close of the eighteenth century, there was not a single white man living in the entire county.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

STOCKTON, Nov. 25.—Last night, for the third time within a year, burglars entered and robbed the Spencer Millinery store of this city, owned by W. J. Spencer of San Jose. Over $800 worth of plumes and $400 worth of silks were secured, the robbers even clipping plumes from hats in the show windows, which were lighted and in view of the street.

WIDOW HOLDS DEED.

DISPUTES CHILDREN'S CLAIMS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Johanna Deckenbach, widow of Joseph Deckenbach, whose property in Portland is reported to be claimed by children residing in Orange, N. J., denies that the children have any rights of claim in the property left by her husband in this city. Mrs. Deckenbach holds a deed to the property made in her favor by Mr. Deckenbach many months before his death four years ago. The property is valued at $75,000. The only other property left by her husband was about $3600 in cash. The court apportioned this money equally between Mrs. Deckenbach and her five stepchildren, but Mrs. Deckenbach claims she gave her share to the children.

BABY FOR SALE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICO (Cal.) Nov. 25.—Mrs. N. Phillips, under arrest charged with stealing a horse and buggy, has offered a baby for sale. Mrs. H. R. Anderson of Sacramento has made the first bid, which is $5.

In a letter to Probation Officer J. M. Glenn, Mrs. Anderson says she will give this amount for the baby, and claims to know its mother, a girl who she says disappeared from Sacramento several months ago.

Mrs. Phillips was arrested shortly after leaving Chico, it being alleged that she had stolen two or three different rigs in Northern California. She had the child with her at the time.

Mrs. Anderson saw a newspaper account of the child offered for sale and decided she would adopt it.

Trouble in Big Chunks Starts When Episcopalian Weds Disciple of Utah Prophet and Reno Courts Sever Tie Supposed to Last Until Death Parts Unhappy Twain.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Because his wife was a Mormon and he was an Episcopalian, Ernest H. B. Smith had trouble right off the reel with Rose F. Smith, when he married her in September, 1904. Wed at Portland, Or., it was only a short time when Mrs. Smith insisted on taking a trip back to San Bernardino to see her sister, he testified. She refused to go north again, however. Finally he went down to San Bernardino and worked there a while, after which he secured a position at Bakersfield. She went there for a while but didn't like the desert country and went back to her family.

On September 2, 1907, they were living at Pomona, Cal., and Mrs. Smith was using her wits to get her husband to embrace the Mormon faith. He refused and she threatened to leave him and go back to her sister. Then he put his foot down and told her to choose between him and the sister, and she did. She chose the latter. They divided their furniture and property and she went away for good. He wrote to her often to come back but there was no answer.

Smith testified to all of this on the witness stand and became quite nervous while so doing. In fact he broke down and wept after he left the courtroom. He was granted his decree, however, by Judge Orr on the ground of desertion.

HEIRS FIGHT TRUST COMPANY.

Rudolph and Claus Spreckels Want Concern Removed From Control of Oceanic Steamship Line.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—Before Judge Murasky today a demurrer was argued to the petition of Rudolph and Claus A. Spreckels, executors of the estate of the late Claus Spreckels, to remove the Union Trust Company as trustees for the Oceanic Steamship Company.

It was contended by Attorney E. S. Heller that by the term of the original deed of trust the court could remove the trustees only after it was shown by the petitioners that the property was in danger of being wasted or lost. The attorney argued also that misconduct on the part of the trustees must be set forth specifically by the recitation of actual acts and not by insinuations. He declared that the pleading of the original petition was incomplete because it did not allege any violation of the deed of trust.

Two million dollars is the value of the property held by the Union Trust Company.

COURT DIVORCES ROCHESTERS.

Reno Tribunal Grants Decree to Rochester, N. Y., Physician Who Says Wife Drank to Excess.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prying about in the home of friends, where they stayed after their honeymoon, Mrs. Mary Thomas Rochester came across some blackberry brandy. She drank it and her husband, Dr. Hayden Rochester, was summoned. That began the troubles of the Rochesters of Rochester, according to the physician, who was awarded a decree of divorce today on the grounds of habitual drunkenness and cruelty. Dr. Rochester testified that his wife raided his office, spilled his medicines and broke his instruments. She also threatened his life on several occasions, he said. The Rochesters were married in July, 1906.

Party of Four Pinned for an Hour Under a Capsized Machine and Only Driver Loses Life.

FRESNO (Cal.) Nov. 25.—John Gardner is dead and Josie Kuge, Mrs. Gladys Harrel and Charles Tanner are all seriously hurt, following a wild plunge of an automobile in which they were riding at an early hour this morning, into an irrigation ditch, three miles from this city. The machine capsized, pinning all four of the occupants underneath. They lay in this condition for an hour before their cries attracted passersby, and help was summoned from this city by telephone.

Gardner was driving the machine and failed to make a sharp turn on the road on the approach to a small bridge. It is not believed any of the others will die.

San Francisco Dressmaker Who Seeks Divorce Alleges Angeleno "Kicked" on Her Food.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the last three years Robert J. Montgomery, a former real estate agent in San Francisco, now engaged in the same business at Los Angeles, has bought his wife, Mrs. Edith Montgomery, only one pair of stockings and no othe wearing apparel, according to her application for divorce filed today. For two years, she alleges, most of the time food for their table has been purchased from funds she earned at dressmaking.

Until three months ago, Mrs. Montgomery says, her husband made himself "at home" at the family table and even complained because she did not have the season's delicacies.

Since going to Los Angeles, the wife says, Montgomery has not sent her a single dollar for the support of herself and their two children.

Their home is on Point Lobos avenue, and the complaint avers it was mainly paid for by herself, and she therefore asks that it be given to her with custody of their children. She does not ask alimony.

Millions of Dollars Involved in Lemons Alone.

Secretary of Treasury Studying Remedial Plans.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Flint who has long been agitating the question of new regulations for the administration of the amount of rot in fruit imported into this country, with a view to ascertaining how much the importers may draw down as tariff rebate on such rotten fruit, has had several interviews since his return from Europe with Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and has learned that the Secretary has under consideration three different plans for establishing the amount of rebate to be granted.

It has already ben authoritatively published that the importers of lemons have received rebats estimated to be millions of dollars in excess of the amounts they are lawfully entitled to. It is admitted by Secretary MacVeagh that some changes must be adopted but he has not quite decided which plan is the best. He is considering one plan submitted by the New York Custom House where the greater part of the trouble has occurred; one by a committee of experts, of whom two are to be in the employ of the Treasury Department, and still another plan.

Senator Flint will have a conference in a few days with G. Harold Powell, who has accepted the position of secretary and manager of the Citrus Protective League, and who will resign early next year from the position he now fills as assistant and acting chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture. The outcome of this conference may have an important bearing on the question.

STATES TO SHARE MELON.

WEST REAPS FOREST REVENUE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Nineteen States will participate in the 25 per cent. division of national forest revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, according to a bulletin issued by the Forest Service today. The State's portion, which is for road and school purposes, amounts to $506,194, an increase of $67,492, or slightly more than 15 per cent. over the amount distributed last year. Montana, with $83,678, leads the list; Idaho is second with $66,074, and California with $60,753 is third. Heavy increases are shown in some of the States over the amounts of last year. In Oregon, the increase is about 50 per cent.; Idaho, 35 per cent.; California, 23 per cent. These increases, it is declared, are the result of increased activity in national forest timber sales. The purpose of the payments is to offset losses of income from taxes sustained through withdrawal of forest lands.

PLAN GUARD FOR BIG TREES.

FIRE PROTECTION ADVOCATED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A fire guard, 150 feet wide, around the Mariposa big tree grove is the plan of the Interior Department officials to protect it from fire. Last summer the grove was seriously menaced twice. It is estimated the cutting down of trees and removal of shrubbery will cost $10,000, and Congress will in all probability be asked to provide the amount. The disastrous fires in the West have brought to Federal officials here a new realization of the need of fire protection and a cleared circle around the Mariposa grove is strongly advocated.

BUTTER TUB IN FEATHER BED.

QUEER INCIDENT UP BEFORE SUPREME COURT.

Decision in Case Will Have Far-reaching Effect on Retail Trade in Oleomargarine—Is It a Crime to Possess Original Package With Uncancelled Revenue Stamp.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Out of the incident of a butter tub in a feather bed may be evolved by the Supreme Court of the United States the law of the land relative to the retail trade in oleomargarine.

Some months ago John A Ripper of St. Louis, Mo., who possessed a retail dealer's license to sell oleomargarine, was suspected of violating the oleomargarine act of Congress of 1886.

Revenue officers searched his residence. Upstairs in a feather bed was found an empty oleomargarine tub. It was alleged that the tax-paid stamp on the tub was intact, in violation of the law. Mrs. Ripper said she had put the tub in the bed when she saw the officers in the house. Why she did it she did not know.

Ripper was indicted on a charge of having in his possession an empty oleomargarine package, "the tax-paid stamp upon which he had wilfully neglected and refused to destroy."

He was also charged with having sold to the Post Hospital at Jefferson barracks, an army post, twenty-four pounds of oleomargarine when it was alleged that the law limited him in such sales to ten pounds. He was convicted on both charges and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. He has appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States to review his case. Its decision as to granting a review is expected next Monday.

On his behalf it is claimed that the act of Congress may make it an offense to empty an oleomargarine tub without destroying the stamp thereon, but it does not make it an offense to have a tub with an undestroyed stamp upon it in one's possession. It is also claimed that a retail dealer may sell more than ten pounds of oleomargarine at one time to a customer.

LEGISLATOR-ELECT MISSING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Somewhere down in Mexico, enveloped by the rebellion against President Diaz, is Noble B. Judah, Jr., who has just been elected a member of the Illinois Legislature. Fears for his safety have been excited because of inability to communicate with him by telegraph since last Saturday. "The last word I had from my son," said Noble B. Judah, Sr., "was last Saturday when he wired me at some length that he was about to go to Chipancingo, in the State of Mexico. He said that a company of rurales was patrolling the neighborhood which at that time was quiet, although published reports were that the rebellion was spreading in that direction. He promised to wire from Chilpancingo but did not do so and I have received no word to several inquiries. While I do not suppose there is cause for worry, I cannot help being anxious."

ENGINEER DIES AT THROTTLE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

RACINE (Wis.) Nov. 2.—The lives of 200 passengers on train No. 6 on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, bound to Chicago, hung in the balance yesterday when Michael Crowley, the engineer, was stricken with apoplexy at his post and died while the train was running at the rate of forty miles an hour. The fireman, noting that his engineer did not sound signals for crossings, called to Crowley, and receiving no answer, went to the engineer and found him dead. The fireman stopped the train and backed into Corliss, where the body was removed and another engineer was obtained to run the train.

TRAIN MAKES WORLD'S RECORD

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—What is declared by railroad officials to be a world's record in transporting a train of orchard products more than half way across the continent was set yesterday when the National Apple Show special train of sixteen cars, pulled into the yards from Spokane, Wash., having covered 1949 miles in sixty hours and five minutes, an average of 32¾ miles an hour, exclusive of stops. The train left Spokane at 8:30 o'clock the morning of Nov. 21, carrying 2,0000,000 apples, which will be exhibited in the First Regiment armory next week. It arrived in Chicago at 8:35 yesterday morning.

JAIL MORE WOMEN THAN MEN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—There are seventy-eight women in Chicago who have been in the Bridewell (house of correction) twenty-five times. There are forty-four who have been imprisoned there fifty times. There are twelve who have served sentences in the institution at least 100 times. As for the men, there are only twenty-six who have been locked up there more than fifty times and only three who have been committed to the institution more than 100 times. Superintendent John L. Whitman is unable to account for the contrast between the records of the sexes, but he published them yesterday in the annual report of the Bridewell for 1909. He also includes other statistics, showing the great majority of women gave as their occupations the different branches of domestic employment, with domestics in the first rank. These figures were based on the statements of 11,098 male prisoners and 1457 female prisoners during the year

BOMB-MAKERS IN LAW'S TOILS.

Chicago Detectives End Chase of Six Months.

Arrest Man Who Supplied Labor Unions.

Spectacular Raid Made on River-bank Hut.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the arrest of George Benedict today, after a sensational raid on his cabin on the banks of the Desplaines River, half way between Summit and Argo, detectives of the Chicago Telephone Company have captured, they say, the man who has manufactured for labor unions and warring gamblers' factions many of the bombs exploded in Chicago in the past several years.

Benedict is alleged to be an ex-convict and the leader of a desperate gang of wire thieves who have stolen thousands of dollars worth of wire from the Sanitary District, from the telephone company, and from various railroads within the past two years. He was arrested after a search of six months, marked by the raiding and subsequent burning of a cabin near Lyons, which had been used by the gang as headquarters.

On June 9, when the raid on the Benedict cabin in the underbrush near Lyons was made, eleven rifles, large quantities of powder, pliers and other instruments used by wire thieves were confiscated. Four men alleged to have been associated with Benedict were arrested, but the leader escaped. The cabin was burned.

For almost six months officers of the Sanitary District continued their search for Benedict, and a week ago they were joined by detectives of the telephone company. The day before Thanksgiving the man was traced, and today was decided upon as the day for the raid.

Stealing up from the rear of Benedict's cabin, which is hidden away in dense bushes so that only a tattered flag which flies from a staff on the roof is visible, the raiders found their man sound asleep in his bunk, in blissful ignorance of the presence of those who have hunted him for days. His old pointer dog, Nell, lay curled up asleep within a few feet of her master's bed. John Murphy and Walter Sukrau, workmen employed by Benedict, were arrested before the cabin was entered.

The cabin in which Benedict lived was unique. Hidden away as it was in a veritable cane-brake so dense that, except for the flag, no part of the building was visible to passers-by on the Summit road, the majority of the farmers in the vicinity were unaware of the building's presence.

Within were found two shotguns, a hatchet or two and four razors.

WOMEN BEAT ERRAND BOY.

Portland Youth Causes Arrest of Females Who Wield Clubs and Set Dog Upon Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Joseph Van Coelen, an errand boy employed by the Vienna Cleaning and Dye Works, was assaulted in the Eagle House, No. 22½ North Third street, this morning by two women, when he went there to deliver a package, because he says, he insisted on collecting the charges in advance. After being mauled over the head with clubs, a bull dog was set upon him as he was running away. The dog leaped for his throat but caught his right arm, severely tearing the flesh.

For five minutes the boy fought desperately with the vicious brute until with difficulty it was beaten off. Van Coelen reached the police station bleeding from a dozen wounds and with his head cut and lacerated.

After his wounds had been dressed by a surgeon Deputy Dist. Atty. Hennessy took him in charge and complaints were filed against the women. Mrs George Simpson and Mrs. Charles Oswald. They were arrested at once and the dog was also taken to the police station.

BOYS BARE DYNAMITE PLOT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The finding of nineteen sticks of dynamite at Forty-eighth avenue and West Diversey boulevard early today led the police to believe that a plot to blow up a building would be revealed by an investigation. Twelve detectives were set to work in an effort to arrest the persons who planted the explosives.

The police believed the dynamite was intended for use in blowing up the plant of the Federal Steel Fixture Company, No. 4549 Homer street. The concern, it was said, has experienced labor troubles and was involved in the strike of the Peoria steel wire works.

Edward Thompson, 16 years old, No. 1833 North Fortieth avenue, and several companions found the dynamite under a culvert while at play. Young Thompson notified his father, Oscar Thompson, who made an investigation and then reported the mystery to the Cragin police.

Experts were called in by the police. They found that the sticks contained 60 per cent. nitroglycerino and 40 per cent. clay compound, making them highly explosive.

LAUGHS AT DEATH SENTENCE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

AUBURN (Cal.) Nov. 25.—For the murder of J. M. Chatteau at Roseville last May, Michael Leahy was sentenced today by Superior Judge Prewett to be executed on February 8. After the sentence was pronounced, Leahy smiled and chatted with his attorney. He had previously told the sheriff that he intended to be game to the end, and said that if hanged he would return in the spirit and be avenged on those who had prosecuted him.

The murder of Chatteau was an especially atrocious crime. Leahy, who was infatuated with Mrs. Chatteau, secreted himself in the woodshed of his victim's home and when Chatteau came for kindling wood shot him and crushed his skull with an axe.

MEXICO GIVES JUSTICE.

John Cook, American Conductor, Is Acquitted of Charge of Robbing Freight Train.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

EL PASO, Nov. 25.—John A. Cook, the American railroad conductor whose case attracted so much attention a year ago, has been acquitted by Judge Ramirez at Guadalajara, Mex., of the charge of complicity in robbing freight cars on the main line of the Mexican Central.

Cook and his crew were arrested because his train was robbed while en route to Guadalajara. His Mexican train crew were released on bonds, but Cook was held in jail so long that American railroad men petitioned the Secretary of State at Washington to intervene and threatened reprisals on Mexicans in this country unless Cook got bond.

The Mexican judge, in the course of the trial, made a trip over the railroad in the role of conductor while court employees assumed the rple of the robbers. The judge was unable to detect the men who committed the "robbery" and on this testimony released Cook, who has now been restored to duty on the Mexican National Railway.

New York Judge Issues Warrant for Writer Who Omits to Answer Forgery Charge.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Broughton Brandenburg, who had at one time something of a reputation as a magazine writer, has jumped his bail again. A bond of $750 upon which he was released from the Tombs last July, was declared forfeited by Judge Rosalsky today and a bench warrant for Brandenburg's arrest was issued.

The difficulty which put Brandenburg in the Tombs was a forged check for $25. Hugh Logan, an editor, inadvertently cashed the check and had Brandenburg arrested. Emilo d'Blazio of No. 1118 Intervale avenue, Bronx, is the bondsman.

Brandenburg's lawyer, George McDonald, said in court today that he hoped to have Brandenburg on hand Monday.

Gardiner's counsel told the court today that the Governor of Virginia had agreed to hear the prisoner's defense before signing the requisition papers and that an affidavit would be presented him showing that the man in Seattle, whose name Gardiner is charged with having forged, acknowledged the alleged forged signature to be genuine.

Gallagher, it is said, will be arraigned on Thursday next, when his counsel will enter a plea of insanity.

DEPORTATION MEANS DEATH.

CHICAGO HUMANITARIANS AID YOUNG RUSSIAN.

Flees Native Land to Escape Service in Czar's Army and Lands in America Lacking Cash to Be Acceptable as Immigrant — Brother Will Supply Funds.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Chicago and New York humanitarian organizations joined hands yesterday to save from deportation a young Russian whose brother lives in this city. Interest was excited in the case because of the fact that his return to Russia will be equal to a sentence of death—to be shot as a deserter—he having fled over the border into Austria and thence to America, in order to escape service in the army, to which he had been called.

Several telegrams that arranged the programme of succor were exchanged during the day between the Hebrew society of New York, represented by I. I. Lipitsch and Alexander D. Scelenfraund of this city, secretary of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith. Haste was necessary because of the government's threat to immediately deport the immigrant, who is being detained at Ellis Island.

Wolf Izwascikow, who in Russia lived near the city of Magiloff and is an expert furrier, is the young man who faces deportation. Word of his plight reached his brother, H. I. Zwascikow, a tailor, who lives in Chicago.

The message came in a telegram from Lipitsch of the New York Hebrew Society, who stated that the government had ordered the deportation of the Russian, who was without the minimum amount of money required to distinguish him from a prospective public charge. The immigrant, the telegram said, had lost the address of a brother-in-law residing in Brooklyn, who was to have supplied him with funds and thus enable him to land.

The young man's brother in this city will help supply the funds to release him from Ellis Island.

ZION CITY'S MORALS BUMPED.

Grand Opera "Plays" Town; Prima Donna Smokes Cigarettes; Oysters Are Sold and Football Played.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WAUKEGAN (Ill.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Zion City is just recovering from several distinct moral shocks. The first came Wednesday night when a grand opera troupe "played" the city. The good people had hardly settled to be entertained when some one detected the odor of cigarettes and it was found the prima donna was indulging in the dream sticks. Then a protest was registered. The second shock came with the discovery that one T. D. Nowell was actually selling the forbidden oysters in the city. Shock number three came when an actual football game was played, during which a player broke his collarbone. These things will not be possible when Voliva secures absolute control.

King Alfonso's Aunt Surprises Belgians by Comment on Success of Portuguese Revolution.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BRUSSELS, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Much comment has been caused by an incident that occurred at a dinner given the American legation in this city. The Infanta Eulalia, aunt of King Alfonso of Spain, remarked to an American official who sat by her side: "New Portugal is going to prosper. Spain will have to come to it."

BURNS APPEARS HERE.

Mayor Sees Detective and Pays Him Large Sum for Services in Seeking the Dynamiters.

After a disappearance of over a month, William J. Burns, the San Francisco detective employed by Mayor Alexander to aid in the capture of the criminals who dynamited the Times Building on the morning of October 1, has been heard from.

The Mayor admitted yesterday that he had seen the detective Tuesday morning and that he had paid him a large sum for his services and expenses up todate.

"I heard from Burns," said the Mayor," and received his assurance that he has made much progress towards the arrest of the person or persons responsible for the explosion. He has followed leads all over the country, and his work, according to what I have learned, is approaching real results.

"Burns is sure that the explosion of the Times Building was caused by a high explosive and the testimony he has accumulated bears on the authors of this explosion."

Further than this the Mayor would not say.

The Mayor remained at his home last Tuesday morning, and it was then that he heard from Burns. He will not deny that the detective came to the city incognito and visited him that morning. He says Burns has had a representative here ever since he began his work, and that this representative has regularly reported to him.

After the conference Tuesday morning a demand was passed by the Council in favor of the Mayor for $5000 against the emergency fund of $25,000 appropriated to the Mayor's discretionary use October 1, only a few hours after the terrible disaster. This is the second demand on the fund, the first being for $1000. The Mayor declined to say how much of this amount Burns had received.

Burns worked in the limelight on the San Francisco conspiracy among the laborites, in which the indentity of "Cocky" Schmidt, Brice and Caplan was established as the trio that bought the dynamite, until October 19. He disappeared from San Francisco on that date. Later it was learned that he had investigated Caplan's life in Portland, but since then his journeys have not been disclosed. The Mayor's statement that he has been in many places in the country seems to confirm the belief that he left San Francisco last month to follow a clew that led to Jacksonville.

PROMOTER BARKS UP WRONG TREE.

Speculator Is Convicted in Superior Court of Getting Watchmaker's Savings for Fake Investment. Confesses He Spent Part of It for Grocery Bill and Rent.

W. H. Jay, a mine promoter and speculator of this city, was convicted before Judge Willis of the Superior Court last night of obtaining money under false pretences. The amount involved is $500, which Jay is alleged to have obtained from G. W. Robbins, an aged watchmaker, residing at No. 5938 Pasadena avenue, who testified that Jay, through a series of specious promises and misrepresentations concerning what is known as the Baxter mine, located at Tecopa, Inyo county, secured taht sum from him.

Jay claimed that he had purchased the mine from John Baxter, paying therefore $30,000 in gold; that he had been offered $75,000 for the property by J. Ross Clark; that there were 500 tons of ore nearly ready for shipment, and that a fat dividend check would be forthcoming in about sixty days.

Robbins and other witnesses stated it was afterward discovered that Jay did not own the mine at all; that he had never purchased it of Baxter; that there was no ore on the dump, and that J. Ross Clark had not offered him $75,000 or any sum for the mine. Robbins declared that he purchased 5000 shares of the capital stock of the company, giving Jay a check dated June 3, 1909, on the First National Bank of this city.

J. Ross Clark testified Jay had called upon him in regard to making an investment in the property, and he had told him that he had all he could attend to and made him no offer at all for the mine. It was also shown that none of the representations of Jay in regard to the property were true.

In his own behalf Jay testified that he had not misrepresented the mine to Robbins, that his information in regard to its richness had been secured from those who pretended to know all about the property. He claimed that if Robbins got a wrong impression from what he had told him about the investment, there was no one to blame but himself.

Deputy District Attorney North asked Jay what he did with the money that he had obtained from Robbins. His reply was: "I paid my grocery bill, my office rent, and spent the balance buying stuff for the mine." The jury retired at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and brought in the verdict four hours later.

NEW MEMBERS' DINNER.

Young Men's Christian Association Entertains Recruits Who Helped Reach the Zenith.

The board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association entertained about 200 persons at the New Members' Dinner, given in the association building last night. During the progress of the dinner Prof. Miller rendered several numbers on the harp, and a bunch of boys from the gymnasium gave an exhibition of tumbling and pyramid work.

A. B. Cass, first vice-president of the association, acted as toastmaster and introduced C. A. Parmelee and E. C. Lyon, who were at the head of the recent membership campaign, when the roll was boosted to 5200 members, each of whom welcomed the guests on behalf of the board.

Arthur Letts, president of the association, spoke on the subject of the recent convention at Toronto. Speaking of the international convention, Mr. Letts said:

"I want that convention to come to Los Angeles. I can almost say I would give anything I possess to bring it here, not for the dollars and cents, but for the good it will do."

D. E. Luther, general secretary, spoke on the same subject, giving something of the spiritual side of the convention at Toronto.

A. J. Wallace, Lieutenant-Governor-elect, and vice-president of the association, delivered an enthusiastic address on the Young Men's Christian Association as "A Community Asset."

It is proposed to make a careful monthly review of the membership roll, in order that it may be kept in its place as a world-leader without the great labor of an annual campaign.

At the close of the banquet L. B. Jones, president of the Five Thousand Club, presented a gold watch-fob to William Behr, he having won it by bringing in the largest number of new members in the recent campaign. President Letts then announced that as the membership has now passed the 5000 mark, the name of the club will be changed to "The Seventy-five Hundred Club," and Mr. Jones will be continued as its president.

At the solicitation of the members of the colored branch of the Y. M. C. A., on San Pedro street, Mr. Letts has consented to address them at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, on the subject of the Toronto convention.

WANT PROMISE KEPT.

REJECTS BOARD'S FERRY PLAN.

SAN PEDRO INSISTS CONTRACT BE CARRIED OUT.

Citizens in Meeting Pass Resolutions Turning Down Proposal to Operate Boats by Private Company. Exact Terms of Pledge and Nothing Less Will Do.

The Board of Public Works unhesitatingly granted permission to a committee of citizens of San Pedro yesterday afternoon to use the San Pedro City Hall last night to "roast" the board for its programme on the municipal ferry. The San Pedro citizens were represented by Messrs. Allen and Sepulveda, and when permission was given, W. M. Humphreys, a member of the Board of Public Works, told them to turn their fire under him and not on the rest of the city administration.

One of the consolidation promises was a municipal ferry between San Pedro and Terminal Island and Wilmington with a two cent fare. The mass meeting last night was to demand the keeping of that promise and nothing less.

Humphreys explained that the present purpose of the board to contract with a private company to furnish boats and give conditional two-cent fares was keeping that promise, as far as the board could do so.

Two ferry boats of the kind required for such service would cost $30,000 to construct and operate, Humphreys said, and the council had appropriated only $8000. With the money appropriated it was possible to rent boats that would give hourly service and thus give service until larger means should be put in the hands of the board. Humphreys assumed full responsibility for this scheme which he said is the only one that will provide municipal service at all.

Under this service the single fare is to be five cents with two-cent fares on a sixty-day limited ticket and three-cent fares on an unlimited ticket.

The committee notified Humphreys that it wanted to protest against this compromise and wanted the town hall to house its mass meeting to demand full redemption of the pre-consolidation promise.

Wilmington also is in arms against the ferry programme of the board. The Chamber of Commerce has adopted resolutions condemning it and demanding that the board go ahead with the plan of Wilmington that two boats be built and operated. Wilmington asserts the boats may be built at home and operated within the appropriation.

About fifty citizens turned out at the mass-meeting, with W. G. Williams in the chair. A resolution was adopted calling on the city of Los Angeles to carry out its pre-consolidation promise. The citizens wanted that and nothing less. Humphreys' suggestion was turned down, and what was regarded as an evident intention to hedge on a solemn contract was condemned in vigorous language. Some of the speeches sizzled while others mildly conveyed the hope that the agreement would come through. The cry, however, was for a municipal ferry, no matter what it cost to put in operation.

TENNIS CRACKS LOSE HARNESS.

THIEF LIFTS SUITCASES AND THEIR PLAY SUFFERS.

Togs Are Left in Automobile While They Make Purchases and Crook Seizes Opportunity—McLoughlin and Sinsabaugh Appear in Court When Arrest Is Made.

Maurice McLoughlin of San Francisco, and S. M. Sinsabaugh, 945 Grand View street, two of the most prominent tennis players on the Pacific Coast, lost tennis paraphernalia valued at $200 Wednesday evening. They appeared in Police Judge Fredericksen's court yesterday to identify their property and testify against Antonio Torres, arrested by Detectives Beaumont and Roberts, Thanksgiving Day, near First and Los Angeles streets while trying to dispose of the same articles. Torres was held under $1500 bail for preliminary examination on the charge of receiving stolen property.

Both Sinsabaugh and McLoughlin have not been playing up to their usual standards at the Hotel Hollywood tournament, but the secret was not known until yesterday. In their work on Thanksgiving they were considerably off in their driving. Their appearance in Police Court yesterday, however, explaining the loss of their favorite rackets, shoes, and other harness, tells the story.

At the time of the robbery Sinsabaugh, McLoughlin, and other tennis enthusiasts were in Dyas & Cline's sporting goods store making purchases. They had left their suitcases, containing their tennis equipment in an auto at the curb. When they returned to the auto three suitcases were missed.

The matter was reported to the police and Detectives Beaumont and Roberts were assigned to the case, and shortly afterward Torres was arrested carrying two of the suitcases.

The loot was taken to police headquarters, and was later identified by McLoughlin and Sinsabaugh. Torres's preliminary examination was set for December 5.

MORE SIGNS OF GAS.

Manager of the Natural Product Company Confers With Standard Oil Magnates.

The presence in Los Angeles of B. C. Oliphant, general manager of the California Natural Gas Company, and his numerous conferences with the group of Standard Oil magnates staying at the Alexandria, has given new life to the report that this city will soon be supplied with natural gas.

Oliphant, who has been here several days, refuses to discuss the possibility of his company laying a pipe line to Los Angeles and one to San Francisco. He says the company has nothing to give out at present.

It was Oliphant who, when the group of Standard Oil men was making a tour of the oil and gas fields, acted as escort and showed the great posibilities of the development of gas and the feasibility of piping it to the two coast cities.

Shortly after the arrival of the oil magnates the fact that they were tremendously interested in the development of natural gas in California became known. Then the fact that J. C. McDowell of Pittsburgh, the best known gas expert in the United States, had recently gone over these fields and set his approval upon them, and had been in conference with Oliphant, strengthened the belief that there will be noteworthy results.

ON SMILEY HEIGHTS.

Bold Policeman Attempted to Arrest the Noted Owner to His Subsequent Embarrasement.

REDLANDS, Nov. 25.—A. K. Smiley, Redlands' well-known benefactor and owner of the world-famous Smiley Heights, has purchased an automobile and thereby hangs an interesting tale. The machine, a 1911 Cadillac, arrived this morning and Mr. Smiley went down to the garage to accompany the salesman, A. R. Bowen, up to the Smiley home, which surmounts the Heights. The magnificent park of which the Heights consists, was laid out in drives and walks before motors were in common use, so to avoid accidents, an ordinance was passed prohibiting the driving of machines in Smiley Heights. A policeman is employed in the park to see that there is no trespassing in general and no motors in particular get into the park.

This morning as Mr. Smiley accompanied by Mr. Bowen drove through the park the policeman ran for them yelling to stop and waving his billy frantically. Thinking it was all a joke they drove on and the policeman getting in speaking distance still failed to recognize the owner of the premises and shouted, "If you don't stop, I'll shoot your tires full of holes." This brought the motorists to a standstill and then the policeman recognized Mr. Smiley. Explanations followed and Mr. Smiley commended the policeman for his diligence, but the policeman was so embarrassed that he doesn't know yet what was said.

THANKSGIVING IN REDLANDS.

At the Union Thanksgiving services of all local churches held yesterday in the Presbyterian Church, the offering was $137.87, all of which will be turned over to the Associated Charities. The sermon of the day was preached by Rev. C. F. Blaisdell, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church. The annual Thanksgiving dinner served to homeless men and boys by the Young Men's Christian Association last night was attended by sixty-eight men from every quarter of the globe. Seventy girls attended a social given on Wednesday evening by the Young Women's Christian Association.

ELKS TO BUILD.

At a meeting of the Redlands Lodge of Elks held on Wednesday evening it was decided to erect a building on West State and Third streets at a cost of $50,000. A building committee was appointed consisting of the following prominent men: C. M. Brown, chairman; K. C. Wells, E. M. Cope, W. V. Watson, and R. M. Hamilton.

It is the plan of the lodge to erect a modern building, the entire matter of plans being in the hands of the Building Committee, which is also the Finance Committee. It is likely that a company will be formed, stock to be sold among the lodge members. The proposed site consists of 160 feet frontage on State street and is in the immediate neighborhood of the new city hall, the new natatorium and the new theater.

REGULARS SLAPPED IN FACE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Much bitterness has been aroused by the flouting of the local Republican organization in the appointment of the committee of 120 citizens to take charge of the inaugural ball for Gov.-elect Johnson.

The regulars won the primary in this county last August and Curry beat Johnson, but after it was over, the regulars in control of the party machinery indorsed Johnson and claim to have worked faithfully and loyally for his election, but while the county went Republican by 3500 and more this month, Bell beat Johnson by more than 800.

Rather than explain the humiliation of their candidate in his home county on the theory of his personal unpopularity there, his friends have tried to blame it to the lukewarmness of the local organization, and when they went to the Mayor, a Democrat, with a list of 120 citizens to appoint upon the inaugural ball committee, not a single name from the Republican County Central Committee had been included, hence the protest.

SPEED THRILLS AT MOTORDROME.

Fast Motor Cars Tuned for the Piepan Spins.

Barney Oldfield Barred From Fast Board Course.

Thousands Expected to Witness Today's Contests.

Fast motor cars are entered in the piepan meet at the Mortordrome this afternoon, and some of the greatest drivers on the fastest stock cars are to appear. Coming two days after the Santa Monica road race this piepan gathering should draw the fans who enjoy the sensational ninety-mile-an-hour dashes over the boards where so many world records have been made in the past.

Barney Oldfield will not drive. The meet is sanctioned by the Automobile Association of America and Starter Fred Wagner is to send the cars away. The Prince Henry Benz is here, but Oldfield cannot pilot it. The thrills that would come from the work of the speed king who is under contract to drive for the Motordrome may be missed today.

Seventy-five thousand people saw the meet at Santa Monica. There is more interest now in automobile racing than there ever was before. Thousands are expected today at the Motordrome and Manager Walter Hempel has provided for the accomodation of a throng such as witnessed the opening meet eight months ago.

TETZLAFF THERE.

Though Barney Oldfield will not be on the boards in racing trim he is to attend the meet. Teddy Tetzlaff, winner of the big event at Santa Monica, is to be there with his Lozier. He will be introduced to the crowds in the grandstand and will drive a mile or more. He is too tired to take part in a race, and it would be foolish for him to test his strength. He needs and deserves the rest he is having.

The entry list is large. The stock car events, the one-hour race and the other races should be worth watching. The cars are tuned for the speed dashes which are to take the place of the fierce drives of Barney Oldfield.

The board course at the Motordrome is the fastest mile track in the world. Stock car records have been shattered on the piepan, but there is one mark which is held in the East and which the management of the Motordrome hopes will be broken today. This is the twenty-five-mile world championship. There is a possibility that this mark will be made for the Motordrome before the present week is over.

WINS TURKEY.

The rain will help the track. The boards are in good shape and the course is as fast as ever. The oil has been washed from the surface and the practice stunts have shown what the cars can do. There is a possibility that a number of world marks will be broken this afternoon. One of the interesting cars in the small event is the midget Ford. E. Roger Stearns is to drive. Last night Stearns practiced with a rifle and took the bullseye three times in succession, winning a turkey in the trio of straight shots. He expects to send his Ford car with bullet-like speed this afternoon and win its own event.

Joe Nikrent, on the Knox, is the favorite in the big events. The car is a duplicate of the speedy six-cylinder which Oldfield drives. It is good for a 49s. clip and should make a dash around the boards that will supply some of the desired thrills. Nikrent made his mark at Santa Monica by running into third place in the big event.

CROOKS AT BAKERSFIELD.

Gas Pipe Thugs Beat and Rob Two Men, Postoffice Is Cracked—Police Force Insufficient.

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 25.—For the last ten days Bakersfield and surrounding towns have been terrorized by a carnival of crime. Numerous holdups have made it unsafe for men and women to go on the dark streets.

The latest development is a brutal assault on Tom Ommens and Gene Smith last night by two thugs. A gas pipe was used and both men were seriously beaten about the head. They were robbed and left unconscious on the road.

The postoffice at Wasco in the northern part of the county was broken into at midnight Thursday and a small amount of money taken. The thieves were frightened away before the safe could be broken open. Inefficient police service is unable to cope with these holdups and burglaries.

TENNIS DRAWS SMALL CROWD.

SUTTON SISTERS TAKE HONORS AT HOLLYWOOD TOURNEY.

Florence and McLoughlin Have Easy Time Beating Mrs. Widdoson and Young—Play Is to Be Finished Today, When the Finals in All Events Are to Be Completed.

The mixed doubles in which the May Sutton-Winnie Mace and Florence Sutton-Maurice McLoughlin teams were the winners, were played yesterday afternoon in the second series of the Hollywood tennis tournament on the Hollywood Hotel courts. These two teams of winners will play finals this afternoon in the last series of the tourney.

The games played yesterday were closely contested, three sets being necessary to decide the winners in all the matches except one. Florence Sutton and McLoughlin won their match easily, partly because they were fresh and their opponents, Mrs. Widdoson and Gerald Young had already played three long sets to defeat Mrs. Elliott and Wayne. The crowd was small, not more than 200 persons being present on account of threatening sky. The cool weather and cloudy sky made almost ideal conditions for those taking part in the tournament.

Three Sutton sisters, May, Florence and Mrs. Bruce were prominent in the matches and it is doubtful if a faster group of women players than the six who took part yesterday could be gotten together in any section of the country.

The first match between Thomas Bundy-Miss Scott and Mrs. Bruce-S. M. Sinsabaugh was won by the latter, the sets being, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. Bundy was not playing up to his usual form and Sinsabaugh, his opponent made a number of plays that were sensational in the extreme.

While this match was being played the Gerald Young-Mrs. Widdoson team was defeating Mrs. Elliott-Wayne on the other court in the most exciting and closely contested match of the day. The first set resulted in a 7-9 score with each team winning alternate games. Mrs. Widdoson showed remarkable agility, making a number of returns that appeared impossible for a woman of her stature. This match was won by a score of 7-9, 6-4, 6-4.

Mrs. Bruce and Sinsabaugh, the winners of the first match played, May Sutton and Winnie Mace next and last, the scores being 1-6, 6-1 and 4-6. Sinsabaugh played in a remarkable manner at times, but proved inconsistent. Had he maintained the speed he showed during short spurts he would have had no trouble in winning this match, aided by the steady work of Mrs. Bruce, his partner. May Sutton played well, but not in as good form as when the championship title is at stake. In fact none of the matches showed the keen fighting spirit which marks a championship series.

The final match was between Mrs. Widdoson-Gerald Young and Florence Sutton, with Maurice McLoughlin as a partner. This match was all one-sided, the Sutton-McLoughlin team winning by a score of 6-2, 6-0. Mrs. Widdoson showed signs of fatigue in this series which probably helped bring it to so short a finish.

The following drawings have been made for the ladies' singles which will be played at 10 o'clock this morning: Mrs. Bruce, a bye; Mrs. Harvey against Florence Sutton; Mrs. Widdoson against Miss Scott; Miss May Sutton, a bye. Mrs. Bruce will play the winner of the Harvey-F. Sutton match, and May Sutton will play the winner of the Widdoson-Scott match.

This afternoon the finals of all previous series will be played, which will include men's doubles, mixed doubles and ladies' singles, and there will be a special match between Bundy and McLaughlin. These wto are old-time rivals and have about the same records, each having won three matches out of the six played.

Too Much Training.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Broen down by overtraining, James Gody, an athlete, died at his home in Newton, today, at the age of 26. He first gained notice as a high jumped and shot putter, and for three years was the Y. M. C. A. champion.

EXPENSIVE FLYING.

AVIATORS PROMISED RICH PRIZES IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fifty thousand dollars is guaranteed the aviators who compete in the meet proposed for San Francisco in January. This guarantee was made today as a result of a meeting by the Executive Committee. It was also decided that the meet will be held in San Mateo county, close to South City.

Just how the $50,000 guarantee will be divided has not been determined, but the proper committee has been authorized to close contracts under a guarantee basis. Contracts will be made shortly with the Wright Brothers and with Curtiss, Radley of the Royal British Aero Club and Hubert Latham of the French National Aero Club are in this country and they will be negotiated with. This authorization to close contracts and the guarantee of the money is the first definite step taken toward the realization of the hopes of those who are behind the movement to hold the meet.

Lieut. Benjamin Foulis of the United States Signal Corps will be requested to act as judge. He is in San Antonio, where he is conducting experiments looking toward the improvement of the Wright biplane for military purposes.

MARS ALARMS NATIVES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

STOCKTON, Nov. 25.—The crowd that assembled at Oak Park today was thrilled by the daring work of J. C. Bud) Mars, who made good his title of daredevil of the skies. He gave flights that brought forth round after round of applause. By making six spirals over the heads of the spectators, he went up about 1200 feet, and on returning to the ground shut off his motor and made a pretty glide within a few feet of the spectators.

He made a trip over the northern part of the city and surprised the persons who had stayed at home. Owing to the smallness of Oak Park the meet will be transferred to Agricultural Park, race track, where on Sunday Mars will race three miles against Dr. Jacob Sargeant's eighty horsepower automobile; drive his aeroplane three miles against time, and give his dips and dives. Automobile, motorcycle and horse races will fill in the intermissions.

WRIGHTS BESTIR THEMSELVES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Friends of J. Armstrong Drexel of this city, were not disturbed today by the report that the Wright brothers would protest to the Aero Club of America against the official acceptance of the record of Drexel's flight on Wednesday when he established a new world's altitude record for aeroplanes of 9970 feet. The Wrights protest, it is reported, is based on the fact that Drexel's flight was not made in the sight of proper officials of the Aero Club.

Clifford B. Harmon, chairman of the National Council of the Aero Club of America, and James King Duffy of New York, secretary of the Council, who were present when Mr. Drexel made his ascension from Point Breeze, declare that the record will be accepted as official.

The barograph carried by Drexel's monoplane, was tested by a scientific firm of this city previous to the flight and it is declared that no question of its accuracy can be raised.

"The lines on the chart," said Mr. Harmon, "make it fair to presume that Mr. Drexel went up 10,000 feet, but the barograph recorded only 9970 feet and it is idle to give any figures."

AT IT AGAIN.

EACH FIGHTER IS CONFIDENT.

Both Nelson and Moran Are Sure of Victory.

Owen Says Bat Will Take Count for First Time.

Betting Has Been Very Light at Even Money.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—Battling Nelson, after many weeks of the "come back" cure, pulled up in his training today and announced that after his fight with Owen Moran, the British lightweight, tomorrow in Coffroth's open air arena, he would be a candidate for a second engagement with Champion Ad Wolgast.

The former head of the lightweight list is confident of his ability to beat Moran. He has trained for the bout in a business-like manner, regarding this as his one chance for another fight with the man who relieved him of the championship.

Moran did little light work today, laying off after the morning round in the gymnasium and a short walk on the road.

"I have never talked much before my fights," he said to a crowd of admirers today, "but tomorrow I will make Battling Nelson take the count for the first time in his life."

Betting on the fight has not been particularly brisk. The ruling rate is even money. The experts are taking Moran's skill into account against Nelson's ruggedness, and in a twenty-round contest the fight fans seem to have been given a hard problem to solve.

JOHNSON IN BAD AGAIN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Jack Johnson, the negro champion heavyweight pugilist, was arrested today on a warrant issued by Magistrate Fineschi, charged with assault on Emily Cooper, a white girl, who is a member of the theatrical company in which the prize fighter is appearing.

"This thing is a frame-up," said Johnson. "I am going to fight it to a finish and show them that I am no easy mark."

Hack in Form Again.

ROCHESTER (N. Y.) Nov. 25.—George Hackenschmidt, the Russian wrestler, won tonight from Maurice de Riaz, the Franco-Swiss wrestler, in straight falls, the first in 16m. 53s., and the second in 15m. 54s.

Important if True.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—"Cecestus," writing in the London Sportsman of November 18, a copy of which was received today, says he has evidence that Stanley Ketchel, slain middleweight champion, was born an Englishman, and that his real name was Arthur Thomas Wilson, of West Hyde, near Lulon, in Bedfordshire.

Brock Ambitious.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—Phil Brock, of Cleveland, lightweight pugilist, today signed articles to meet Jack Redmond of Milwaukee, and Dan Goodman of Chicago, in ten round bouts. The first match will be fought at Arkon, O., December 8. Four days later, he will meet Goodman near Cleveland. Brock says if he wins these two fights, he will challenge Wolgast for the title and a $5000 side bet.

AGED AUTHOR LABORS.

John Bigelow, 93, Pauses on Thanksgiving and Day After to Receive Congratulations.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John Bigelow, 93 years old, is hard at work finishing a new book. Last week he published a book and a fortnight ago he was busy over the opening of a museum in his honor. Of course, he was much too busy this morning to receive, but this afternoon he knocked off to receive scores of visitors, who call every anniversary to tell him how young he is looking.

The book just out is another onslaught on the tariff, a life-long enemy of the scholar-diplomat. It deals with the latest phases of the high cost of living, but it bears a fine old-fashioned title, "Building Temples of Peace With Untempered Mortar."

The work he hopes to finish soon is the concluding volume of his "Retrospections of a Long Life." Almost the only days the author can find for loafing are Thanksgiving, when he dines with all his family, and the day after, when friends beslege him

WOOLEN IMPORTERS ARRESTED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Three more woolen importers were arrested tonight charged with customs frauds against the Federal government. They are Herman Markowitz, Charles Stern and Edward I. Cohen, of the firm of M. H. Markowitz & Co., dealers in cloaks and suits.

On the arrival at New York from Europe last night of Mme. Louisa Tetrazzini, an opera singer, an injunction was served on the songstress in a suit brought by Oscar Hammerstein to restrain her from singing in this country under any management other

Cal Admits He Did Not Seek Leader in East.

McCredie Slated to Oppose Present Officials.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] J. Cal. Ewing, who has returned from the annual meeting of the minor baseball leagues in Chicago, predicts that Judge Thomas F. Graham and D. W. Long will be re-elected to the presidency and secretaryship, respectively, of the Coast League when the directors convene January 14.

Ewing declares he did not take any steps while in Chicago to secure a man to act as president, secretary and manager of the league, and that he has no one in view to suggest. He declares that will be up to the directors and he has no one in mind.

While it is thought that McCredie of Portland will oppose the election of Judge Graham, it is expected there will be at least five votes in favor of the Californian.

"Personally, Judge Graham is entirely satisfactory to me," said Ewing. "Both he and Long have given efficient service and I think they should be retained."

SAYS BASEBALL IS GREATEST MAN BUILDER.

Father Tells Edward Marshall That It Is Boy's Important Assets — Should Be a Story Public School—Remarkable Analysis of Sport From the Man in the World Who Knows How to Make It.

BY EDWARD MARSHALL.

he learns to read and write. His father played baseball before him, and, of this generation, most of his forefathers. And it is a sport which parents may encourage, for it is neither dangerous nor demoralizing. I never knew a father who played baseball in his youth to object to his son becoming interested in the game. It is a game which mothers need not shrink at mention of. It is our natural as well as our national game.

"The professional baseball player is doing more for his native country than any one engaged in any form of sport has ever done for any country in the past. They say horse racing has resulted in improvements in horse breeding; well, baseball has done something better, it has resulted in improvement in man breeding. Aside from giving outdoor recreation to the public, the professional baseball player is, by his example, encouraging the boy to healthy sport with which not one unpleasant feature is connected. Little gambling is associated with baseball. When the game first started as a professional sport there was an effort made to saddle it with all the gambling features which beset the racetracks—pool selling and all—and from 1870 to say, 1875, the gamblers practically had control of our professional baseball. Every baseball park had its betting ring. This made decent people stay away, and interest in the game fell to a low ebb. Every error made was charged to crookedness upon the player's part, and not always, probably, unjustly. William Hulbert of Chicago had become interested in the game, and I explained all this to him. I was actually afraid the game would have to go. He wanted me to take my winning club on from Boston to Chicago, and I told him that I would if he'd clean out the gamblers, and not otherwise. He said he'd try, and he did try, to mighty good effect. That saved the game undoubtedly, and in the winter of the following year the National League was organized, and has been getting more and more important to the life of all America with the passage of each day since then.

GAMBLING DRIVEN OUT.

"The elimination of the betting evil was the corner-stone of the success of baseball as an exhibition game. The fight against it was a fierce one, last-lasting four or five years. Then we triumphed, and the cleanest game on earth had been established. No betting, no Sunday playing, no liquor sold upon the grounds! It was a revolution in the world of professional sport. Baseball is the only game which suits the mighty populace and yet is wholly free from ties to bind it to the gambling and the liquor-selling element, whose aim it is to victimize that populace.

"That's part of its psychology—it is clean-souled. Another and important part of it is that it is a leveler. That makes it, in the truest sense, American. It is almost, if not exactly, the same game in all parts of the United States, and nowhere is it cursed by caste. Caste may not wreck a sport in countries where caste dominates the social life, but it would surely wreck baseball in this country. That's the finest thing about baseball." Its spectators, once they settle in their seats and glue their eyes upon the diamond, are absolutely equalized by their delight in what they see. The hod-carrier, if his seat so place him as to make it possible, would be pretty apt, in case of a good play, to beat the President upon the back, in his enthusiasm, with a cushion or his hat, and the President would almost surely turn and grin at him. I don't know that that has ever actually happened, but I have known a workingman in jumpers to so lose his memory of social and financial and political rank as to biff thus a grave Senator. It was a fine and a significant spectacle, because—note this—the Senator was not offended. He couldn't clear his mind of frantic joy in time to be offended, and, better yet, he would not have been offended if he could have cleared it."

Right here I ought to explain something. This interview was quite a family affair. Across the room from me sat Mr. Spaulding's nephew—a young scientist— and at my right, upon a couch, was Mrs. Spaulding. She is a fit mate for her classically featured husband. She is really very handsome, has a notably delightful voice—soft, cultured, vibrant—and she does what the "advice to wives" departments in the women's magazines always urge younug wives to do; she takes an interest in her husband's soul-enthusiasms. Interest? Well, some.

TWO CRANKS IN A FAMILY.

"Men at baseball games, all men at baseball games ar brethren, equal sharers in whatever joy or woe or protest the game may bring," said she. "And utterly irreverent. Ban Johnson, the old president of the league, was sitting near us in theh stand, and a man wanted to make a photograph of him. Did the crowd sit awed and reverent? Not notably. That crowd admired Ban Johnson and, in a way, revered him, but the camera man was an obstruction. What a cry went up! 'Too much Johnson! Too much Johnson!' roared instantly unto the vaulted heavens."

Mr. Spalding smiled at her. "Two cranks in a family means domestic bliss, if they are both baseball cranks," he commented, thereby adding to his exposition of the game's psychology.

"Any one who blocked a crank's view of the game would meet with instant criticism," he said proudly. "And if Teddy himself were playing and made an error he'd be roasted by the best friends he possessed upon the bleachers.

"But, in spite of this, baseball is the most good-natured pastime in the world. Partisans will rave and tear their hair, but how often do you hear that one of them has torn another's hair on baseball grounds? In the history of the world no such great crowds have gathered to watch anything the world has ever known—sport or anything else—with so few fights. Baseball, you see, arouses no brutal instincts. It is a turmoil rather than a battle. It is more a war of skill than a war of strength. Football often breeds fierce fights. That game calls for heavy muscles, don't you see, as well as skill and I shall dare some critics when I say that football science is less delicate than baseball science. Brute strength, in one football player, can, and often does, overmaster the pure science of another. In baseball this could not possibly occur.

THE ONE GAME IN THE OPEN.

"The game is in the open, too. Twenty thousand people can cluster round a diamond and see every move the baseball players on it make. There is no chance for secret cheating, therefore there is no tendency in that direction. It is not alone the umpire who can see what happens on the field, but every newsboy, every millionaire among the spectators. In football there is often chance for hidden fouls.

"Professionalism has not wrecked baseball—it has merely brought about a higher degree of skill in players by offering them an income which permits them to keep up, after they have become men, the sport in which they have excelled as boys. The professional is merely a grown boy, and, in the minds of a large number of his fellows, a very lucky boy at that. His profession is his sport a little glorified. He is the natural outcome of the boy's love for the game—ah, how that same boy loves it.

"And it is the only professional sport I know of which it does not hurt a boy to revel in. He worships the professional who wins, and, doing this, he never worships a plug-ugly or a thug. Drunkards and all other moral undesirables are barred from real success upon the baseball field by the very nature of the sport. The men whom the boy 'roots' for are a very decent lot of fellows—such a decent lot of fellows as no other professional sport the world has ever known could show. The professional baseball player, by his example, does not encourage his young devotees to anything unworthy. That's a fine detail of our national sport. Parents need not be alarmed if their young sons announce at breakfast some fine morning that they plan to be professional ball players when they reach maturity. In the first place, out of 500 boys who may express that firm determination, only one, upon an average, will ever make good in a major league, or minor league for that matter, and, in the second place, that one of the 500 will not, by making good, prove himself to be anything at all unworthy. Success as a baseball player does not plunge a youth into a vicious or a dissipated life, but, on the other hand, insures him from that sore of a career.

PROFESSIONALS LUCKY CHAPS.

"Indeed, lucky is the boy who can develop sufficient skill to get a place on a league team. That means a mighty good salary and a pleasant, clean and healthful life. The professional baseball player is no mollycoddle—there are no mollycoddles in the game; but neither is there any room for thugs in it. No training could be more severe than that of the league player. Under the present system of organized baseball, he must conform to the strictest mental, moral and physical discipline and must develop wonderfully in patience, self-reliance, and fair-mindedness. He must keep at the topnotch in all these details of fine character if he would keep position in the game. votees to anything unworthy. That's one of the great requisities of real success in any line. I know of no profession which requires of those who win in it the disposition and ability to do this which baseball requires.

"And for a man to enter baseball as a professional it is not necessary that he should give up all ambition. The professional life of the ball player is at best, but short. It averages, I think, ten years. Let us assume that it absorbs a man from twenty-one to thirty-one. During those ten years he has been building up a splendid body, he has been getting a brain training which will be most useful in almost anything he may decide to round his life out with, and he has been drawing a high salary, without learning how to waste. The expenses of the life are not exhorbitant. A player may well save full half his salary, and if he does he will, when his ball-playing days are over, have sufficient capital with which to begin competently a more serious battle with the world. In what other line can a young man accomplish all these things? I do not know of any. And no matter what business or profession he may enter, it will be easy as compared to the fierce schooling which his early youth has known on the baseball diamond. The psychology of baseball? Why, baseball is a soul builder.

"Now as to the effect of baseball on the mind of the boy player. If a boy is naturally selfish, peevish, or crab-minded, the members of the team he plays with will soon knock that out of him, or drive him from the team. He won't want to leave the team, for baseball, you must remember, is ingrained in his blood. If he is inclined to be hot-tempered the loss of a few games and the respect of his associates as the result, will help mightily toward correcting it. If he is prone to be a cad, to put on airs, to assume a superiority over his fellow-players as a result of the social or financial standing of his family, a little joshing from his fellows on the errors he made upon the field will soon bring him down to earth again. If he is unduly timid and shows cowardice in a pinch, his mates will quickly cure him or eject him. If he is apprehensive, pessimistic—and no trait is more entirely un-American—he will soon lose his place upon the team. The lad who is continually predicting a defeat will not last long in baseball. And the beauty of the thing is that rarely will he let his faults go far enough to bar him from the game—his love of it is too instinctive and too real. Rather will he let the game correct the faults. And there you are. It's a man as well as a soul builder.

"The psychology of baseball? It is the psychology of success.

"I know of nothing which more fitly trains the body, mind, and soul. The game plays havoc with a boy's or man's emotions. In a day the player may well rise to the fine heights of victory and sink to the dark depths of black despair in a defeat. And it must be the one or the other. There is no midway station. The score is five to three. You win or lose, and quickly learn that nothing is accomplished by trying to lay the blame, if defeat comes, upon the umpire or upon your fellow-players. Pleading a sore finger or strained muscle or tendon wins nothing for the vanquished player in his own mind or the minds of his associates. That is a good thing. After many victories and the defeats which are quite certain to go with them, a player must of sheer necessity, achieve self-poise, learn to take winning calmly and lose philosophically. He may well reach that super-point where he looks grave in victory and smiles with hope when he is vanquished.

IMPORTANT IN EDUCATION.

"Baseball has for a long time been youth—far more important than most important in the education of our people think—and it is destined to become still more important. The day will come, I think, when all American school authorities will supply the necessary grounds to play the game on as an essential adjunct to every public school. The game means countless benefit, and not a single danger to the boy who plays it. You may have gathered from what I have already said that I consider it the greatest game on earth. I do, and, doing so, am proud of my good judgment. There should be baseball ground adjacent to or very near each public school building in the United States.

"Baseball is the only sport which is severe enough to benefit and not severe enough to overstrain. Baseball players live to good old ages, almost always, I wish I had the list at hand. The longevity of ex-professionals would surprise you. I myself began to play on the advice of my physician, and I made a business of it in the end.

"Prizefighters, jockeys, football players, oarsmen, even colege athletes, are not long-lived."

I had not asked so very many questions. They had not been needed. Mr. Spalding puts his words across the plate as accurately and as logically as, in the old days, he pitched his balls. But now I asked one.

"Even if the game had not resulted in great wealth and fame for you, would you still be glad you took it up?"

He laughed. The Greek countenance, framed with white hair, broke into a particularly winning set of wrinkles; the bishop's face became that of the jolly monk in the world famous picture.

"I'm a candidate for Senator," he said, "and ought not to use slang, but—I—sure—would. Glad? Why, I tell you it meant health to me—the biggest thing of all. It has taken me around the world again, and yet again; it has thrown me into contact with the finest set of men this country ever has produced. It has taught me that humanity is, at the bottom, clean of mind and soul. It has made me a rank optimist—and it has kept me one. It is the only sport on earth. The prizefighter is brutalized and his heart bothers him; the rowing man is almost certain to be most unequally developed physically, and his heart, also, generally goes wrong; football maims and brutalizes; horse racing sends its devotees to pieces morally and gives them little of the compensation coming from good exercise and honest rivalry. It is and always has been founded upon gambling.

OLD PLAYERS NOW IMPORTANT.

"Find fifty men from all these sports who have outgrown them and reached real importance in the world! You can't. I could name a hundred baseball players—yes, two hundred and then more—who have become important, worthy, and respected men in later years. There's John M. Ward, for instance. Senator Gorman was a baseball player once. John K. Tener, who, as we talk, is a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, was a professional and went around the world with us in 1888. Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut was a player first and then first president of the National League. Baseball for a few years is one of the best character builders I can think of. An able boy's blood always runs high and the first thing he must learn, if he is to win success, is to control it. Baseball teaches that first, last and all the time.

"The game was fortunate from the beginning. It was spread throughout the country by the soldiers returning to their homes after the Civil War. Now it is in its third generation. I hesitate to guess what it will be when it has reached its fourth. The crowds today are big; the crowds of future days will be much bigger. Every boy, you see, plays baseball, and the players of today are the spectators of tomorrow. The human being who has ever got the germ of baseball in his blood, whether the infection comes when he is young or after he has reached maturity, never gets it out."

"What effect has your baseball record and enthusiasm had upon your candidacy for the United States Senate?" I inquired, really wondering.

"How do I know, yet?" he asked. But then he added: "Give me the baseball votes of California and my opponents may have the rest."

Across the room from me sat Homer Davenport, most famous of the world's cartoonist, and himself a baseball crank of advanced mania.

"Any man," said Davenport, not looking up from his sketch pad (which Mrs. Spalding, also, was intent upon,) "who can pitch every game, every season, for the Boston team, for five long years, and win the pennant every time, and then go to Chicago and take the pennant with him in his trunk, as Mr. Spalding did, can capture a seat in the United States Senate on wet grounds, with a glass arm in the box and the rooters all against him. The political game is easy when you stack it up against baseball. You're talking to a Senator to be, all right."

He went back to absorption in his work and Mrs. Spalding flushed with pleasure.

BASEBALL AND BUSINESS.

"Has your baseball training helped you in your business?" I inquired.

"I never struck anything in business that did not seem a simple matter when compared to complications I have faced on the baseball field," said Mr. Spalding. "A young man playing baseball gets into the habit of quick thinking in most adverse circumstances and under the most merciless criticism in the world—the criticism from the bleachers. If that doesn't train him, nothing can. Baseball in youth has the effect, in after years, of making him think and act a little quicker than the other fellow.

"They have now, in colleges, a course in which they call experimental psychology. The relation between thought and action is recorded by delicate instruments. These instruments, in the psychological laboratories of the colleges, show that the mental reactions of the athletes are quicker than those of any other students. And that of the baseball player is quicker than that of any other of the athletes. The sprinter, don't you see, has but to go from place to place. His thought is intent on the one thing—on getting there. The thought of the baseball player must take many other things—a thousand things—into consideration. He must think while he is going.

"Folks marvel at the great throngs which attend important baseball matches. They really need not be wondered at. The public likes the game, and, more than that, it knows that this one game, of all sports, is certain to be absolutely on the square. The spectators have been players, most of them, and understand not only the first principles, but the fine points of the sport.

"Here, again, is the effect of the evolution of the game up through the boy into the man. The boys of the past generation are the spectators of this; the boys of this one will be the spectators of the next. So, like an endless chain, baseball will last and grow as long as the United States shall last and grow. Each generation will produce a little higher type of citizenship than that which went before it, and baseball and the principles which underlie it will help to bring this about."

The old baseball player, the successful business man, the candidate for Senator, stopped talking. I looked at him inquiringly.

"Play ball!" said he.

FIGHTS MUD AND SLUSH.

Woman Makes Hard Drive in Franklin Car Over Worst Roads and in Severe Storm.

Driving through a storm of rain, snow and hail, so severe that it threatened to demolish the windshield and stop the car, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Reed of Fairmont, W. Va., had an exciting experience recently with a Franklin. They took a twenty-four horsepower air-cooled car from the factory at Syracuse to their home, a distance of over 300 miles. The rain pelted all the way and the storm was so severe that the occupants of the car had to battle with the elements all the way.

With a chauffeur the couple left Syracuse and an enjoyable trip was made to Buffalo. There they ran into the storm and along the shore of Lake Erie the wind, rain and hail with spray from the lake, coated the car with ice. This made the driving severe, as the hands of the chauffeur almost froze to the wheel. Waterford, Pa., a run of fifteen miles, was made through deep mud and snow that caused the road to be almost impassable.

From Waterford Reed was obliged to go by train to Pittsburg and attend to a matter of business. Mrs. Reed, the owner of the car, determined to fight out the battle. On the following day, with her chauffeur, she started for the final run home. It was freely predicted she would never reach Fairmont with the car. With the precious good work of the Franklin to support her belief she kept on and after persistent work over the difficult roads reached Fairmont with the automobile in perfect shape.

While at the Franklin factory Mrs. Reed attended the automobile school and was taught to drive. She intended to handle the car all the way home, but was prevented by the storm. The husband of Mrs. Reed is prominent in Pittsburg municipal affairs and is proud of the grit his wife showed on the dangerous trip.

Four hundred newsboys and messenger boys of Newport, R. I., were guests last night of Mrs. Frederick V. Vanderbilt at a Thanksgiving banquet Prominent society people, both men and women, served as waiters and waitresses.

WANT THIS $50?

If you have just $25 cash, and can make moderate monthly payments, you can take advantage of this. On December 1, lots in my Arlington Square will be advanced in price $50. Values have already increased, but I have been holding off in order to give quick buyers a chance to benefit by this increase. If you go out and see the place, you will realize why this section is going ahead so fast. You can see for yourself why values will advance. It is just south of the beautiful West Adams district, served by several car lines, with 5c fare. A beautiful, healthy place. It is building up very rapidly and is especially desirable for comfortable, moderate priced homes. It has every city convenience, not one is missing. Improvements include graded and oiled streets, cement walks and curbs, and wide parkings, planted to large shade trees. Moderate restrictions protect the property. You can buy a lot today for only $675. Just pay $25 cash and $15 monthly. Come to my office, or see MR. POTTER at 2113 West Jefferson street, who will have his automobile there to show you about.

A LITTLE CASH TAKES.
FINE BIG LOT.

Here is a good high-grade well restricted purchase, where you don't risk any money at all, and where the cash requirement is relatively small; it is a bungalow lot in my beautiful Oxford Square tract—a record buy if I ever saw one; Oxford Square is praised by the Pico st. car line; the new subway will run THROUGH THE VERY BLOCK IN WHICH THIS LOT IS LOCATED. The West Ninth st. line will also run through very soon; you don't need anybody to tell you what an advance improved street car service signifies to the property affected; aside from this special feature the lot is worth double its price, as Oxford Square is Los Angeles' finest residence district; 60-foot cut, with 70-ft. oil-tamped avenues, cement walks, gutters and curbs, and wide, beautifully planted parkings; it has every convenience, and is building up with handsome homes; so see this property. Learn how little cash will buy it.

HERE IS LAND FOR MONEY-MAKING.

I offer you my Fresno Valley lands—the facts sell this property. Located just south of the city of Fresno, crossed by the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe Railway, each having stations at the property. Ditch water costs but 75c per acre per year, and the rich soil lies over a body of artesian water, which can be reached for pumping at only 35 feet. This water goes with the land, supplied from pumps already installed. Some of the successful crops are alfalfa, corn, tobacco, peaches, apricots, figs, walnuts, grapes, vegetables and berries. Big profits also in general farming, dairying, poultry and hog raising. Part of the land is already in alfalfa and other crops. With a good town right at the property, you and your children can have the advantages of schools, stores, telephones, free rural delivery, etc.—just a few minutes' ride by train from a large city. Now you can buy this land for only $40 an acre up. Just a small cash payment, and get your land under cultivation. Your profits will take care of your future payments. Come to my office. PLUCKY.

HER SCREAMS ROUT BURGLAR.

Girl's Terrifying Experience Here on Visit.

Alarms Household Although Facing Revolver.

Swoons as Robber Plunges Through Window.

A hysterical girl, Miss Marie Barns, so thoroughly alarmed a burglar at the home of Prof. F. H. Metcalf, No. 2312 East Third street, last night, that the fellow jumped out of a second-story window. He escaped with the loot he had already stuffed into his pockets, namely—two diamond rings, a ruby ring, Miss Barns' mother's engagement ring and about $1 in small change.

The Metcalf family was assembled on the first floor, quietly conversing, when Miss Barns, who is a visitor from the East, said she would run upstairs to bring something she desired to show her friends.

She had scarcely reached her rooms when the Metcalf's were startled by a piercing scream. They rushed upstairs in dismay, Professor Metcalf leading. He reached the upper floor in time to see the figure of a man in a long overcoat vanishing through the window of the bathroom, the door of which opens upon the hall. Miss Barns was found senseless on the floor.

It was with the greatest difficulty that anything like a statement of what had occurred could be obtained from the girl, who became hysterical when revived. Finally it was learned that, as she entered her room, gayly humming a song, she was suddenly confronted by a burglar, who thrust a nickel-plated revolver into her face and ordered her to be quiet.

Instinctively she screamed and the next instant fell in a swoon. She believed the robber had shoved her down in passing out of the door, but she was not intelligible on this point.

When the police, summoned from the Eastside Police Station, arrived, Miss Barns, who had been partly calmned, had again grown hysterical, even more so than when the family had revived her from the swoon. A physician was summoned and the officers were compelled to withhold their questions until she could be restored.

The window through which the burglar leaped in making his escape is a small one and nearly twenty feet from the ground, showing how badly the fellow was scared and what desperate chances he took to get away from a screaming woman, which, the police hold, is the safest protection against burglars.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

Expressman Receives a Broken Leg by Horse's Kick After Auto Bumps Wagon.

William Carmichael, an expressman, whose home is at No. 1447 West Thirty-sixth place, sustained a broken leg last night at the corner of Union avenue and Twentieth street, when he was knocked off his wagon by collision with an automobile belonging to E. L. Doheney of No. 8 Chester Place.

The chauffeur was about to pass Carmichael's wagon when the latter turned sharply to the left to avoid a stalled wagon ahead of him. The maneuver threw him in front of the automobile and he was jolted off under the horse. The latter kicked and broke Carmichael's leg.

SHIELDS HIS ASSAILANT.

Bert Blodget, a machinist of No. 2554 McPherson street, who said he was better known under the alias of "Billy Burns," was picked up on Santa Fe avenue near Ninth street last night, weak from the loss of blood. He was found to have a large wound on the forehead and refused to say who had struck him. "I got hurt in a fight, boys. I was as much to blame as anybody else, and that is all there is to it," was all the officers could obtain from him. He was put to bed in the Receiving Hospital.

THREE HURT IN SMASH-UP.

RENO, Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A runaway car loaded with concentrates broke away from its brakes at the Florence mill this afternoon and while running down hill at the rate of nearly a mile a minute, crashed into the Tonopah and Goldfield passenger train. In the smash-up three persons were injured, David Ashland, assistant general agent of the Tonopah and Tidewater; Dr. C. C. Cox, a mining man from San Francisco, and W. H. Smith of Goldfield. All three received bad cuts and bruises, but escaped without any broken bones. The passengers were badly shaken up. Engineer Moore and Fireman Crowe, who stood at their posts, expected to be killed, and, although the engine was driven half through the car of concentrates, they escaped. A portion of the concentrates, valued at $6000, will be lost.

interest on bonded debt and a special statement of dividends received upon stock owned in other corporations. The last statement promises to be particularly effective in helping the anti-trust labors in the Department of Justice.

While the order for the publicity of these returns came out with almost ostentatious silence at the end of a protracted Cabinet session tonight, it marks the biggest step yet taken by the Federal government to secure this publicity. This is the club that Roosevelt pounded Congress for six years to get—and failed. Then President Taft let his corporation tax plan slip into the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill law, and the rest came easily enough.

RULES GUARD RETURNS CORPORATIONS MAKE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The government has given its promise to carefully safeguard secrets of corporations and intimate details of their business furnished for the assessment of Federal taxes. Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh today issued a ruling which prevents perusal of the reports by the curious or by those who might benefit unfairly by them.

Mr. MacVeagh decrees that the records of corporations shall be kept under guard in the Treasury Department and that no guard of the Department, shall under any circumstances, reveal any of the contents. Neither are copies to be taken or furnished to anyone, except authorities.

"First: The return of every corporation shall be open to inspection of the proper officers of the Treasury Department. Where access to any return is denied by an officer or employee of any other department of the government, an application to inspect such return, setting out the reasons therefor, shall be made in writing, signed by the head of the executive department or other government establishment, in which such officer or employee is employed and transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury."

FOR USE IN LAWSUIT.

"If, however, the return is desired to be used in any legal proceeding or to be used in any manner by which any information contained in the return could be made public, or access to any return is desired by any official of any State or Territory of the United States, the application for permission to inspect such return shall be referred to the Attorney-General, and if recommended by him, transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury.

"Second: The Secretary of the Treasury, at his discretion, upon application to him made, setting forth what constitutes a proper showing of cause, may permit inspection of the return of any corporation by any bona fide stockholders in such corporation. The stockholder desiring to inspect such return shall make application in writing to the Secretary of the Treasury, setting forth the reasons why he should be permitted to make such inspection and shall attach to his application a certificate signed by the president or other principal officer of such corporation, countersigned by the Secretary, under the corporate seal of the company, that he is a bona fide stockholder in said company. The privilege of inspecting the return of any corporation is personal to the stockholders, and the permission granted by the Secretary cannot be delegated to any other person.

CERTAIN RETURNS OPEN TO ALL

"Third: The returns of the following corporations shall be open to inspection of any person upon written application to the Secretary of the Treasury, which application shall set forth briefly and succinctly all of the facts necessary to enable the Secretary to act upon the request:

"(a) The returns of all companies whose stock is listed upon any duly organized and recognized stock exchange within the United States, for the purpose of having its shares dealt in by the public generally.

"(b) All corporations whose stock is advertised in the press or offered to the public by the corporation itself for sale. In case of doubt as to whether any company falls within the classification above, the person desiring to see such return should make application, supported by advertisements, prospectuses or such other evidence as he may deem proper to establish the fact that the stock of such corporation is offered for general public sale."

MEN AND WOMEN MARGARET MEETS.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond are again leading hosts in Washington, where the opening of the present administration brought them prominently to the front of the social stage.

They have established themselves in a house famous for the nature of its hospitalities, as well as for their number, being tenants of the former Vice-President and Mrs. Levi Morton in the spacious old-fashioned residence just off Scott Circle. This, when not occupied by its owners, has served as the Russian embassy and also as the home of Senator and Mrs. Root, when the former was Secretary of State. The majority of the South African millionaires, who are coming to Washington, prefer the newer and ordinarily more expensive region towards Sheridan Circle, but Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, having identified themselves with the conventional resident set, as well as the inner circle of the administration, wisely remain in the true and tried section bordering on Sixteenth street and Rhode Island avenue. In addition to their wonderful record as dinner hosts, having in one season entertained in this fashion some 900 guests, (no one, not even the affable and affluent Hammonds, could have 900 friends, all in one city, so guests seems to be the right word,) they are now making their plans for several large dances in the interest of their debutante niece, Miss May Hammond, who will pass the winter with them. Miss Hammond, who enjoys an intimate friendship with Miss Helen Taft and the leading buds of the winter, is the daughter of William H. Hammond of California, who was a classmate of the President at Yale in the famous class of 1878.

Sharing the honors of her uncle's home with Miss Hammond is Miss Eliza Morgan McMullin, a cousin of the Hammonds, a fascinating young person from Kentucky, who inherits her charming qualities from both sides of the house. The famous Col. Jack Hays of Texas and California having been her grandfather, while her grandmother was Eliza Morgan of Kentucky, the great belle and beauty of her generation, in the State and the time, when beautiful women were the rule.

Both Miss Morgan and Miss McMullin were presented to society by Mrs. Hammond November 19 at an afternoon reception, the first debutante function of the present season.

In this group of famous hosts from the Pacific Coast contributing greatly to the brilliancy of the Washington social life, are Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Hennen Jennings, who have built splendid homes on Sheridan Circle. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Richardson Clover, the latter a daughter of the late Senator Miller; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cleveland Perkins, who have a beautiful home on Connecticut avenue.

The Misses Patten, three hospitable bachelor maids, occupying one of the largest homes on Mass. avenue, are literally, if not officially, "Native Daughters of the Golden West," having been born in San Francisco, where their late parents accumulated a fortune in the golden days of a generation ago. Their daughters, however, have lived entirely in Washington and in Paris from childhood, and are now fully identified with the resident families of the District of Columbia. They are all clever, brilliant women, much in demand at diplomatic circles, speaking French with a greater purity than their native tongue, and possessing keen wit, and a comprehensive knowledge of politics. Had they been so disposed, the Misses Patten might have established the wished-for American salon long ago, but evidently they were not ambitious, and preferred a small brilliant company of familiar and intimate friends, to the wide and influential circle Miss Boardman has gathered around her, to her own entertainment, and the great benefit to society.

Mrs. Henry Corbin, widow of the Adjutant-General of the army, who was Miss Edith Patten, has given up the country home established in her husband's lifetime, and for the winter has taken an apartment in town, which is likely to become an interesting social center, as Mrs. Corbin further lightens her mourning.

The Countess von Bernstorff, the clever American wife of the German Ambassador, has solved two problems in entertaining. She has divided her visiting list without giving offense, and she has made an afternoon tea a thoroughly enjoyable company, where people stayed in the drawing-room and conversed with each other. The first heretofore unknown attainment was brought about by the Countess issuing three hundred cards for two at homes but only three days apart.

Every one was practically invited to both days, and had the days been separated by even a week, it is to be feared pretty nearly every one would have gone, but even in Washington to present oneself on Friday afternoon and again on Monday, it would seem to be crowding the hostess, so having the privilege of selecting either date, society divided itself. Some forthputting individuals who can not resist the open door called twice, but on the whole the division was a success.

To insure the company remaining in the drawing-room which is large, high and admirably adapted as a meeting place for two hundred people, the hostess had refreshments served from a table at the far end of the room, without opening the dining-room, which where under former regimes at a similar entertainment last winter, the guests packed themselves about the tea table, leaving few persons in the salon but the hostess and her receiving party.

Under the present regime the main drawing-room of the German Embassy is the former ball-room of Herr Holleben and his predecessors, while the late Baron von Sternburg used this apartment as a gallery for the famous collection of ceramics which he brought from India.

Lord Eustace Sutherland Campbell Percy, youngest son of the Duke of Northumberland, has arrived at the British Embassy in the role of attache, and will thus begin his diplomatic career in Washington and under a famous commoner in the person of Hon. James Bryce, the present Ambassador. Just how the social ballance of King George's Embassy will be adjusted is a question now perplexing society, the great discrepency of rank between its chief and his staff having been greatly increased by this latest appointment. As Downing street is entirely familiar with the condition in Washington, some persons are inclined to believe the arrival of the youthful nobleman means there will be a change at the top of the ladder and that Mr. and Mrs. Bryce, who are now in South America may never return to the United States.

As Lord Eustace is a bachelor and just 23, there will be no such merry tempest in the Embassy tea pot, as under the late Ambassador Sir Henry Mortimore Durand, when Lady Susan Townley, daughter of the Earl of Albemarle, and wife of Hon. Walter Townley, the then Councellor of Embassy, objected to going out to dinner behind a country curate's daughter, even though the country curate's daughter was the wife of the Ambassador.

The abrupt retirement of Sir Henry from diplomacy to a modest estate in Devon, and the transfer of Mr. Townley and his haughty young wife to Buenos Ayres, followed very shortly after the presence in Washington of an exhalted visitor from England, who found the Townley's home on Connecticut avenue much more to his liking than the official residence of the Ambassador.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryce who care nothing whatever for society, have nevertheless opened their house freely to all who cared to come, and have made themselves a place in the literary life of the nation, if not in the pleasure-loving and important official circle usually found about an Embassy household.

Volcano for Lighthouse.

The best lighthouse on the Pacific coast of Central America is a volcano. It is several miles inland from the port of Acajutla, in the republic of Salvador, and is so active that it serves as a perpetual beacon for vessels in that part of the ocean. The volcano is the property of the government and a fine source of revenue. The republic of Salvador collects lighthouse fees from every vessel that drops anchor at Acajutla, just as though it had established and maintained the volcano at great expense as a guide to mariners.

This great volcano beacon can be seen far out at sea. The coast is dangerous, and if it were not for this huge perpetual fire there would be many wrecks. An ordinary lighthouse would be of less service to the mariners. Despite all this, however, there is not a skipper among the many vessels plying along the west coast who does not grumble every time he pays the fee that the Republic of Salvador exacts for its volcano lighthouse.—[Harper's Weekly.

Satisfied With Enough.

He was buying drinks and cigars for the bunch in a downtown cafe, and was explaining that it was triplets. Every one had been satisfied, and the momentous event was being discussed in all its bearings.

Congratulations mixed with condolences were tendered the happy father when he bethought himself of an attendant circumstance and told it and then he bought again. It was this:

The small boy of the house had been praying for a little sister. When told that not one but three had arrived, he knelt and said: "O Lord, I am very thankful, but I'm no pig. Give someone else a chance."—[Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE MUST NOT V AMERICA SAYS FRAU VON TIEL

Buxom Old Lady of the Crown Princess' Court Who Is Etiquette Incarnate Almost Fainted When She Heard of the Proposal and Promptly Vetoed It Because of the Terrible Things That Happened to Prince Henry of Prussia Nine Years Ago.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

More Powerful Than the Kaiser.

Baroness Von Tiele-Winckler, chief lady-in-waiting to the German Crown Princess, who knows more about etiquette than anyone else in the world and who rules the German Court in consequence. The Baroness is the fat old lady nearest the camera and she is driving with the Crown Princess.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—"It is impossible for a Hohenzollern to visit America without one of two things happening. He must either make himself ridiculous and popular, or keep his dignity and lose his popularity." So writes Herr Leiner, an able newspaper man of Dresden, apropos of the Crown Prince's desire to return from the Asiatic journey through the United States, instead of through muddy Siberia. But Herr Leiner says that after the 'orribil experience of Prince Henry of Prussia, in the year of our Lord 1902, no Hohenzollernsprig (this is a German idiom) will visit America again. "Optimum est aliens frui insania" is the Crown Prince's motto. It can be roughly translated, "I have learned by the frightful example of Uncle Heinrich in America."

The tragic fact is that the great European god Etiquette today bars the path of all Hohenzollernsprigs with American yearnings. The Prussian court has not yet recovered from the decline and fall of Prince Henry, when he attended, nine years ago, the launch of the Kaiser's yacht "Meteor." True, officially the visit was a great success. Kaiser Wilhelm and President Roosevelt exchanged complimentary telegrams; and the beaming Prince assured us that he hoped some day to return. But that was Etiquette telling lies, although Henry really had an excellent time, and thoroughly enjoyed himself. But he did so only by lowering the royal dignity, and so he offended Etiquette. And now injured Etiquette decrees with infernal inexorability that the other Hohenzollernsprig shall not follow in his footsteps.

ETIQUETTE ALIVE.

What makes the objection of Etiquette weightier still is that the Crown Princess would have to accompany him. And the living incarnation of Etiquette in all Berlin happens to be the Crown Princess' friend and motherly adviser, Baroness von Tiele-Winckler, an elderly lady with an agreeable smile, and more Etiquette in her head than there are microbes in a quarantine barge. It was she, says rumor, who first fainted when the Crown Prince declared he would like to visit America.

"You forget that you are not traveling alone," she gasped on coming to. "What would become of the Crown Princess in that awful country? They don't understand Etiquette." The Americans, she affirmed, would hail the future Empress as "Crown Princess," or even cry "Say, Missus." The baroness is chief "Hofdame" or "Mistress of the Court" of the Crown Princess and she owes her enormous influence to the fact that it was she who initiated the inexperienced Crown Princess into the ponderous mysteries of Prussian court ceremony and etiquette. On this subject she is reputed to be the greatest living authority.

The Crown Princess still has the bashful, somewhat hoydenish manners commoner in her native Mecklenburg-Schwerin than in rigid Berlin. Knowing her own defects, she takes Baroness von Tiele-Winckler wherever she goes, in the certainty that the "Hofdame" will get her out of scrapes, and tell her what to do at the right moment. In appearance the baroness is a stout, good-humored looking "belle dame" but her benignant exterior covers the most rigid and awful ideas of the fitness of Imperial things. She prefers to call herself simply "Frau" rather than baroness on the ground that really old families do not need the vulgar titles which are bought daily by successful bankers and railroad-builders. Her own family, according to her proud boast, was known in Suabia in the eleventh century.

HER PULL.

Frau von Tiele-Winckler is a particular favorite of the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria. Her pull here is religion. She rigidly refuses to accompany the Crown Princess to the Grunewald race-course on Sundays, so that the Princess turns up in the society of pretty and frivolous demoiselles d'honneur in big hats, while the "Hofdame" pays a visit to the Kaiserin, and laments over the Sabbath-breaking ways of the rising generation. However Frau von Tiele-Winckler is indispensable to the Crown Princess for knowledge of the ways of courts; and morever, being an excellent lady at heart, she really is devoted to the Princess' three children. She plays with them almost daily in the park of the Potsdam Marble Palace; and no doubt instills into their infantile minds the great truth of Lord Bacon that manners maketh man.

At Heiligendamm, a seaside resort on the Mecklenburg coast where the Crown Princess and her children spend the summer, the Hofdame reigns supreme. She uses her influence to prevent lodgings being let to objectionable persons from Berlin who stare at the Princess and do not know how to make a reverance. Last summer she tried to get the local commune to regulate mixed bathing in a stringent way; but the Crown Princess refused to support her; and the Empress of Etiquette had the first serious fall of her life. The malicious affirm that her protest against the idea of the Crown Princess visiting America is due to dread of being found at a loss in handling the innumerable new problems of ceremony and etiquette which would arise out of the novel situation.

PRINCE HENRY.

Latest Photograph of Prince Henry of Prussia, whose awful experiences in America nine years ago have served as a warning to his nephew never to visit a Republic.

But to return to the Crown Prince's desire to come home by way of the United States. Uncle Heinrich's visit proved to the baroness and to official Germany in general that the United States doesn't appreciate the terrific dignity of a Hohenzollernsprig. Of course this terrible truth was not divulged at the time, and only now when the Crown Prince wants to see America are the real facts leaking out. President Roosevelt was the first offender. From the White House he sent a welcoming telegram addressed rudely, "Prince Henry of Prussia," in which he five times said "You" or "Your" and did not once say: "Your Royal Highness." Alice Roosevelt did worse. She cabled reporting the launch to "His Majesty the Kaiser," horrifying the court sticklers, for everyone, they said in a horrified whisper, knows that you should cable to "The German Emperor, Berlin." Also, though a young

Gen. Wood strongly urged the passage by Congress of the pending bill for raising a volunteer army, in time of war. He said this would cost nothing in time of peace, and would save the government millions of dollars in time of war.

The present law was so unsatisfactory and vague that the general staff could not make necessary preparations in advance for a possible war.

Other needs of the military service were set out in the report, including the addition of 610 officers to replace those detailed from line duties for staff and militia work; the creation of a reserve of not less than 300,000 men who have served in the regular army or militia; the concentration of the army in large posts; the re-establishment of the canteen; the increase of the signal corps, and the acquisition of the aeroplane.

He went to see Englebright, who was in a delicate position between two factions and refused to interfere. The young man declared that Englebright's manner was curt and complained to his father. The latter took up his son's quarrel.

During the campaign the feeling between the Congressman and Clinch was bitter and it is said that Clinch worked against Englebright and used his influence with the mine managers to get votes away from him. Englebright lost by a few votes.

ANGELENO OBTAINS DIVORCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Nov. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. W. J. Chambers, prominent physician of Los Angeles, who figured in politics of Southern California three years ago when, with Myer Lissner and two others, he made up the four original organizers of the non-partisan party of California, was granted a divorce today from his wife, Kathryn Chambers.

They separated in July, 1908. Upon the ground of desertion he filed his complaint, testifying that she declared her marital relations interfered with her social aspirations. No children resulted from the marriage, which occurred in New York city in January, 1900. A division of property was made before the doctor came to Nevada last April.

DRAMATIC.

"THE FAIRY TALE" POWERFUL PLAY.

NAZIMOVA STUPENDOUS IN NEW PROBLEMATIC DRAMA.

The play is taken from the German of Arthur Schnitzler, the leading Austrian dramatist of today. Although Schnitzler is practically unknown among English-speaking people, he is 48 years of age, and has ten or twelve big plays to his credit, as well as half a dozen novels, and several volumes of short stories and one-act plays. His principal plays have been successes in Vienna, and the German critics have declared that the important feature of his dramas is his keen insight into feminine psychology, possibly due to the fact that he is a physician as well as a dramatist.

"The Fairy Tale" is the first of the Schnitzler dramas to be translated into English, the work having been adequately done by Nina Lewton, especially for the present Nazimova tour. It was given its first production in Chicago September 12, and consequently America does not know whether or not it is a good play—New York not having had an opportunity to speak on the subject. (!)

Like a great many of the works of the Austrian, "The Fairy Tale" deals with the artistic life of Vienna. It is the story of Fanny Theren, an actress, who has had an "affair" with one Dr Witte. She lives with her family in a constant atmosphere of reproof. A young author, Theodore Denner, brings new happiness into Fanny's life by declaring, in a moment of argumentative enthusiasm: "Women have allowed themselves to be fooled for centuries, as Fanny has, because, in our immeasurable vanity, we men must be the only and the first. It is time the world should be freed from the fairy tale of the fallen woman."

This declaration causes Fanny to fall in love with Denner, but unfortunately the enthusiastic theorist finds that it is easier to talk than to put his fine ideas into practice—a condition which becomes aggravated when he discovers that even this Dr. Witte was not the first with Fanny. Events draw the couple to a show-down, and Denner is forced to admit that his theory cannot work in every day life—in his life at least.

And so they part, the author's portent being that, although in theory there is no valid reason why a woman cannot turn her back upon her misdeeds and start a new life, the human being is so constituted that he cannot frame his conduct entirely upon lack of a "valid redson."

The subtle genius of Nazimova has never been seen in this city to the advantage it was last night. Her art was consummate. In the opening act when first she sees what she thinks to be the dawn of her happiness with Denner, she has little to say; but her presence haunts the whole act. In her pantomime, as she hovers about the edge of things,—a tragic onlooker to all that is going on about her, the emotional tragedy pyramids with sure and swift power in her silent figure. The others talk and preach and joke and struggle, but she is the life and the meaning of the play. Later, in the studio of Denner, as she sits, broken and terrified, sobbing out the pitiful, sordid story of her life, there is a pathos in her acting so potent and devastating that it fairly appals. The climax comes at the end of the play when she sends Denner from her and turns to her sister, saying, "It is all settled." From the beginning of time it has always been settled—this question of woman's regeneration—but when Nazimova repeats those few words, it is as though she was summing up the tragedies of all those who had gone before her down the path of which the world does not approve.

To mention individually all the characters whose unusual merit added to the strength of this play would be to print the entire cast. Let us say, then, that rarely on any stage will be found a company of players so consummately good as those who assisted at the telling of the world's most treacherous and deceptive fairy tale. There was not a gap in the characterization which was not adequately and, in many instances brilliantly, filled.

"The Fairy Tale" is one of the strongest plays ever seen on the Los Angeles stage, and the art of Nazimova in this performance places her among the very greatest of her profession. It is a play no one can afford to miss.

Pleasing, indeed, was the concert of Mme. Liza Lehmann, the English composer, and her English quartette, in Simpson Auditorium last evening. This is her first visit to Los Angeles.

Of Mme. Lehmann's compositions we have heard much, but none of her works is, perhaps better known to the general musical public than "In a Persian Garden." This song cycle has been given here a number of times by local quartettes; but this London quartette, under the direction of the composer who presided at the piano, and perfect in its ensemble work, gave a very artistic reading of Mme. Lehmann's famous song cycle.

The individual members composing the quartette are all singers with voices perfectly adapted to the rendition of Mme. Lehmann's songs. None of them, however, have voices of exceptional worth, although the contralto and baritone are singers of a more artistic nature and with rich, resonant voices. The soprano and tenor have voices very sweet in quality but rather limited in power and range. The members of the quartette are Miss Blanche Tomlin, soprano; Miss Palgrave-Turner, contralto; Hubert Eisdell, tenor, and Julien Henry, baritone.

Last evening's programme was: Song Cycle, "In a Persian Garden," (Quartette;) contralto solo, "Abou Ben Adhem and the Angel," (Miss Palgrave-Turner;) tenor, five little love songs (Hubert Eisdell;) baritone, "Incident of the French Camp," (Mr. Julien Henry;) soprano songs, "Pearl and Song" and "Everybody's Secret," (Miss Blanche Tomlin;) song cycle, "The Nonsense Songs," from "Alice in Wonderland," (Quartette.)

Countess Thamara de Swirsky, in her novel dancing performance, entertained another good sized audience at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon, with her quaint interpretations.

Henry Ohlmeyer's masterful hand at the baton made the orchestra a thing of beauty, as before.

Today will see the last two performances at the Mason Operahouse of "The Fortune Hunter," a modern comedy of absolutely unimpeachable good humor, which for two weeks has entertained Los Angeles audiences as they have not often been entertained.

That actor-lecturer-traveler-raconteur-writer-wit Fred Niblo has done no small share in making the local engagement of "The Fortune Hunter" a distinct artistic success, and he has had the valuable aid of Frank Bacon, Alma Belwyn and others, as well.

Mrs. Lelia Burton Wells' novel play of modern military adventure, "The Case of Sergeant Wilde," will have matinee performances at the Belasco today and tomorrow, and tomorrow night will conclude its present engagement, as it must make way for the revival of "The Test," for a considerable time in preparation.

The College of Musicians rendered a musical programme at the Bungalow Annex of the Magnolia-avenue Baptist Church last evening. The diversified list of numbers proved highly pleasing to the audience assembled.

The Bevani Grand Opera Company will bring its highly successful Los Angeles engagement to a close with two performances today. The matinee will be Puccini's "La Boheme" with Francini, Newcombe, Bevani, Campana, Battain, Secci Corsi, Florian and Giuliani. For the evening their farewell bill will be Verdi's "La Traviata." In the cast for the last performance will be Regina Vicarine, Helen Newcombe, Sacchetti, Alberti, Giuliani and Florian.

PREHISTORIC ARIZONA RUINS.

Scattered over a greater portion of Apache county, but more particularly along the valley of the Little Colorado River, are numerous ruins of a prehistoric people. In the immediate vicinity and just south of St. Johns are ruins of two large towns, once containing not less than 2000 or 2000 inhabitants each. No doubt in our mind, for we have devoted much time and study to this subject, that the ancient peoples were first Phallic and afterwards sun worshipers, as in some of our investigations we have discovered fine specimens, in the shape of images of both forms of worship, which were carved out of basalt; one of these specimens was eighteen inches in length and eight inches in diameter.

Wherever one finds any of these ancient ruins, either in Arizona or New Mexico, they always show their main or principal entrances are facing the east, and all were built of stones, with ordinary mud for mortar. Twelve miles south of St. Johns, on the western side of the Little Colorado River, near the village of Las Tuces, are other similar towns. On the opposite side of the river from one of these towns, near the summit of a cerrito, is a large crevice or fissure extending into the hill perhaps sixty or more feet, and is two to five feet in width.

In the summer of 1876, in company with William Bradbury, we made a partial exploration of this cave or fissure, and found therein hundreds of bows and arrows, baskets, stone axes, and stone hammers, used as implements of war and the chase; also specimens of turquoise used for ear ornaments, periwinkle shells, and also a peculiar bead used by all the aborigines of the Americas as wampum or medium of exchange. The baskets, however, crumpled into fine dust. Unfortunately, a few years ago, some thoughtless person set afire this valuable collection of antiquities and the entire lot was destroyed. Many, perhaps all, of the large bows were decorated with well painted representations of the horned toad and the centipede; the colors were as bright, apparently, as the day they were painted. Some of the stone implements had their helves attached, showing method of and material used in fastening the stones to the handles.

Still further southward near the town of Springerville, are other ruins which have the same general features. The numerous canals and reservoirs which literally cover the entire cultivatable lands along the river and its many affluents, prove these people to have possessed considerable engineering ability. Everywhere are seen the remains of canals and reservoirs, for the storage of the flood waters brought down from the mountains lying to the southward. The large lake near the lower end of Round Valley, now known as Becker's Lake, was one of many immense storage reservoirs, and the canals by which it was filled are plainly to be seen at this day. As a matter of fact, in all sections of Apache county are found very many similar ruins, not solely in the valleys of the several streams, but also among the precipitous cliffs and mountains.

Another most interesting feature in connection with these prehistoric people, are the lines of mail stations which connected all the pricipal cities one with the other. All these stations were built of stones, and contained but one room about ten feet square, except at junctions or supply stations where were two and sometimes three rooms. In rough or broken country, the station were not more than a quarter to half a mile apart, which goes to prove the presence of hostile foes at that time. The fleetest footmen (they had no horses or other animals of that nature,) were selected for mail carriers. The location and construction of these mail stations is further proof of enemies, but the runners depended on their fleetness of foot, and not upon weapons for protection against their enemies.

We have traced these mail stations from the Little Colorado River via the White and Black Rivers to the San Carlos and Gila Rivers; to the Tonto and Salt River, and any one caring to take the time and trouble can do the same.

Apache county affords a wonderful and a really virgin field for the antiquarian and student of such matters.—[St. Johns (Ariz.) Observer.

Fatigued With Mineral Water.

A Scotchman living in London recently ran across two of his countrymen, and took them with him to a big public dinner. In his hospitality he sent to their table champagne, and yet more champagne, and after a time went to see personally how they were faring. He found them depressed. "How are you getting on?" he asked. The reply came: "Oh, we're getting on fine, but we're verra fateeggit with thae mineral waters."—[The Spectator.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

FIFTH MEETING.

NEW OFFER IS CONSIDERED.

PASADENANS WOULD DRINK FROM DOME OF OLD BALDY.

Los Angeles Man Makes a Proposition to the Water Committee and That Body Manifests the Keenest Interest — Huntington Buys Big Body of Land.

(Office of The Times, 36 S. Raymond avenue.)

PASADENA, Nov. 26.—The Board of Trade Water Committee held its fifth meeting last night, and for the fifth time this season the city was visited with a good shower of rain. Inasmuch as every meeting of the committee has brought rain, it would seem that five times would prove the rule. The shower last night was not heavy, but just enough to welcome the meeting of the Water Committee.

The report of the Municipal Ownership sub-committee did not materialize as expected. William Thum, chairman, stated that his committee would not be able to make a complete report for another two weeks. However, the matter of giving due consideration to the present companies was discussed at some length and the majority of the committee seemed to favor buying the present plants at a reasonable figure even though another supply is secured.

E. H. May, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, stated that the Board of Trade should pay the expenses of the committee. After some discussion the matter was dropped with the impression that if money is needed the City Council can be induced to make a small appropriation.

The interesting feature of the meeting was a statement made by L. B. Eaton of Los Angeles, who stated that he and his partners own a big supply of water at Big Rock Springs on the north side of Old Baldy near Palmdale, which they can deliver to Pasadena. He said the acquiring of his proposition would mean the expenditure by the city of $1,175,000 to build fifty-two miles of pipe line and tunnels to bring the water to the city limits and an additional expenditure of $350,000 for the right, title and interest of some 200 acres of land and all the water flowing out of the Big Rock Creek Canyon. He guaranteed at least 1000 inches of pure mountain spring water the year round; that there would be forty miles of pipe line outside of the tunnels; that there will be 21,000 feet of tunnels; that there will be a drop of 800 feet in the Tejunga Canyon, which will produce 520 horse-power of electricity. Mr. Eaton also alleged that Los Angeles made a very careful investigation of the water supply of his proposition and looked favorably on it until they got hold of the Owens River scheme.

So well did he present his proposition that the entire committee looked upon it with favor, especially when he invited them to visit his ranch and eat a turkey dinner, Saturday, December 17, was fixed as the date on which the committee will make the trip. The party will go to Palmdale on the railroad, thence by automobile to the water site.

The Committee on Additional Water Supply stated that J. B. Coulston, T. D. Allin and W. G. Harbut will visit the Big Tejunga Basin water site today, in company with the promoters of that project, and will be able to make a full report of their findings at the next meeting.

None of the other subcommittees made any reports. It was expected that the Committee on Consolidation or Condemnation of the present city water plants would be able to report. However, that committee did state that it would make no further investigations until the matter of additional water supply for the city is fully threshed out.

COMMISSION MEETING.

W. W. Ogier, president of the Intermunicipal Community Commission, composed of representatives from Pasadena, South Pasadena and Alhambra, stakted last night that he has called a meeting to be held in the rooms of the Pasadena Board of Trade, Thursday, December 3, at which time George F. Kerneghan, who alleges that he represents the owners of the Tejunga Basin and all water rights, wants to address the commission. Three separate outfits have suddenly rushed into the lime light and assert they are the original and undisputed owners of the Big Tejunga.

HUNTINGTON BUYS LAND.

The biggest real estate transaction of the year was consummated yesterday when Henry E. Huntington bought another big slice of the Patton Ranch consisting of fifty acres. The property is located just south of Tournament Park and east of Wilson avenue and adjoins Oak Knoll and the old Pasadena Country Club golf links which was bought a year ago by the Huntington Land & Improvement Company. This particular tract was sold a short time ago to Mr. Jennings of Chicago who spent many thousands of dollars in beautifying the property by laying out drives, piping water to various parts of the land with the idea of making it a grand country estate. Mr. Huntington will have the land subdivided into various sized lots and tracts to conform with the general arrangement of Oak Knoll and the property of the Huntington Land & Improvement Company. Rosalind road will be extended through Arden road and all that part of the property lying south of Rosalind road will become a portion of Mr. Huntington's private estate.

The purchase of this block of land gives Mr. Huntington and his associates control of practically all the land lying south of California street and east of El Molino avenue with the exception of the large number of lots and acres which have been sold to private parties for building purposes. Some five or six hundred acres are included in Mr. Huntington's private grounds and the balance will be handled as one subdivision with similar streets, parking, winding drives and will be the most beautiful and most unique district to be found anywhere. Already Oak Knoll has acquired a reputation of its own which is being emphasized with each new home that is built. The deal was made by the William R. Staats Company and will be subdivided and handled by that company.

"PINAFORE" REHEARSAL.

The first full dress rehearsal of "Pinafore" was held last night at the Norton Theater and each member of the company went through his part like a "professional." Even the actors themselves were surprised at the efficiency with which they read their lines. The leading roles are being played by professional actors and actresses, but the big chorus of sixty-five voices and all the minor parts are taken by local talent. The troop has been practicing and rehearsing for over a month and those who had the pleasure of witnessing the dress rehearsal last night state that "Pinafore" will be the best amateur production ever given in Pasadena. The play will close with a grand spectacular finale, which is not included in the old original play. It is called a "Sea Idyll" and was composed and arranged by Prof. LeRoy D. Ely especially for the performance. "Sea Idyll" is a combination of six songs and dances by a chorus of forty, who are dressed to represent lobsters, sea urchins, gold fish and other aquatic life. The costumes are gorgeous and with the special illumination gives a most beautiful effect. The play closes with a grand chorus of the entire troupe.

THROWN FROM HORSE.

J. G. Ellis of North Raymond avenue was painfully injured yesterday afternoon by being thrown from his horse in Eaton's Canyon. He was out riding with a party of friends when his horse became frightened and Ellis was thrown to the ground, where he struck his head on a rock which rendered him unconscious for some time. His friends came to his rescue and later assisted him in getting home.

WANT A BAND.

Mayor Earley and the Park Commissioners held a short conference yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of formulating some plan of action regarding hiring a municipal band for the winter and spring concerts. It was decided to employ several bands to give concerts and to choose from the contestants which band shall be employed for the series of forty concerts. Official action will be taken at the regular meeting next Monday, and the first concert will be given in Central Park, Saturday afternoon, December 3.

NEWS NOTES.

Good gains were made by the contestants in the "Rose Queen" contest yesterday. Miss Ruth Palmer went to 6100, Miss Grosse 5900, Mrs. Gerlach 5100 and Miss Stockley 1200. The Executive Committee of the Tournament Association has signed a contract with Selig Motion Picture Company whereby that company will be given the privilege of making moving picture films of the great rose parade as it passes through the streets of the city.

The Banquet Committee of the Merchants' Association have decided on Thursday night, December 8, as the date for the annual dinner which will be given at the Hotel Maryland. The Rev. Dr. D. F. Fox, pastor of the First Congregational Church, will be the toastmaster. The other speakers have not been announced.

Walter Raymond, manager of the Hotel Raymond, has announced that his hotel will be opened December 15.

A pretty affair of yesterday afternoon was the five-hundred party given by Miss Marcia Graves at the Shakespeare Clubhouse. Decorations were in the autumnal motif.

MARVELOUS.

RUNNER SAYS HE WILL WIN.

EUGENE ESTOPPEY COMPLETES TENTH OF HIS LONG RUN.

Man Who Runs One Mile Each Hour of Each Day Will Not Finish Task Until January First If He Is Successful in His Try for the Big Purse.

VENICE, Nov. 25.—Eugene Estoppey, Marathon runner, is now engaged in what is perhaps as freaky a race as was ever attempted over any course in the world. He has started to run 1000 miles in as many hours and has already completed more than one-tenth of his task and remains as fresh as a dew-kissed daisy. He says he is certain that he will be able to complete the self-imposed job by running the 1000th mile in five minutes or better at midnight of the old year. His start was so timed on November 20 that the last hour would fall as the new year dawned. Estoppey says he expects to prove by this endurance run that the man who abstains from alcoholic drink and tobacco in any form is prepared to endure tests which the users of those stimulants would be physically unable to accomplish.

The conditions of the race are such that during each and every hour of the 24 he shall cover one mile. During no single hour is he permitted to take credit for more than one mile, nor shall he run a less distance than one mile in any hour, night or day, fair or stormy. If the day is pleasant, his race is in the open, but if it is cold and stormy he makes a dozen laps around the dance hall floor.

In beginning the race, Estoppey reeled off the first mile in 5:35, which is not fast for him, as he holds a track record of 4:40. He is averaging his miles at from 8 to 9 minutes, but on occasion when he feels especially gay he sets a fast pace and covers the distance in five or six minutes. The runner is 30 years of age and weighed 137½ pounds when he entered the contest. He has lost but a single pound since starting and expects to come out of the race about as heavy as he was when he went into it.

All sleep and rest must be secured in brief snatches. The longest nap he has yet been able to secure endured through thirty-five minutes. He precedes his run with a brisk rubbing and follows it with a rub down and a drink of one-half glass of water. The rub down generally takes about five minutes and consists of the application of alcohol, olive oil and wintergreen. He must eat also, and the craving for fuel is supplied five times daily. He never eats until ten minutes after he has completed his run, and never starts on a lap until at least ten minutes after he has eaten. Breakfast consists usually of about three mutton chops, three slices of rye bread and butter, a baked apple and a cup of coffee. For dinner he takes lamb stew, a baked apple and three slices of rye bread, together with coffee. His supper meal consists of a generous slice of flank steak, a bunch of celery, stewed apples, three slices of rye bread and a cup of coffee. And then there is a luncheon at 11 p. m., when he consumes a flank steak, three slices of rye bread, a baked apple and a glass of milk. There is another lunch at 4 a. m., when he eats three slices of rye bread and a baked apple, washing it down with a glass of milk. Of course the menu is varied from day to day; but this is about the size of it—and it always includes rye bread, three cups of coffee and the milk for the night luncheons.

It is not to be expected that he sleeps during every hour of the twenty-four. Averaging one day with another, he sleeps approximately four hours and twenty minutes out of the twenty-four. These brief rests are secured in twelve instalments, ranging in length from ten to thirty-five minutes and averaging a fraction above twenty-one minutes.

During many of the five hours during which nourishment is taken there is no thought of sleep, the extra time being devoted to rest and relaxation. During the seven other hours during which Morpheus is not wooed, Estoppey enjoys his leisure in rest. During these times he relaxes and enters into conversation or devotes his time to writing a diary of the events of the hour. In these notes he keeps a record of minutes spent in sleep, condition of the weather, condition of his body, his weight, feelings and general condition.

Estoppey is making this endurance run on a wager of $1000 that he can complete the 1000 miles during the time and under the conditions imposed. There are always two witnesses to his starts and finishes, and the possibility of "cutting corners" or oversleeping is eliminated.

LONG BEACH.

OLDER BOYS IN CONFERENCE.

SEVENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF Y.M.C.A. AUXILIARY.

Beach Boy Who Reported a Bicycle Lost Later Confesses That He Robbed Himself and Also Stole Watch and Money From His Foster Mother.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 25.—The seventh annual Y. M. C. A. Older Boys' Conference of Southern California met here today for a three days' session. One hundred and sixty delegates answered roll call, about twenty more than were expected on the opening day. The morning was devoted to showing the visitors to their places of entertainment and making them welcome. Luncheon and dinner was served by the ladies of Plymouth Church. This afternoon the initial session was held at the First Baptist Church, with an address by D. W. Weist of Stanford, on "Not for Ourselves Alone," and one by Rev. Ralph Larkin on "Storing Up Potentials." The routine work of the session consisted of conferences of the different sections.

Tonight the annual banquet of the conference was held at Plymouth Church. Mayor Windham gave an address of welcome, responded to by Wesley Martin. Music by the Y. M. C. A. quartette and short toasts along the lines of Y. M. C. A. athletic work were given by several speakers.

Tomorrow morning will open with delegate meetings on the beach at 8 o'clock. The morning will be devoted to Bible study, conducted by Rev. Ralph Larkin, discussion of conference work and an address by Dr. Harold Wickett on "A Modern Sir Galahad." In the afternoon George Irving will speak on "What It Is to Be a Christian." In the evening there will be a camp pow-wow, at which will be discussed the successes of the annual camp outings of the association.

ROBBED HIMSELF.

Wallace Ward, aged 14, reported to the police last night that his wheel had been stolen, and a little later came a report that the home of Miss Miner, his adopted mother, had also been robbed of $40 and a gold watch. Detective O'Rourke, who investigated, decided that the lad had committed the robbery himself and a little questioning brought out a confession and the location of the missing plunder. The lad will not be prosecuted.

BOULDER BURIED.

The big boulder left on the High School campus by the class of 1910 was buried late Wednesday night in the campus and a neat mound, headed by a tombstone draped in crepe and flowers, confronted the students in the morning. The act is supposed to be the work of the same hands who have otherwise meddled with the stone of late, to the indignation of the junior class, in whose hands it was left to guard.

TENNIS RESULTS.

The Jefferson-street Tennis Club of Los Angeles yesterday defeated the Signal Hill club on the latter's grounds at Burnett, by a score of 21 to 16. The contest was exciting and the final score in doubt until the last match. Each club has won a tournament and a deciding game will be played in Los Angeles the Monday following New Years.

DECAMPED WITH FUNDS.

Frank Sackett of Fillmore, Ventura county, was brought here today from near Modesta and is charged with decamping with funds belonging to his partner, Walter Kentzlay. The pair were used in ferreting out blind pig cases and Sackett is alleged to have taken all the funds due them, about $90, and skipped out. Sackett is making an effort to get money from his mother in Ventura, in which case he will not be prosecuted.

Elbert Handy, a blacksmith, while crossing Third street on American avenue this afternoon on a bicycle, was struck by a Tilton Trolley Trip car and hurled several feet. He escaped with several cuts and bruises. The fact that the car was moving slowly was all that saved a fatality. Handy tried to dodge one car and rode directly in front of the other.

BIG CONTRACT.

The big contract for the erection of the reinforced concrete brick, stone and steel building of the Edison Company power plant on the inner harbor has been let to the F. O. Engstrom Company of Los Angeles for $134,565. The building is to be completed before February 1, 1911. This is one of the biggest building contracts ever let in Long Beach.

The Long Beach Brick Company has been awarded the contract to furnish 2,000,000 wire cut bricks for the Polytechnic High School for $13,988. This contract will give employment to thirty men during the winter.

NEWS NOTES.

The Pacific Electric alarm bell at a dangerous crossing at Anaheim and Magnolia has become a nuisance to the neighborhood. It is supposed to ring only on the approach of a train, but the mechanism has become disarranged and it rings all the time. Complaint has been made to the electric company, but no attention has been paid to it.

Wilbur Corwyl, aged ten, while playing with a dog on the Pike last night was bitten on the hand, a painful wound resulting which was cauterized by a physician. It is thought that the injury was inflicted accidentally in play and the dog was not taken up.

James H. Brady died this morning at the home of his stepfather on Atlantic avenue. He was 26 years of age and a native son.

Mrs. Mattie Kilborn died this morning at the home of her daughter on Elm avenue. She was a native of Indiana and 75 years of age.

C. Scott, one of the members of the U. S. C. preps football team which played Long Beach yesterday, found it necessary to seek medical attention before leaving for home last night. He was struck in the chest in one of the rushes and three ribs were broken. He was able to go home this morning.

FRUIT COLORING SLOWLY.

Pomona Growers Assert That Weather Conditions Are Not Just What They Should Be.

POMONA, Nov. 25.—There will be comparatively little holiday fruit shipped from the local orange packing houses this season because the fruit is coloring slowly, owing to the scarcity of cold nights following warm days. The largest crop of oranges in the history of Pomona Valley is on the trees and thus far is in excellent condition, although in some orchards, in common with other localities in Southern California there are many split oranges showing up on the trees. No cause is given for these "splits" and it is hoped the splitting will cease.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Northcraft the wedding of Royal B. Thayer of Thermal, cousin of Mrs. Northcraft, and Miss Theodosia Powell of Riverside, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Rev. Albert P. Davis officiating in the presence of relatives. After the ceremony the wedding party came to Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Thayer have gone on a honeymoon trip and on their return will reside at Thermal where Mr. Thayer has interests.

PHONE GROWTH.

The local Home Telephone Company is installing new sections to its switchboard making the ultimate capacity of the plant 5000 phones. Under present equipment only 3500 subscribers can be handled and the improvement is made necessary by the rapid growth of the business of the company.

TWO WEDDINGS.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pixley, nee Miss McCain, who were married here on Sunday, have gone to Vallejo, their future home, where Mr. Pixley is connected with the commissary department of the United States torpedo-boat "Farragut." In the spring the "Farragut" will probably be sent to San Diego and Mr. and Mrs. Pixley will reside there.

TEMPESTUOUS VOYAGE.

Steamer Shasta, Lumber Laden, Encounters Severe Seas in Voyage From Columbia River.

SAN PEDRO, Nov. 25.—The steamer Shasta, Capt. Hansen, arriving this morning, lumber-laden, from the Columbia River reports an exceedingly rough voyage. The steamer was seven days on the way, while her usual time is four and one-half days. Capt. Hansen states that the south-easter encountered was one of the stiffest gales he ever bucked, the wind at times attaining a velocity of over ninety miles an hour. While the Shasta was kept full speed ahead, at times she was able to make only a mile an hour against the gale. Great seas swept over the vessel during the storm, but the Shasta arrived with her cargo intact, bringing 850,000 feet of lumber for the E. K. Wood Lumber Company.

MONROVIA.

MONROVIA, Nov. 25.—At a meeting of the Merchants' Association held this week it was decided that a banquet be given December 15 to which each member will be allowed to invite two friends and the doors will be thrown open to the ladies.

Sec. Fred I. Kremer has sent an invitation to Walter Goldsmith of Los Angeles to make the opening address, and Joseph Scott former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will be among the speakers of the evening.

The Visiting Nurse Association received donations at its headquarters on West Lemon avenue this week for the sick and needy poor and so liberal were the contributions of necessities and delicacies that Mrs. Hugh S. Havens chairman of philanthropy and Mrs. Bonnyman the trained nurse were both busy distributing the generous gifts.

GLENDALE WANTS LIBRARY.

Where to Put It and How to Get It Now Questions of Interest to Ambitious Citizens.

GLENDALE, Nov. 25.—An election will be held in this city and the adjoining districts on January 3 to decide whether or not Tropico, West Glendale, North Glendale, and a portion of Eagle Rock shall be annexed to the city of Glendale and thereby change it from a city of the sixth class to one of the fifth class. The citizens of the central and eastern portions of the city as now incorporated are opposed to adding new territory until a location for a city hall and library has been decided upon. A compromise may be effected by agreeing to vote bonds to the amount of $60,000 to purchase the old Glendale hotel and grounds. The building was erected during the old boom, at a cost of $47,000, and is now used as a sanatorium by the Battle Creek people. The grounds contain five acres with a street on four sides. The lawns and trees and shrubbery are in excellent condition and with few changes could be made a beautiful public park with ample room for a library in one corner fronting on Fourth street, and the city hall in the other. It is argued that the building can be leased as a tourist hotel for an amount sufficient to pay interest on the bond issue. This is a central location and will undoubtedly be instrumental in uniting all factions.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce will meet next Tuesday evening to discuss the borough system of government with a view to being consolidated with Los Angeles.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Valley Improvement Association are willing to unite and co-operate with Hollwood people and others in an effort to have the new State Normal School located near Echo Park on the site suggested by Will D. Gould in his Times article of today.

Harry Wild and Harry Chase, both of this city, will commence the publication of a new weekly paper December 1, with offices on Brand boulevard.

SOUTH PASADENA.

SOUTH PASADENA, Nov. 25.—An adjourned meeting of the Board of Trustees of this city was held in the council chambers Monday evening, as there was too much business at the regular session to attend to. The feature of the evening was a discussion of the report of the city clerk, which is really an auditor's report. Trustee Wilson reported that owners of the City Hall building submitted an agreement that they would allow the board to occupy present quarters after the expiration of the present lease, which is about up, providing that sixty days notice is given of vacation. W. L. Cox, city clerk was also given a two weeks vacation, which started Wednesday.

FIGURES TALK.

MONEY VALUES NATURE'S OUTPUT

COTTON FIGURES THIS YEAR IN RIVERSIDE'S PRODUCTION.

County Shows Approximately Eight Million Dollars Value Received From the Soil—Manufacturing Also Given a Boost in Annual Report.

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 25.—Riverside county products for the past year reached a total of approximately $8,000,000, according to the annual report which has just been compiled by A. A. Wood, under instructions from the County Board of Supervisors.

In value of output, citrus fruits lead in round numbers with a total of $3,500,000. The value of the orange crop was $2,137,530; lemons, $1,325,647, and grape fruit, $24,538.

On account of the shortness of the crop, this is nearly $1,000,000 below the normal output

The value of the grape crop was $73,600, and apricots, peaches, olives, pears, prunes, walnuts and almonds help swell the total.

Though this is a strictly prohibition county, the output of wines and brandy for the year reaches a total value of $434,550. For the first time cotton figures in the products of the county on a commercial scale. The amount produced was 125,000 pounds, valued at $22,500. This was raised in the Coachella Valley, in the vicinity of Salton Sea.

Manufactured products for the year reach the value of $1,271,105. The output of the cement plants was $214,500; crushed rock plants, $185,730; sewer pipe factories, $181,000; planing mills, $146,000, and foundries, $143,500.

The poultry industry of the county brought in a total of $166, , and the output of the creameries was approximately $200,000.

Grain crop of county, including wheat, barley and oats, reached total slightly in excess of half-million dollars. Alfalfa hay crop approximated $600,000 in value, and grain hay $300,000, making total of hay and grain $1,400,000.

VOTE FOR BONDS.

By a good majority, $50,000 bonds were voted today for the improvement of Fairmount Park and for additional fire protection for the city. Propositions were balloted upon separately. Vote for park bonds stood 1309 for and 491 against. For fire bonds the vote stood 1438 for and 374 against.

The sum of $30,000 will be expended for constructing swimming and bathing pool for laying out roads, for planting additional ground to trees, for playground apparatus and other improvements in park. Twenty thousand dollars will be expended for additional fire fighting apparatus and fire hydrants.

SAN JACINTO NOTES.

SAN JACINTO, Nov. 25.—James B. Smart, a recent arrival in San Jacinto from the East, this week purchased ten acres of land on Main street, a mile east of town, on which he expects to make a home. An artesian well will be sunk at once, land graded and seeded to alfalfa and as soon as a house can be built Mr. Smart and family will occupy the property.

J. W. Elliott, who recently purchased acreage property from B. J. Inwall on First srteet, met with a serious accident this week while working in the Fullerton oil fields. His face and hands were bardly burned and his eyesight injured. This accident will delay improvements he had planned this winter on his San Jacinto property.

PIONEER DIES.

C. C. Ellsworth died at his home on Central avenue early Wednesday morning and the funeral was held at 2 o'clock Thursday. The deceased had been a resident of this place for the past fifteen years and leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

Superintendent and Mrs. Will H. Stanley this week entertained a distinguished party of government officials from the Indian Department. In the party were Walter B. Fry, assistant chief of the educational division; Bascom Johnson, Attorney for the Advisory Board of Indian Affairs, Washington, D. C.; Harwood Hall, Superintendent for California, Arizona and Nevada, and Mrs. E. C. Sterling, of Redlands. The visitors in speaking of the work on the Sobaba reservation were very complimentary to the superintendent and to the teacher. This was the last reservation of the Mission Indians inspected and the visitors declared the work here surpassed that of any other reservation.

Rains of the past two weeks throughout the grain sections have varied from one-half to one and one-half inches. CAN DRAW SALARIES.

Appellate Court Decision Allays Fears In Santa Ana Official Breasts.

SANTA ANA, Nov. 25.—The Orange county salary act passed by the last Legislature is constitutional and the payment of salaries to a list of deputies for the last twenty months was legal. This in effect is the decision of the Second Appellate Court. The decision of the Appellate Court upholding the decision of Judge Willis of Los Angeles, who heard the case, was reported here today.

For twenty months the salary act has been the subject of litigation. Different phases of it have gone to the Appellate Court twice and the Supreme Court once.

Dist.-Atty. Davis ruled that the payment of the salaries of new deputies was illegal, and he would not allow his deputy to accept the $75 a month salary provided for him in the act. All other deputies have been getting their warrants regularly except when held up by proceedings. Back warrants aggregating $1500 await Deputy Finley of the District Attorney's office.

WAIT FOR ADVICE.

Sheriff Lacy will not send officers with extradition papers to Mexico City after Leodora Garcia, wanted here for shooting Luis Manzo eighteen months ago, until further word is received from the American embassy at Mexico City. The sheriff telegraphed asking if it were well to send his men after the prisoner while conditions are unsettled. Ambassador Wilson replied: "Await advice from embassy."

WRECKS MACHINE.

Late last night as W. R. Cubbon was returning from the Santa Monica races, his automobile was wrecked on an iron post in the middle of the road. The post marks the boundary line between Los Angeles and Oranges counties. Cubbon and three other Santa Anans were returning at a moderate rate of speed when they struck the post, which sticks up just high enough to catch an axle. Springs were broken, the axle was bent almost double the engine was loosened and the framework damaged.

The iron post originally stood about four feet high, but owing to accidents created by it, the post was lowered and piled with dirt. The dirt washed away and left the post more dangerous than ever because harder to see.

WASHINGTON TOPICS.

Pension List Decreasing.

While the number of pensioners on the rolls of the United States decreased during the past fiscal year by more than 25,000, the average annual value of each pension at the close of the year was slightly more than $2 greater than a year previously, when it was $169.82, according to the annual report of James D. Davenport, Commissioner of Pensions.

Of the 921,083 persons on the pension roll at the close of last year nearly 10 per cent,—89,828 being the exact number—resided in Pennsylvania, according to report, while Ohio was a close second, being only 600 behind, followed in order by New York, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Massachusetts and Michigan. Nevada is lowest on the list with only 453 pensioners to its credit.

The disbursements for pensions during the year amounted to $159,974,056.08, a decrease as compared with the previous year of $1,999,647.69. The annual value of the pension roll at the end of the year was $158,332,391.82.

"This is the amount," the report explains, "which would be required to pay all the pensioners on the roll at the close of the year for one entire year, at the rates of pension then existing, should no new pensioners be added to the roll and none be dropped therefrom."

The average annual value of each pension at the close of the year was $171.90, an increase of $2.08 per pensioner, as compared with the previous year. This makes an increase of $1,915,852 in the annual value of the pension roll due to increased pensions.

The number of new names added to the pension rolls during the last fiscal year totaled 29,219 and the number of losses 54,330, making a net decrease of 25,111.

Expenditures for navy pensions amounted to $5,335,457.

The running expenses of the bureau and agencies decreased nearly $200,000 during the past year, $2,657,673 being required to carry on the work during the year.

The number of pension certificates issued during the year was 97,242. This is the smallest number issued in any one year for the last ten years. The decrease is largely due to the fact that nearly all of the surviving soldiers and sailors of the Civil War are now more than sixty-two years of age, and few claims are being filed by them under the act of June 27, 1890.

Our Several Navies.

With the completion of seventy vessels for the quartermaster's department, the War Department has now under its control about 635 vessels, while, strange as it may seem, the Navy Department can boast of but 340 vessels, all told. Operating on the Pacific, including the transports, which are employed primarily in carrying troops and military supplies, also the families of officers under traveling orders, the quartermaster's department has about 155 vessels, not counting some fifty small steamers and lighters, which do an international business in the Philippines.

There are some forty-six forts stationed along the Atlantic coast, many of which are situated either on islands or the extremities of peninsulas. To carry supplies to these stations and to transport troops, as occasion may require, freight and passenger vessels are constantly employed.

In the engineers' section of the War Department some 420 vessels are in use. Of these the most important are the big seagoing dredges constantly employed either in digging new channels or in keeping those already in operation open and free from forming bars.

Besides the War Department the Department of Agriculture has a fleet of several small steamers attached to the forest service, the State Department maintains a steam launch attached to the embassy at Constantinople, the Treasury Department has supervision of a fleet of forty-one revenue cutters and twenty-nine small steamers belonging to the public health service, the Department of Commerce and Labor maintains fifty-one steamers for carrying supplies to lighthouses, planting and taking up buoys and seventy-two lightships; there are eighteen vessels in the coast survey service and a number in the bureau of fisheries; several vessels in the bureau of immigration and naturalization, and the Isthmian canal commission has a fleet of 139 steamers, lighters, barges, tugs, etc.

Picking Out West Pointers.

Col. Scott, the retiring commander at West Point, has explained in his last report why the Military Academy is never full. Five hundred and five young men were named to take the examinations in the period covered by his report. A little less than one in five failed to report for the examinations; eleven backed out after beginning the tests; six were rejected for physical reasons alone; sixty-three failed to pass either the mental or physical test; one hundred and fifty-three who were physically eligible failed to pass the mental tests. There were left, after the sifting-out process, only about a hundred and fifty, who may properly be called picked men. They deserve the compliment which Emperor William wrote upon the margin of a photograph of the cadets when paraded in honor of Admiral von Koster and Lord Kitchener: "A fine body of promising young gentlemen."

Looking at Harmon.

Gossip is already active regarding the next Democratic Presidential candidate, and the names of Judson Harmon, Woodrow Wilson, William J. Gaynor and Joseph W. Folk are mentioned. Of the number, however, Governor Harmon of Ohio is believed to be the one man in the party who can make Nebraska and New York kiss and make up. The chief trouble which will come to Mr. Harmon in the day of his ambitious activities lies in the fact that his expressions of his views on government never have been positive. There is nothing of the La Follette type about Judson Harmon. The Wisconsin Republican has been accused of being an anarchist, a crank and various other things, but he never has been accused of sidestepping an issue. He has been a simon pure insurgent from the beginning, and there are Democrats who think the man to whom their party should give its support must be one who has stood from the first either for conservatism or for a rapid paced progress.

Woodrow Wilson may turn out to be a second Sage of Princeton. The Democrats know pretty well where he stands, and if they are not afraid of his conservatism they may turn to him as they turned six years ago to Alton B. Parker against the wishes and the protest of the Bryan following.

Champ Clark wants to be President of the United States. Who does not for that matter? As Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mr. Clark will be personally responsible in large measure for any Democratic legislative blunders. He has a chance to make himself or break himself. It is perhaps unnecessary that cautionary signals should be made to him from the headquarters of ambitious ones in New York, Ohio, New Jersey and his home State, Missouri. Mr. Clark doubtless desires to be cautious on his own account.

Reduce the Speaker's Power.

Speaker Cannon will aid in the fight to denude the Speaker of the National House of Representatives of his power in the naming of committees.

It is advanced that Mr. Cannon, so soon to lose the chair, certainly will do all he can to curtail the limits of the Democrat who is to succeed him. That Democrat is calculated to be none other than Champ Clark of Missouri, and he, too, is willing that the change in the Speaker's powers be made.

Some members of the House believe if the power to appoint committees is taken away from the Democratic Speaker in the Sixty-second Congress and handed over to the House membership, all hope of harmony in the Democratic ranks may be abandoned.

It would mean the upsetting of the seniority rule and the turning down of many men of long service who have been the minority ranking members of the most powerful committees. On the other hand, it is pointed out, harmony also would suffer from a maintenance of the seniority rule, as that rule would give to the South the chairmanships of all the great committees and leave unrecognized the Democratic membership from Northern and Western States.

Under the seniority rule the committee on agriculture would go to Lamb of Virginia, banking and currency to Pujo of Louisiana, census to Hay of Virginia, foreign affairs to Flood of Virginia, immigration to Burnett of Alabama, Indian affairs to Stephens of Texas, interstate and foreign commerce to Adamson of Georgia, judiciary to Clayton of Alabama, merchant marine and fisheries to Clark of Florida, naval affairs to Padgett of Tennessee, patents to Legare of South Carolina, pensions to Richardson of Alabama, postoffice to Moon of Tennessee, printing to Finley of South Carolina, public buildings to Shepard of Texas, public lands to Robinson of Arkansas, rivers and harbors to Sparkman of Florida, Territories to Lloyd of Missouri and ways and means, the greatest of all, to Underwood of Alabama, unless Champ Clark of Missouri should fail to capture the Speakership.

Government Watching the Cents.

What users pay for stamped envelopes bought one at a time above what they might get them for in packages of twenty-five, amounts to between $300,000 and $400,000 a year.

The government sells a package of twenty-five 2-cent stamped envelopes for 54 cents. If the postmaster sells one of these envelopes for 3 cents or two for 5 cents a few extra pennies are realized on each package. The excess used to be retained by the postmaster, but an order of Postmaster-General Frank H. Hitchcock required that a record of the extra pennies be made and the money turned into the government.

Some postmasters complained at the triviality of keeping a record of the few fractional parts of a cent a day, but it was pointed out at the convention which has just closed that the 60,000 postoffices yielded enough of those small amounts to reduce the postal deficit several hundred thousand a year.

Demonstrated a Miracle.

Michael Butler, one of Uncle Sam's trusties, who carries mail to the jackies at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, and over Gray's Ferry road to the naval home, had this joke the other day for a party of friends. It's a story about the definition of the word miracle.

"Mike said to Pat, 'can you tell me the definition of the word miracle?'"

"Sure," said Pat, with a grin.

"Well, will you tell me?" querried Mike.

"Mike did as he was told, and Pat booted him hard.

"Mike straightened up in anger.

"'Did you feel that?' asked Pat, with a chuckle.

"'You bet your life I did,' Mike replied.

"'Well, if you hadn't felt it, it would have been a miracle.'"—[Philadelphia Times.

Knocked Off His Wagon.

E. Goolup, a junk dealer living at No. 907 Vignes street, was knocked off his wagon at the corner of First and Vignes streets yesterday evening, falling in such a way that nearly the entire back of his hand was torn up. He also sustained slight cuts about the forehead, all of which was given attention by Police Surgeon Wright at the Receiving Hospital.

Victim of Purse-Snatcher.

Mrs. C. Gollinger, a roomer at the Hotel Seville, No. 732 South Flower, complained to the police last night that she had been robbed of $10 and her handbag by a purse snatcher. She said she was walking south on Flower street, between Seventh and Eighth streets, when the robber sprang at her from the cover of some bushes, snatched her handbag and ran away down the alley. The only description she could give of him was that he was about five feet three inches in height and weighed about 125 pounds. The stolen handbag, a black leather affair, contained two purses and some beauty culture tickets besides the money—two $5 gold coins.

LANCASTER.

LANCASTER, Nov. 25.—Final papers were delivered today in a deal of general interest in Antelope Valley, as well as all over the county, because it affects the historical Sierra Pelona ranch. This is the most important real estate transaction made in this section for many months. The ranch consists of 480 acres, thirty-five of which are covered with full-bearing apple trees, while the balance of the land has been seeded to grain. It has been the property of D. H. Baldwin for the past six years, who purchased it from William Blanchard, now a resident of Pasadena. The new owner is M. Bowman of Los Angeles. The consideration is reported as being in the neighborhood of $40,000. Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin will move to Los Angeles on the first of December. Probably no ranch in the valley has attained more publicity than has the Sierra Pelona, owing to the fact that its fruit has won for its owners prizes wherever and whenever exhibited, and has always commanded the highest price in the fruit market.

Another important sale made today is the transfer of the south eighty acres of the E. C. Coleman ranch to R. S. Chaffin of Pasadena. Mr. Coleman recently traded his homestead of 160 acres and also eighty acres adjoining the homestead for Pasadena property.

H. A. Brookman of Los Angeles has taken possession of the Toliver ranch for a term of years, which he will improve on shares. Mr. Toliver is a buyer for Hamburger's department store in Los Angeles.

Fire destroyed a shed belonging to O. F. Goodrich, who sustained the loss of valuable telephone material. Mr. Goodrich being the manager of the local line. The fire started at the noon hour today, the origin being unknown.

Mrs. Ida A. Budd is now presiding over the postoffice at Rosamond, which has been removed to the Hamilton Hotel. She received her appointment on Wednesday and plunged into business without delay.

Trustees of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh yesterday announced that following Andrew Carnegie's gift of $1,000,000 for immediate use in building extensions and equipment of the Carnegie technical schools, he also gave an additional sum of $2,000,000 in 5 per cent. bonds of the United States Steel Corporation. The earnings of these bonds are to go for the maintenance of the enlarged school.

THANKSGIVING.

ARIZONA SHIPS FIRST ORANGES.

Three Carloads Started East by Fast Freight.

Ten Dollars a Box Expected For Fine Fruit.

Cold Weather During Year Makes Crop Light.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 24.—There is a true Thanksgiving spirit among the people of Phoenix and vicinity, for nature has been most kind to them. A sufficient rain laid the dust just before the opening of the Territorial Fair and heavy and needed rains fell during the week that followed the fair. Fair week itself was ideal in the way of weather. There has been enough rain to permit the closing of the gates at the Roosevelt Dam and the gaining of a few thousand acre feet of water. The farmers have been enabled to begin their fall plowing and there is little doubt that the ordinary winter rains will at least fill the great storage basin at Roosevelt.

Monday the first carload of Arizona oranges was started by fast freight for New York, where the highest prices ever known for the local product are expected. It is believed that the best of the fruit will realize $10 a box. The fruit is sweet and well flavored and fairly well colored. Three carloads will go out this week. The crop in this valley is expected to be very light this year, owing to the cold weather of last winter, and it is improbable that more than eighty carloads of strictly first-class fruit will be dispatched.

QUARANTINE ON WHITE FLY.

Yuba and Butte counties in California have been included in a quarantine declared by the Arizona Horticultural Commission against a number of localities, mainly in the gulf region, where the white fly is known to exist on citrus and nursery stock. Defoliation will not be accepted as a complete safeguard.

The Board of Trade of Parker, Ariz., has addressed a strong letter to Secretary Ballinger of the Interior Department, asking that action be taken at the earliest possible date toward opening up the Colorado River Indian Reservation for settlement. It is claimed that the residents of Parker have a quasi agreement to that effect with the Secretary himself. Specifically, what is wanted is the allotment of land to the Mohave Indians in five-acre tracts, as was done near Yuma, and then the utilization of $50,000 already available for diverting water from the Colorado for the irrigation of the Indian lands and for the incidental benefit of the white settlers, who may be permitted to occupy the lands not set aside for the Indians.

NEW RESERVATION SURVEY.

A new survey is being made of the Salt Lake Indian Reservation east of Phoenix, preparatory to allotment of the land to the Indian residents in severalty. The reservation is not large and its irrigable area already is well settled, so it is unlikely that any part will be left available for settlement by white farmers. The Pimas now on the land are among the most prosperous of the Arizona aborigines, most of them living in comfortable houses and possessing wagons and even carriages. To them is now being joined a fragment of the Mohave-Apache tribe, moved from the old McDowell military reservation, distant only a few miles.

BOULEVARD JOCKEYING.

Last winter a number of public-spirited citizens, residing north of Phoenix, organized a special road district and secured congressional sanction to the issuance of $30,000 in bonds wherewith to make a boulevard of Central avenue. The bonds sold for a premium and work was commenced, from the northern end, merely in order to demonstrate a few constructive problems, so it was said. But when nearly a mile had been built, the property owners on the southern end, near Phoenix, began to ask why the more-traveled section should not be first considered. But the trustees went serenely on, in the neighborhood of their own property, till now nearly three miles have been put in, far from the city, at a cost of $21,000 of the $31,900 available, leaving more than four miles to be built from the city with the remainder. At a meeting held at the Osborn schoolhouse, 80 per cent. of the landowners and special tax payers protested, demanding that work at once be transferred to the southern end of the road, but their protest seems to have been of little avail.

PUSHING ELECTRIC LINE.

Nearly 100 right-of-way deeds have been filed for the new Glendale electric railway) now under construction by representatives of Gen. M. H. Sherman of Los Angeles. The Indian School line will be finished westward to Orangewood on Central avenue within ten days and then will be pushed on to the sugar factory and to Glendale.

The Anti-Saloon League of Arizona, which is understood to have supported the Democratic ticket very generally at the late election, has just issued a proclamation "deprecating the unfairness" of the convention majority which saw fit to deny a submission of prohibition to the voters of Arizona.

That Arizona is not as "wide open" as even a Southern California beach town was shown lately by the summary closing in Phoenix of a Japanese ping-pong parlor and the arrest of the managers. Arrests also were made of a couple of Americans who thought they had a right to pitch dollars on the sidewalk, as their diversion undoubtedly was in defiance of the anti-gambling laws of the Territory.

James McKee has been arrested for freight car thefts at Fresno, Cal. Railroad coach keys were found in his possession. Evidence against him was given by his wife, who alleges that he beat her after vainly trying to drive her into a life of shame.

ANGELENOS TO BUILD THEATER.

The vestry of Trinity Episcopal church has unanimously requested Dr. J. W. Atwood, Bishop-elect of Arizona, to continue in immediate charge of the church, which then may be raised to the rank of procathedral. Dr. Atwood's consecration as Bishop will probably take place in January at an eastern point. Bishop J. M. Kendrick will then change his official residence to El Paso, Tex., though his family home will continue to be in Phoenix.

Close investigation of the eyes of the school children of Phoenix has disclosed the presence of trachoma in fifty cases, which have been isolated. Most of the children are from the poorest of homes and it has been suggested that the School Trustees, County Supervisors and City Council join in providing funds for the treatment of the disease.

At the last call of the Territorial Bank Comptroller, the Phoenix National Bank returned a resources total of $1,830,585, the Valley Bank of $1,-963,223 and the National Bank of Arizona of $1,197,284.

CONFLICT.

Property of Forlorn Widow Is Rich Stake.

Both Sides Profess Entire Disinterestedness.

Bitter Court Struggle Is Predicted.

Two Los Angeles lawyers and a preacher have closed in a bitter struggle about a woman's money, so that the world perhaps is at last to learn what really happens when an irresistible force meets an invincible object. Also the proportion of two lawyers to one preacher is most interesting.

When Attorneys Mahoney and Reach called upon the Rev. Charles V. La Fontaine, pastor of the Nazarene Church, residing at No. 4307 South Flower street, and made a written demand on him to turn over to them all of the property and papers belonging to Mary Anna Whear, he came as near telling them to go to "Helena, Montana," as a minister should.

"For," said the Rev. Mr. La Fontaine, "it is a moral obligation on me to stand up for my legal rights. It is not that I want the money for myself, if any of it should be left, when Mrs. Whear po longer is in need of the goods of this world, but I am a minister of the gospel and I have the Lord's work to do. This work needs money and if any of Mrs. Whear's money is left when she has passed on to her heavenly estate, I have a right to use it in the way I see fit.

"Legally, I have a right to every cent of the money and under my legal rights I am going to take whatever is left. Morally, the obligation will then rest with me as I see it and it is none of the business of Mrs. Nellie Murray, of San Diego, nor of the lawyers she has set on me, to say how I may regard that obligation."

Mrs. Mary Ann Whear is 85 and without a living relative. At present she is living in the New York apartment house in San Diego, owned and conducted by Mrs. Nellie Murray. Declaring that Mrs. Whear's estate is worth at least $30,000 and that she is penniless, Mrs. Murray went into the court at San Diego and hed herself appointed guardian for Mrs. Whear.

Acting for Mrs. Murray, Attorneys Mahoney and Reach have made demands on the Rev. Mr. La Fontaine to turn over the property, which he has not done and says he never will.

Mrs. Whear made a deed more than a year ago to Rev. Mr. La Fontaine.

"But the property is not $30,000, nor anything like it," said Rev. Mr. La Fontaine last night at his cheerful little parsonage.

"It is not worth a cent more than $10,000 and if I were to close it out today, which I shall certainly not she would be mighty lucky to get anything like that amount out of it. She gave me a deed to 125 acres of land near San Diego, but the government has a big assessment against it for an unsuccessful water project and the best offer I could get for it at present is $3 an acre. There was a mortgage of more than $1000 against this land and I payed that out of the money Mrs. Whear gave me.

"I took some of her money and added it to more of my own money to build this house as a joint home for herself and my own family. The amount I used for this purpose would not exceed the cost that she has been to me during the year that she lived here with us.

"All that was left of her money, I put into Los Angeles real estate and while it is not earning anything at present the time will come when the investment will pay.

"Mrs. Whear's husband, Richard P. Whear, made a considerable fortune in the clothing buisness and he invested it in San Diego property and first mortgages. He lived in this country for forty years and during the last years of his life he was unfortunate in most of the money he placed. He did save enough to keep himself and his wife modestly and in comfort but Mrs. Whear never had any idea of the value of a dollar and all of their fifty years of married life, the Whear purse strings were in her hands.

"She had a brother, George Goodwin, who had been a stock broker in Chicago, and who had won and lost several fortunes. He came out here 'flat broke' and the Whears took care of him as long as he lived. Mr. Whear died first and before he did so he deeded all that he had to George Goodwin to manage for Mrs. Whear. When Goodwin knew that he had not long to live, he deeded the estate to Mrs. Whear and before Goodwin died she deeded it all to me, because I was their pastor and their closest friend.

"Before Whear died I promised him that I would take care of his wife as long as she lived and this was agreeable to Goodwin and to Mrs. Whear. I stand ready to do this now and I have no intention of putting Mrs. Whear and her money into the hands of Mrs. Nellie Murray.

"When Mrs. Whear lived with me my automobile and my wife never went anywhere, but what Mrs. Whear went with them. Last July I needed a vacation in the mountains and I made the serious mistake of letting Mrs. Whear go to San Diego and stay with Mrs. Murray. The Whears had lived in Mrs. Murray's rooming-house before Mr. Whear's death.

"It was natural for Mrs. Whear to want to spend a little while near her husband's grave, but I had no business taking her where Mrs. Murray could get her under her influence. Mrs. Murray poisoned Mrs. Whear's mind against me and my wife until she would not return to the home I built for her.

"I went down last Monday in company with my wife and tried to pay Mrs. Murray for Mrs. Whear's board and room. She wouldn't take a cent, and told me to get out. She said that she did not want anything to do with me and she would not let me see Mrs. Whear. She told us that Mrs. Whear was well and could take care of her own business without our help. That same afternoon I sent a friend to see Mrs. Whear and Mrs. Murray met him at the door and told him that Mrs. Whear was too sick to see anybody.

"I did not seek the responsibility of Mrs. Whear's care, but now that it is on my shoulders I am going to carry it until the court makes me put it down, which will not be as long as my attorney and myself have a legal leg to stand on.

"When Mrs. Whear was with us we had a special nurse while she was sick and I worked and cared for her as if she were my mother. When I took her to San Diego I left this nurse with her, but Mrs. Murray used her influence to have the nurse discharged three days after I left.

"Mrs. Whear only went to Mrs. Murray's house because we tramped San Diego streets for two days and could not find any other place at all to her liking. I took her away from Mrs. Murray in the first place because she begged my wife and I to do so. Both she and George Goodwin said they were dissatisfied with their surroundings there and wanted to come to Los Angeles.

"Her room is waiting her here and if ever she wants to come to it, I will receive her in kindliness and will satisfy her every want. When she was with me I gave her all the money she needed and if she comes back I will do so again."

MISSED HIS FOOTING.

While attempting to board a moving car yesterday on West Second street, between Spring and Broadway, C. H. Jacobson, No. 2027 East First street, lost his grip on the rail-guards and fell to the pavement. His face was badly bruised and he was severely shaken up. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital. After treatment by Police Surgeon Carter, Jacobson was able to go to his home.

BREAK RECORD PAYING TAXES.

Property Owners Set a New Mark in County.

Nearly Hundred Seventy-five Thousand Dollars.

That's What They Hand in in Single Day.

Property-holders in one grand rush to avoid extra charges for being delinquent in paying their taxes broke all records for the amount paid in one day through the windows at the County Tax Collector's Office yesterday. They delivered up $174,874.87 in gold, silver, bills and checks.

When the collector's deputies opened the doors to the public at 8 o'clock yesterday morning they found a long line of citizens on the sidewalk. When

CACKLING.

BIDDY'S WORKING ONCE AGAIN.

PRICE OF EGGS OUGHT TO DECLINE WITHIN FEW DAYS.

Now That Moulting Period Is Passed, Dealers Predict Output Will Soon Be More Plentiful. Chinese Stock Not Sold in Los Angeles, It Is Asserted.

According to the prediction of local wholesale men prices on eggs of all descriptions, which have been aviating as high as 60 cents a dozen the past month, will now commence to descend notwithstanding yesterday's predictions of advance. They will continue to come down until the elusive egg will be within the reach of all instead of the favored few, say these dealers.

The moulting period in the hen world is about over and the feathered fraternity will again attend strictly to business now the national holiday is passed.

The cold storage market continues to be replenished with shipments from Kansas, Oklahoma and Minnesota. There will be a proportionate decline in these eggs within the next two weeks.

The present soaring prices of eggs gave rise to the rumor that Los Angeles was receiving shipments of eggs from China, which were being sold on the local market as first-class eggs. A round of the wholesale egg men disproved these rumors.

Though it is a recognized fact that large shipments of Chinese eggs have been received in the Northwest and distributed as far south as San Francisco, no information has come to hand of any of these "Oriental delectables" reaching Los Angeles.

Chinese eggs were imported into this country for the first time this year, as an experiment. They are considered wholesome, and under ordinary conditions of climate will keep for several months because of the thin layer of paraffine wa x which is spread on each egg before it leaves China.

It is stated that England has been purchasing Chinese eggs for years. Nearly every large biscuit factory in that country annually imports millions of eggs from the Orient. The most remarkable thing about Chinese eggs is their cheapness. Hens are almost as important an acquisition to a Chinese family as sons and daughters. A dozen eggs in China sells for about four cents wholesale, and should retail in this country for about ten or fifteen cents.

FUNERAL OF MINISTER.

The funeral of Rev. J. W. Shoaff, who died in this city on Thursday, will be held today at 11 a.m., in Trinity M. E. Church, South. The deceased came to this city, in answer to a call from Trinity Church, about two years ago, and proved an eloquent and acceptable preacher to the congregation, but after a year in the pulpit he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Los Angeles District, by the Bishop. He was thirty-seven years in the ministry, and was honored by his church at different periods in his history. He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters in this city. The funeral will be conducted by Rev. Dr. R. P. Howell, pastor of Trinity Church they were allowed to walk in they formed four lines reaching from the back of the long building nearly to the front.

All day long citizens swarmed into the building until thousands had made their deposits. When one went out it seemed that his place was taken by two more persons. There were many persons in line when it came time to finish the day's work, but they were permitted to make their deposits.

Every official worked with all possible speed to accommodate those who had waited until the eleventh hour to perform their duties. The receivers at the windows did not find time to stop for lunch and worked for nine hours without stopping.

When the books were balanced last night, it was found that about $2,500,000 had been collected since the windows were opened on October 10. The total assessment is nearly $8,000,000, but about half of it is not due until next spring.

POSTMEN HELP, TOO.

Thousands upon thousands of dollars in the shape of checks were delivered by the postmen yesterday. These have not been opened, and thousands of other checks have not yet been entered on the books. The Collector several days ago ceased to reckon the checks by numbers and now designates them by boxes. The boxes are of no mean size and the amount of money represented by the paper in them will probably not be known for a week.

The collections will close Monday. After that time there will be an additional charge for tardiness. In order to give the people every possible opportunity to liquidate in time, the collector's office will remain open this afternoon.

The rush was not entirely without its humorous incidents. One of the best jokes of the day was on A. M. Watson, who is employed in the redemption department. He was assigned to the outside, yesterday, in order to keep the taxpayers in line.

THE BABIES THERE.

He noticed a woman with a small baby in her arms slowly working her way toward one of the windows. Her progress was slow and she appeared as though she were not over strong.

"Just sit here and I will pay your taxes," he said to her, as he placed a chair at one side and took her bill.

He procured her receipt and she was profuse in her thanks as she turned to go. A few moments later another woman with a small child appeared at the end of one of the lines. The baby face looked familiar to him, but he could not just remember where he had seen it before. He gave her a chair and paid her bill.

The third woman with a baby appeared in a short time. She stood at the rear of a row of humanity that was slowly pushing forward. Watson went toward her to give her assistance. He took a good look at the child and stopped. The woman looked at him appealingly. He studied the child and then went up to the woman and said:

"Madam that won't work this time. That child has been here twice before inside of five minutes. You might as well take it back to its mother."

Watson followed her as she went toward the door. The two women on whom he had wasted his sympathy were waiting for her on a settee near the entrance. The third woman went away without paying her taxes.

TALK ON CLEAN JOURNALISM

William P. McKenzie of Boston will deliver an address on the subject of "Clean Journalism," in Simpson Auditorium, this evening, at 8 o'clock. The address is free to the public.

MONEY TO FIGHT CRUELTY.

The account of the arrest of Eugene Phipps and C. T. Wills, by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, on the charge of plucking the feathers from turkeys before they had been killed, attracted the attention of B. A. Warren of Danby, this State.

He at once sat down and wrote a letter to The Times, in defense of his old Thanksgiving friend, the gobbler, and backed up his sympathy by inclosing a check for $5, for Superintendent Zimmer, to be used in helping to prosecute the two men, especially Phipps, who is alleged to have been the actual picker of the feathers, Wills being manager of the place. In his letter he says:

"I wish this money to be used to assist in the prosecution of the men who were arrested for picking turkeys while alive, especially the one who tortured the old gobbler. Please let me know if you find any more turkeys in like condition, and I will send again."

The two prisoners demanded a jury trial, and the case has been set for next month.

BLAZE COSTS DEAR.

J. L. Palmer was fined $100 yesterday by Justice Baird for having kindled a fire on the Lankershim ranch without procuring the proper permission from the fire warden. The flames became uncontrollable for a time and burned over a large area.

DID YOU EVER!

CAN'T CONFESS TO HIS GIRL.

POSITIVELY HE'S AFRAID TO GO HOME IN THE DARK.

Swain Is in Love, But Sidesteps All Engagements at Night Because the Cars Make Him Seasick—He Can't Explain and She Won't Understand.

Is there in Los Angeles an expert on mal de mer who can suggest a cure for "sea-sickness" on dry land at night? If so, James E. Hill, who resides at No. 140 East Avenue 59, would like to know about it for thereon hangs a romance. Hill arrived recently from Yuma. This is the first large city in which he ever resided, as he came West not long ago from his father's farm in North Carolina.

It was not until he got here that he discovered his strange affliction. In the day he can ride on street cars without discomfort, but three blocks on a car at night produces violent illness.

"I am as seasick as the poorest sailor in the world when tossed by the waves of a sea in a storm," he said in telling a local physician of his difficulty, "and the result is that I dare not go anywhere at night. Ever since I discovered my peculiar malady, I have made repeated experiments, but there is no use to persist in the effort, for I simply cannot ride on a car at night without becoming deathly ill. As far as I know, there is not another thing in the world the matter with me, but goodness knows this is bad enough. I am humiliated every day by the fact that I dare not even make a social engagement at night.

Do you know, I believe that this is going to rob me of my chance of happiness for all of my life. There is a girl—and I simply cannot explain. I am ashamed to confess to her what the trouble is, and she cannot understand why I never offer to take her anywhere after dark. If her family would only move within walking distance of the theaters and places of amusement, I think I could win her heart, but the way things are running, I couldn't win her to save my life.

"In a way, I suppose my trouble has been inherited. My father, who never saw the sea in his life, could never ride on a wagon without becoming seasick, and I have a brother who is the same way.

"When I was at home, I had to haul all the hay from the fields to the barn because father did not dare to get on a wagon in day or night. I used to laugh at him, because I had never been on an electric car, and I did not know that I had inherited his embarrassing disease in a different form.

"I am able to ride on a train at night, and I can even stand to ride in a boat, but the minute I get on a street car at night I begin to hunt for fresh air. Several times when I have tried to overcome my trouble by going somewhere after dark, I have simply had to leave the car and walk. Unless I can find someone who can help me out of this, city life for me will be a perfect failure.

HOBO "TOURISTS" ARRIVE.

Seven breakbeam tourists, who were taken from a box car in the Southern Pacific Railroad yards yesterday morning at an early hour, by Patrolmen Pauts and McAuliffe, were given five days each in the City Jail yesterday by Police Judge Fredericksen.

Romance of Hospital Leads to Engagement.

The announcement, just made, of the approaching marriage of Miss Florence Chase, the talented and charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Chase, No. 2122 Norwood street, brings to light an interesting romance when Daniel Cupid invaded the sacred precincts of the convalescing ward of a large hospital.

Three months ago Dr. A. C. Thorpe had put marriage behind him. One year ago he had been divorced from his wife and he was through with Cupid and his variable ways.

It was a sunny morning and as he chanced to walk by a dainty white room where a young lady was struggling back to life and health, he glanced in. He saw the occupant, and it is strenously maintained that he stood and looked within for ten minutes more or less.

He hastened to the head nurse and casually asked the occupant's name. He found that it was Miss Florence Chase. She was under the care of a brother physician, but this was no barrier. Dr. Thorpe secured permission and also invented the excuse for visiting Miss Chase.

It was the old story. What the doctors' tonics and medicines were unable to do Cupid readily mended. Miss Chase grew strong in a remarkable way and changed doctors. Dr. Thorpe now had a regular excuse to visit Miss Chase.

When Miss Chase was able to walk he took her automobiling daily and when she left the hospital it was only to transfer the seat of the marked attentions which Dr. Thorpe was showering upon her. At her home he became a regular caller and today the marriage is announced.

A little over a year ago Dr. Thorpe and his wife disagreed and after a very sensational divorce case in which charges and counter charges were hurled back and forth, a decree was granted.

Nothing daunted Cupid began working toward the end of soothing the two hearts which were raging against each other. Abandoning all hopes of bringing them together he determined to try a new balm under the formulae of new marriage.

Mrs. Thorpe was the first to capitulate. She met a handsome young man many years her junior, connected with the Southern Pacific Company in this city. The courtship was fast and furious and with an air of "How do you like this, Dr. Thorpe," was married. A few months ago the couple moved to Kansas City.

With this successful consummation of his efforts, Cupid turned his attention to Dr. Thorpe. At first it was of little account and the little fellow with the bow and arrows was compelled to enter the sacred precincts of a great hospital.

Despite the cold impassiveness which is supposed to surround a physician when professionally busy, Cupid found a loose link in the armor of Dr. Thorpe, and during the coming month the doctor and Miss Chase will be married.

Miss Chase has for several years been a teacher in the kindergarten grades of the Los Angeles schools, and has a wide circle of friends. These friends have arranged a delightful list of social events which will be given shortly in honor of the engagement.

GENEROUS MAN GIVES LOT.

Thanksgiving Anticipations of Mrs. Merrill Fully Realized in a Home Site.

Confidence was not misplaced in the benevolent people of Los Angeles, when it was believed that among them was a man or woman who would make joyous their own Thanksgiving day, by presenting a lot to Widow Merrill, upon which to place the model house that had been presented in advance.

Thanksgiving day was but a few hours old, when a man who had read the article in The Times at the breakfast table, called upon Mrs. A. I. Bradley and said that he wished to be the fortunate individual to celebrate the day by making a gift of the lot to Mrs. Merrill, one of the conditions being that nothing was to be publicly said from whom the gift came. It is located on North State street, on high ground, convenient to the Hazard Park public school, and but one block from a car line. The cement house, which is a model of those the Housing Commission expects to erect in the model village, to be laid out on the North Broadway hill, at Cottage Home avenue, will be built at once for Mrs. Merrill and her family. It will contain four rooms, a bath, pantry and roof garden, and will have all modern hygienic improvements.

Another lot was generously offered outside the city, a lady calling at the Merchants' National Bank yesterday, in response to the story in The Times.

Mrs. Bradley reports that the lot on North State street is ideal, and that Mrs. Merrill is wild with delight at the brightness of the future of herself and children.

DOLLIVER MEMORIAL.

Iowa Association Announces Programme for service to the Memory of the Late Senator.

The Iowa Association of Southern California will hold a memorial service for the late Senator Dolliver of Iowa, in Temple Auditorium, on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The committee in charge urged all former Iowans to be there without fail, and the general public has a cordial invitation, in the hope that the large auditorium may be filled, as a tribute to the memory of the deceased Senator. Special trains will be run from Long Beach and other points, and an interesting programme has been prepared for the occasion. President Henderson of the Iowa Association will preside, and the addresses will be by Col. J. J. Steadman of this city, and Dr. Matt S. Hughes of Pasadena.

J. J. Fails will render the following selections on the great organ, during the service: Beethoven's "Funeral March," Greig's "Aria Death," and Chopin's "Funeral March." Vocal numbers will be given by Mrs. Princess Long and Miss L. Elsie Whipp, and the audience will sing several selections.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

A change in the Chief of Police is believed to be contingent on the adoption of a charter amendment permitting the Police Commission to seek a criminologist where it may and pay him large salary.

Edna Brown, who testified that her husband, William R. Brown, had lived but two days with her after their marriage, in September, 1909, secured a decree of divorce from the latter, yesterday.

The second account current of the estate of William Riley was approved in Judge Wilbur's court yesterday.

F. A. Stephenson brought an action yesterday to recover $1000 alleged to be due on account of drawing a divorce complaint for Lilliam M. Reed against Howard S. Reed.

AT THE CITY HALL.

CHANGE CHARTER FOR NEW CHIEF.

POLICE COMMISSION IS SEEKING MORE LATITUDE.

If Amendment Is Broad Enough Galloway Will Remain Until February, When New Law May Be in Effect—Officers Decline Proffered Promotion to Head.

If City Hall officials are right in their predictions it will take a charter amendment to bring about a change in the head of the Police Department. It was stated yesterday the charter amendments to be submitted to the Council next Tuesday, if completed by that time, will provide for more latitude in the choice of a Chief of Police and this latitude may permit the selection of an experienced executive from another city.

According to this understanding it is believed that the Police Commission has made up its mind to "stand pat" with Chief Galloway until February, or thereabouts, when the new charter provisions will be in effect, providing they are carried at the election scheduled for next month, or early in January.

There is also expected to be a larger salary provided as an additional inducement to some expert in criminology.

All appearances indicate that Galloway will remain unless the charter amendment programme succeeds. The search for a suitable man to succeed him, it is said, has led to no agreement among the members of the commission. It was disagreement that made Galloway chief and disagreement seems to preserve him.

The rank and file of the Police Department has been scrutinized by members of the commission and several experienced officers have been considered for the place of chief. It looked several times as though a promotion would solve the problem, but in each case, though a majority of the members were agreed, the man picked declined promotion.

This inquiry was responsive to the suggestion of many familiar with the police force that a man be chosen from it. There are a score of men in the department capable of commanding the force and it is possible yet that one of them may be induced to take it. But the life of a chief under this administration has been so brief that few wish to trade a civil service certainty for a fat job with an ax in view.

That the public is keenly alive to the police force crisis is made evident by the large number of letters the Mayor is receiving daily offering suggestions as to men who are worth consideration for the place. Some of these suggestions have value but the Mayor will not say what is being done.

Nothing has been done with the misdemeanor charge against Chief Galloway in connection with four bicycles which were distributed privately, two to Commissioner Topham, in violation of the State law requiring all unclaimed property to be sold at auction. Deputy Prosecutor Ford said yesterday he was still giving consideration to the facts but would be in no hurry.

It is understood the commission will take up the charges of Harry E. Dean, fifth and last executive secretary of the department against Galloway, after its meeting next Monday night. The investigation will probably be private.

COMFORT STATION.

BIDS RUN HIGH.

Are architects' estimates low or contractors' prices high, is a question the Board of Public Works yesterday referred to the Park Commission for an answer.

Bids were opened yesterday by the former board for the construction of a public comfort station in Central Park. The Park Board estimated that it would cost from $8000 to $10,000, and the latter amount was seggregated for the purpose.

The lowest bid received yesterday, that of G. D. Hurlburt, was $14,252. The other bids ranged as high as $19,-200, this being the price the Alta Planing Mill Company proposed.

This bid was not only highest but was made interesting by the deposit that accompanied it. This was contained in a check for $800, $40 in currency and $200 in $5 gold pieces.

Hurlburt was also the lowest bidder for the construction of a practice tower for the Fire Department. His price is $2095.50. It was referred to the Fire Commission for investigation.

BREWERY LEASE.

NO PERMITS, NO RENT.

The new liquor ordinance is likely to cost the city treasury a monthly income of $375 if the Los Angeles Brewing Company succeeds in wriggling out of its lease on a room in the Temple block, now owned by the city as a City Hall site.

Before the city purchased the site the brewing company made a lease with Kaspare Cohn, its owner, for the room known as No. 203 North Main street. In this a saloon was installed, as the brewing company relates in its notice to the Council, in charge of John R. Hagen. The brewery paid $375 a month rent and Hagen paid $100 a month liquor permit charges.

October 31 the Police Commission, without cause, the brewery alleges, revoked the permit for the saloon and declined to re-issue another. This, the brewery holds, destroys the value of the lease and justifies it in rescinding its portion of the contract. The Council is notified that no more rent will be paid.

This saloon has been known as the "municipal bar" since the city acquired possession of the site.

PLAYGROUND "KICK."

SUNDAY BASEBALL GAMES.

This was illustrated yesterday when about 100 neighbors of the city playground on Slauson avenue, near Compton avenue, filed a remonstrance with the Council asking that Sunday baseball games at this field be prohibited by ordinance. The remonstrants declare that the games are not only a desecration of the day, but that they promote turbulence and disobedience on the part of children.

Not only is the twig of youth being bent the wrong way but the neighbors also declare the presence of the playground with its Sunday sports is depreciating the value of their property through the disturbance and violence incident to its uses.

Sidewalk Gratings.

The Council Streets and Boulevards Committee yesterday decided to recommend the repeal of the ordinance forbidding grated areas over sidewalks. The law was passed several years ago when complaints of peeping Toms were numerous but the committee is now convinced that small areas for cellar venetillation are necessary in many places. The committee will so report to the Council Tuesday.

Grade Crossing Conference.

The conference between city officials and those of the electric and steam roads on the proper treatment of grade crossing questions, which was to have been held yesterday, was postponed indefinitely, though there is hope of setting a day next week for it. Engineers of the roads are to submit their individual ideas of plans of treatment, especially at the more dangerous points where electric lines cross those of steam roads.

PROLONGED.

NEW CHAPTER IN DIVORCE CASE.

MARITAL TROUBLES OF YOUNG COUPLE CONTINUE.

Lawyers Are Seeking to Recover Fees for Services in Former Actions, Which Were Dismissed After the Pair Had Become Reconciled.

The marital infelicity of Lillian M. and Howard S. Reed, that has been on the local judicial boards in a number of different guises the past two years, took on a new complexion in the Superior Court yesterday.

On two occasions Mrs. Reed has filed divorce actions against her spouse, only to have them withdrawn before being brought to trial, and the first of these actions arose yesterday in the guise of an action against both Reed and his wife by Attorney Stephenson, for professional services rendered Mrs. Reed during the last two years.

The complaint sets out that at the request of Mrs. Reed, the plaintiff entered an action for divorce from her husband, only to find that matters between them were afterward patched up, and the complaint was dropped. It is also set out that at the time the case was filed in behalf of Mrs. Reed that the attorney had reason to believe that she had an excellent cause for action against her erring husband. Judgment is asked for $1000 for drawing the petition in the divorce matter, that fell to pieces as soon as Reed had an interview with his wife.

A second divorce action was brought in behalf of Mrs. Reed by Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, attorney, who found that at the last moment the litigation was abandoned.

But troubles pursued the Reeds, and in order to add a bit of spice to the proceedings, Reed began a divorce action against his wife—this time in Imperial county, where he is now residing. Judge Cole spent several days in the local court trying to sift out the legal propositions involved in a change of judges to try the case, it being charged by Mrs. Reed that the court of Imperial county was prejudiced against her. The matter is still hanging fire.

SHORT-LIVED BLISS.

HE QUIT IN TWO DAYS.

On September 6, 1909, Edna Brown was wedded to William R. Brown, connected with the shipping interests of San Diego. On September 8, just two days later, Brown informed his wife that she might as well return to her former home; that his parents did not approve of his marriage to her, and he proposed doing what his folks desired. Brown at the time was 30 years of age, and his wife 31. Both had been married before, the first husband of Mrs. Brown and the wife of Brown both being dead. Brown had one son by the first wife, and he is caring for him in San Diego.

The testimony disclosed a rather strange state of affairs. Mrs. Brown declared that she accepted without much complaint the heartless dictum of her husband who had cast her aside after two days of wedded bliss; she said that she had never seen Brown's parents before the marriage although she had been going with Brown for a year, and they had been engaged eight months. After the separation, she did not go to his folks to see him or ascertain why he preferred his own people to herself.

Mrs. Kavanaugh, mother of Mrs. Brown, turned up her nose in an eloquent fashion when asked if she knew Brown. "I knew him slightly," she said. "They were married at the Congregational parsonage, but I was not there. Did I object? Oh, no, they were both of age. But I have not seen Brown since the wedding. When he sent Myrtle home, I called him up byp telephone and told him what I thought of hm."

The decree was granted, the evidence being positive on the point of desertion.

RILEY ESTATE.

SECOND ACCOUNT APPROVED.

The second account current of J. M. Elliott and H. J. Pinney, executors of the estate of William Riley, was offered in probate court yesterday and approved, as well as that of Pinney, trustee for Riley as owner of valuable lands in Kings county, this State.

The cash balance to the credit of the estate at the last accounting, amounted to $16,222.52, and the total amount chargable to the executors during the term covered by the report, was $22,174.82. The disbursements were $24,060.89. Of these payments, H. M. Barstow, attorney who fought the Riley will case in Judge Rives's court for some weeks in the interest of the integrity of the instrument, received $2250 for his services. Miles A. Long, whose connection with the estate as a beneficiary in one form and another, was paid $10,622.37, in full of all claims against the estate. This, however, does not include what Long has heretofore received from the Riley property. Charles Riley, a brother of the testator, was also paid $1000 on his account as a beneficiary, to relieve pressing wants. The amount of property on hand amounts to $37,-558.23, of which $8,113.93 is in cash. The value of the trust estate is given at $21,100.

An action was brought against Pinney by some of the Riley heirs to compel him to make a deed for the Kings county property, it being alleged that he had taken the deeds in his own name, when as a matter of fact, William Riley had furnished the cash for the transaction. It afterward appeared that Pinney only had a trust deed for the holding and the case was dropped.

WAS A ROVER.

BUT HE LOVED HIS BOY.

Prof. Thomas R. Roundtree, who for some years was at the head of the public schools at Florence, Colo., was defendant in a divorce action heard in Department Five, yesterday, the complainant being his wife, Myrtle Roundtree. The complaint set out desertion, and the decree was allowed.

Prof. Roundtree and Myrtle Shaw were married when they were both engaged in teaching at Florence, in 1900. About four years ago, he gave up his school work and embarked in the profession of assayer, and afterward engaged in various mining camps of Colorado. With the change of employment his love for his wife grew cold, and she returned to her home in Long Beach, where her mother has been since supporting her. One child, a son, was born of the couple, nine years ago, and up to last July, the boy had made his home with the mother following the separation. On the latter date, the father came to Los Angeles and took the boy away, and he is now being maintained in a hotel at Boulder, Colo., where he is attending school.

The story of the action of the wife in allowing the husband to take the lad away without a protest was somewhat surprising to Judge Conrey. It is the universal rule for a parent to fight to the last for the custody of one of their own progeny. Mrs. Roundtree said she consented because she thought the boy would be back later on. When last heard from Roundtree, the pedagogue and master of the rule of three, was assaying ores in Nome, Alaska. He has property in Colorado and is the owner of two houses in Whittier.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

GOTTSCHALK RELEASED. In Judge Davis's court, yesterday, John Gottschalk, charged with a felony, was released on his own recognizance, and the $200 cash bail put up for his appearance was ordered returned to his bondsman.

DESIRE TO MORTGAGE. A petition was filed in the Superior Court, yesterday by the Union Avenue Methodist Church, asking for permission to mortgage the real estate of the congregation for $6000, to the German American Savings Bank. The money is desired, according to the petition, for the payments of pressing debts of the church.

WILL ADMITTED. The will of Marc L. Durand, former manager of the A. Fusenot Company and resident French consul, was admitted to probate yesterday and the widow, Marguerite Petit Durand, qualified as executrix. Durand left an estate valued at $30,000, the largest assets of which were shares of the A. Fusenot Company, valued at $20,000, and forty shares of the capital stock of the International Savings and Exchange Bank, valued at $8000.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT. In Judge McCormick's court yesterday the jury in the case brought by Anna Smith against the National Lumber Company for $15,000 damages on account of the death of M. L. Smith, husband of the plaintiff, returned to court with a verdict for the defendant. Smith was drawn into a pulley used in the establishment of the lumber corporation on Alameda street, and killed. Negligence on the part of the defendant was alleged.

INCORPORATIONS. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by The Union Lithograph Co., capital stock, $100,000, incorporators, Jennison C. Hall, Emma M. Hall, S. H. and Orpha Stiles and B. S. Hubbard, subscribed, $30,000; Pierce Manufacturing Company, capital stock, $100,000, incorporators, W. J. Pierce, H. J. Knowles, W. E. Balcam, Edwin T. Cooper and William L. Harris, subscribed, $8; Mutual Loan and Investment Company, capital stock, $25,000, incorporators, T. C. Kidd, Truman Paxton and N. Z. Whittaker, subscribed, $150.

ANOTHER MOVE BY FLEMING. In Judge Willis's court, yesterday the motion for a new trial filed in behalf of Joseph J. Fleming, found guilty by a jury of seducing Agnes Zimmerman, was denied. Application was then made for the probation of Fleming, and the matter will be disposed of next Tuesday.

PERRY ESTATE. The estate of John Perry, who was kiled by Fred Loomer, as the result of a quarrel on the "Lucky" Baldwin ranch, on Sept. 30, last, was disposed of by Judge Wilbur, sitting in the probate division for Judge Rives, yesterday. Mrs. Carrie Perry, the widow, was appointed executrix of the estate, which was valued at about $2000. Loomer is now serving a twenty-year sentence at San Quentin, on account of the murder. The trial was in Judge Davis's court.

ANNULLMENT SUIT. An action was begun yesterday by Juan O. Ramirez and Melissa Ramirez against Mabel C. Bolton Rees, to have the marriage of the defendant and Chester F. Rees declared null and void. Young Rees is the son of Melissa Ramirez by a former marriage, and it is alleged that he was coerced into marrying her; that he is but 18 years of age while she is 20; that he was made to believe that he was the father of the unborn child of the defendant; and that the lad was driven to the ceremony performed October 17, last, through the machinations of the present wife and her sister, the latter purchasing the marriage license for the couple.

THE GERMAIN ESTATE. A petition filed in the Probate Court by the executors of the estate of Eugene Germain, asking permission of the court to employ an agent and allow him a commission for the sale of property belonging to the estate, located in the Bonnie Brae tract, and six lots at Redondo Beach. A petition in the same estate was allowed yesterday by Judge Wilbur praying the permission of the court to compromise claims held by Ballinger Brothers and the Duquesne Brewing Company, was also granted. The value of the property sought to be sold is not given.

IN THE INFERIOR COURTS.

Woman Fined for Having Exceeded the Automobile Speed Limit. Man Disturbs Peace.

A woman giving the name of Mrs. J. M. Murray was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 yesterday or serve the alternative in the City Jail, by Police Judge Williams of the University Police Court, for having exceeded the speed limit for autos on South Vermont avenue.

When arraigned, Mrs. Murray at first entered a plea of not guilty, but later changed the plea, after the nature of the violation and the accuracy of the motor officers' watches were explained to her. The limit on Vermont avenue is 20 miles per hour, but it is alleged that the woman was scorching at 25 miles when arrested.

Three other speeders, F. G. Ensign, H. B. Taylor and John Dye, who were arrested by the motorcycle squad for violating the speed ordinances while returning from the auto races at Santa Monica, were also arraigned. Dye admitted that it was his second offense, and he was penalized $50. The others were fined $25 each.

Mrs. De Vita in Court.

Angela de Vita, who shot and killed Abele Bove on Monday last, because he had threatened to blow up her little home with dynamite, and slay her husband and five children, appeared before Police Judge Frederickson yesterday morning, and her preliminary arraignment was set for December 7. The charge against the woman is murder. No bail was granted.

During the arraignment the five tots of the unfortunate woman, her husband and a coterie of friends sat with her within the dock rails. When the woman beheld her little ones, she rushed toward them and kissed and hugged each fervently. Police Detective Grant Roberds, after the arraignment was over, obtained permission from Captain of Detectives Flammer to permit the prisoner's husband, children and friends to visit her in the matron's department of the City Jail.

He's a Peace Disturber.

George Smith, who was arrested Thursday night after he had attempted to hold up Miss Stella Tynan, was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Police Judge Frederickson on the charge of disturbing the peace, and will be sentenced today. According to Patrolman Pautz, who investigated the case, Smith did not lay his hands upon the girl. It was proven that Smith had donned a mask, when she approached, and would have robbed her if an officer had not appeared upon the scene. Pautz located Smith's room at No. 419½ North Main street. It is not known whether or not he has been in trouble before.

Says He Stole Them.

Charged with the larceny of three law books from the Holmes Book Company branch at No. 323 South Main street, Adolph Burdorf pleaded not guilty yesterday when arraigned. His trial was set for next Monday by Police Judge Frederickson. According to Detective Tom Rice, Burdorf stole the books from a stand outside the store several days ago, and was arrested Thanksgiving Day when he attempted to dispose of them to a second-hand dealer. Burdorf resided at Hadden Hall, No. 330½ South Spring street.

Alleged Shoplifter Held.

Charged with stealing seven bolts of silk, valued at $150, from the Broadway Department Store, on November 14, Marie Fernandes and Pasqual Guittirez were held in $1500 each for the Superior Court yesterday afternoon by Police Judge Rose. According to the arresting officer, the woman had a large pocket so arranged in the front of her petticoat that when she pulled her skirt out from the waist, she was enabled to tuck the silk out of sight of the clerk. A rubber belt held the outside skirt from falling down over the hips.

Dog Attacks Child.

The strength of Joseph Waldeck of No. 620 Banning street, saved his four-year-old boy from being viciously bitten by a savage bull-dog yesterday. After a determined battle between the man and the infuriated animal, the beast was finally overcome. It was shot by an officer from the city dog pound. Waldeck's child was playing on the veranda when the dog rushed at him. His cries brought his father to the rescue. The boy was given treatment at the Receiving Hospital for slight wounds.

Stole Thanksgiving Ham.

Visions of roast ham and ham sandwich, with the chili and the con-carne, were rudely dissipated Thanksgiving night for Jesus Estana, when he was arrested in the Southern Pacific yards, by Patrolman Pauts, with a juicy ham carefully concealed under his coat.

According to the officer, the Mexican lives in a hut a short distance from the railroad yards, and Thursday night he broke the seal on a car of hams and helped himself to a nice big one. He was on his way home, according to the officer, with the loot bulging his coat, when arrested.

"Ham is not the 'place de resistance' on Thanksgiving Day in this country," said Police Judge Frederickson. "It's turkey. But neither ham or turkey, unless gotten honestly."

Not the Right Kind.

Charged with playing "Yiddish poker," a species of the great American game, Harry Cohen, Maurice Fyrchde, M. Jacobs, E. B. Abraham and Maurice Robinovich, who were arrested Wednesday night in the rear room of a tailor shop near First and Main streets, were sentenced to pay a fine of $10 each, yesterday, by Police Judge Frederickson.

He Robs His Friend.

Charged with the theft of a valuable gold watch, and cigarette case from the person of Charles McMills, Leo John was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or serve the alternative in the city jail yesterday by Police Judge Fred-Gregory, who made the arrest. John and McMills were the best of friends. Thanksgiving night after they had attended a dance both returned to John's apartments, No. 720 East Fifth street, and drank considerable liquor. After a time McMills fell asleep, and while in that condition was robbed by John.

VICTIM TO CRUSADE.

Many Million Corporation Head Is Arrested Charged With Fraudulently Using the Mails.

Elmer Comer, who was arrested in San Diego on an indictment returned by a Federal grand jury, is preparing to make a fight in the local United States Courts against being extradited.

He is said to have been the president of the United Exchange, a concern which the government has branded as a fake. On its literature was a picture of the local Southern Pacific ticket office which was advertised as the general office of the concern.

The company was a $20,000,000 corporation, which purported that it could do anything for anybody at any place. In reality, it is alleged to have been only a swindling scheme whose promoters hoped to bilk the public by selling State rights.

Comer's contention is that he was never in Chicago and that he is not amenable to the authorities in that city. The local United States Attorneys say his defense is not a good one.

The specific charge is that he p the mails for the purpose of obtaining money wrongfully. The arrest of himself and Will H. Holcomb, another resident of San Diego, is in accordance with a general crusade against fake concerns which have been using the mails to get in touch with their victims. The maximum penalty has been raised from eighteen months imprisonment and a fine of $500 for each of three counts, to five years imprisonment and $5000 fine for each of any number of counts.

CLEARS WIFE'S NAME.

Coroner's Jury Absolves Mrs. Hoeninghaus From Any Connection With Husband's Death.

A Coroner's jury yesterday declared that Victor Hoeninghaus, who was found dead on his ranch at Watts Monday morning last, by Deputy Sheriff Harry Wright, who went to take his wife into custody as a lunatic, died as the result of a tumor of the stomach.

When Hoeninghaus's body was found it was believed that he had been stamped to death by his wife. It was thought that while demented she had committed the deed, and considerable care was taken by the attaches of the insane ward at the County Hospital that she did not escape. Of late her mind has been clearing, and upon her release from the insane ward, it was expected that she would have to face a criminal charge. The verdict of the Coroner's jury, however, clears the unfortunate woman of any connection with his death.

BRONCO THROWS RANCHER.

While riding a fractious cayuse unused to city ways, Hiram Leach, a rancher, of Del Sur, was thrown near Third and Alameda streets, yesterday afternoon, sustaining a broken left leg. He was removed to the Receiving Hospital where Police Surgeon Kidder set the limb.

Rearrangement of Shops.

The Santa Fe Railroad has re-arranged its divisions as far as control of railroad shops is concerned. The shops at Albuquerque are detached from the Pacific Coast system and made a part of the division having headquarters at La Junta. The effect of this is to make the big shops at San Bernardino the center for the Pacific Coast division. S. L. Bear will have charge of the Pacific Coast division and M. S. Drury, the La Junta division. The part of the system from Pecos to Belen, N. M., is made a new division with its main shops at Clovis under the direction of J. A. McMahon, of Las Vegas.

Santa Fe's Fine Coach.

The Santa Fe will put in service on the kite-shaped track tomorrow a new type of parlor car. Distinctive above all is the mission style of decoration which dominates the new car. The car has an unusually roomy appearance and is said by the Pullman Company, which built it, to be the handsomest car ever built for regular service. The mission effect is emphasized by five brass mission bells which contain the electric bulbs for the interior illumination as well as the individual lights and the hat racks. Seats are provided for forty-five passengers, seven in the smoking compartment and thirty-four by revolving leather upholstered mission chairs.

The entire car is built of steel with the exception of the interior furnishings and the outside sheathing, and is of extra length—seventy-five feet. The outside of the car is finished in pearl gray with gilt lines.

Traffic Notes.

The Salt Lake Railroad will start a self-propelling motor car service between Los Angeles and Riverside and San Bernardino tomorrow. The train will leave Los Angeles at 9 o'clock in the morning and return at 6 p.m.

P. Sheedy, head of the mechanical department of the southern district of the Southern Pacific, is taking a vacation, which he is spending in Honolulu. H. J. Small, chief of the mechanical department in San Francisco, is relieving Sheedy.

Reservations are already being made for the Christmas excursion to Mexico by the Southern Pacific Railroad. The train will leave December 15.

The Salt Lake Railroad has announced a one-and-one-third fare for the round trip for the meeting of the California Creamery Operators' Association in Los Angeles, December 8 to 10.

J. W. Nolan of San Francisco, representing the Chinese Engineering & Coal Company, is in the city.

Mexican Is Wounded as a Result of a Political Argument—Fears to Identify Assailant.

The newly-emphasized habit of the Mexicans in the vicinity of the Plaza of going heavily armed by way of preparing for revolutionary troubles in their midst has begun to bear fruit in the shape of almost daily racial rows in that quarter.

Death came close to Enrique Froncaso early yesterday morning in a cutting scrape which is believed to have been the result of a quarrel of a political nature. According to Froncaso's own story, he and Rosendo Munoz were talking outside a coffee house near Ord and New High streets about 1 a. m. when a stranger to both brushed close against them as he passed.

As he did so, Froncaso claims that the newcomer whipped out a knife and stabbed him twice in the abdomen and on the left side, near the heart. He fell to the pavement and the assailant took to his heels. Froncaso was removed to his home in the rear of No. 613 New High street and Patrolman Alvarado called the police ambulance. At the Receiving Hospital Froncaso was operated on in spite of the protests of a dozen or so of his countrymen and his "inner works" patched up sufficiently to allow of his being removed to the County Hospital. There, in spite of the dangerous character of his wounds, it was stated, yesterday, that he had a fighting chance for recovery.

The police take no stock in the story told by Munoz and the wounded man, particularly as they are unable to give even a meagre description of the supposed stranger. Those familiar with the ways of the Mexican quarter have no hesitation in asserting that Froncaso was tabbed in a quarrel growing out of the revolutionary movement in Mexico. The arrest of a number of his compatriots—heavily armed "reds" of the most virulent type—earlier in the evening lends considerable color to this supposition.

WILL SELL THE CHICKENS.

Heir to Fourteenth of a Million the Cackle of the Hen No More Enthralls.

ESCONDIDO, Nov. 24.—James Lee Coburn, a chicken rancher of Escondido, in rather poor health and in modest circumstances, is one of the fourteen beneficiaries under the will of the late Lewis Larned Coburn of Chicago, founder and first president of the Union League, who left an estate of $1,500,000. The heirs are the widow and thirteen nephews and nieces, James Lee Coburn of Escondido being one of the nephews. Of the estate of the late Mr. Coburn $370,000 is personal property and $870,000 is in Cook county, Ill., and $300,000 in Murray county, Minn.

Born in Montpelier, Vt., seventy-five years ago, and graduating from the University of Vermont and from the Law School of Harvard University, Mr. Coburn made his fortune practicing law and in real estate speculation. He was noted as an authority on patent law, and at one time was a partner of John M. Thatcher, who resigned his position as United States Commissioner of Patents to form the co-partnership. A year ago he was given the degree of LL.D. by the University of Vermont, at the same time the honor was conferred upon President Taft.

James Lee Coburn of this city was rich but lost the most of his money in mining enterprises in Dawson, Alaska, in which country he spent ten years. Somewhat broken in health he sought the mild climate of Southern California, where he might start anew to acquire property which would insure his protection in the later years of his life. Coming to Escondido two years ago he bought a small ranch of citrus land, undeveloped, and pending the raising of money to put it into citrus orchard he engaged in the chicken business. With the good fortune left him by the death of his rich uncle he is now preparing to dispose of his chicken ranch, and with his wife intends to pass the remainder of his days in comfortable leisure.

EPISCOPAL RECTOR DIES.

Rev. J. A. Cleveland, rector of the Episcopal Church, who was stricken with apoplexy Monday evening, passed away Wednesday night. Bishop Johnson, who called on him after he was seized, found him in cheerful spirits and little dreamed that death hovered over the rector. The latter was a native of Mississippi and was 65 years old. He leaves a widow. For several years he was a missionary among the Dakotah Indians. He occupied the pulpit of the Episcopal Church here only two Sundays, succeeding Rev. Hector Clowes.

Pen Points.

To the ladies of Los Angeles—do your Christmas shopping now.

However, we do not understand that T. R. contemplates moving to Texas.

We should really like to know whether the new cook at the White House is a stand-patter or an insurgent.

Our meals will again be real pleasure, if the proposed decrease in the cost of living becomes an actuality.

Of course the United States will not annex Panama. And we will also see to it that no other power does.

Insurgent Bonilla has been driven out of Honduras. Carry the news to Vic Murdock.

The editors are now writing about the "new nationalism," but using the lower-case n exclusively.

With the abolishment of the queue, the question before the house is, what will China ware?

Everybody is wanting to help President Taft run the country. But really he is not in any pressing need of assistance.

One of the contracts ahead of President Taft will be to see if there are enough consular jobs for the political lame ducks.

These United States may be with Ireland for Home Rule, but there are several precincts in England that are yet to be heard from.

The Rock Springs, Texas, date-line is now appearing in the papers. The town ought to make every possible use of the advertisement. It will not last long.

The explosions of shells on the sides of the old war-ship Puritan had a most disastrous result. The Puritan is evidently one of the innocent bystanders of the navy.

President Taft says there is no likelihood of a special session of Congress to follow the short one. Why not call it, and allow the Democrats an early opportunity to commit hari-kari?

With the South ruling the lower House of Congress, the spectacle presented "before de wah," will again be offered. When the Democrats win, the South is always in the saddle.

The muck-raking magazines that contributed so much to the Democratic success in the East, now have on their hands the job of making the Democratic Legislatures behave themselves.

President Taft is at work on his annual message to Congress, and it will be a document worth reading. Many things have happened since the last official deliverance, and the President has a happy way of putting potent arguments.

Pasadenans are holding receptions in honor of the household help. In a little while the work of reform as to the management of the servant question will have progressed to the point where the lady of the house will be able to take an occasional day off.

The Mexican "revolutionists" are merely strong-arm and hold-up men and do not represent the people at all. The tangled trails of the mesquite and prickly pear thickets have been the lurking places of the white ruffians warring against property and life on both sides of the border, while the sandy and rocky stretches farther westward were for years almost constantly traversed by hostile bands of Apaches.

NULLIFICATION OF THE SENATORIAL ADVISORY LAW.

Being compelled to concede that under the Senatorial advisory law Mr Spalding is mathematically entitled to be elected United States Senator, the Works organ now turns in its tracks, repudiating the decision of the popular tribunal which itself invoked, and demands that the law be disregarded because it is an "absurd law" that was passed by "a railroad controlled Legislature." It says that those who caused the law to be enacted are "with brazen effrontery calling upon the legislators to observe it."

This is the old Calhoun doctrine of nullification brought down to date and applied locally. South Carolina insisted that a State had a right to nullify an obnoxious act of Congress. It was urged by Southern Union men who opposed Calhoun that a county or a city had an equal right to nullify an obnoxious law of a State. And now our contemporary announces a doctrine of individual nullification and urges members of the Legislature to nullify the Senatorial advisory law because it is "a vicious piece of legislation," "an unfair and indefensible law," "conceived by the infamous political bureau of the Southern Pacific railroad."

If the doctrine of individual nullification or non-observance of obnoxious laws can be successfully invoked, it will greatly simplify the administration of government and reduce its cost. People who have a disposition to acquire property without regard to moral obligation might nullify the "vicious legislation" against larceny. Mormons and other seekers after inordinate domestic felicity might nullify the "unfair and indefensible" Edmunds law, and any Los Angeleno who is unable or unwilling to pay his taxes might nullify the tax laws passed at the instance of "the infamous political bureau of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company."

Our contemporary predicts that the law will be repealed as the first act of an "untrammeled Legislature" and it complacently assumes that if the law be disregarded then ex-Councilman Works would be elected Senator, because Works received thirty-five and four-tenths of one per cent. of the advisory vote cast for Senator, while Spalding had only thirty-five and one-tenth per cent., and Meserve only twenty-nine and five-tenths per cent. of the vote cast.

The whole argument for Works is based upon the elementary error of our contemporary that a United States Senator can under any circumstances or by any construction or misconstruction, or wrenching of the law, be elected by a plurality vote.

The Federal Constitution and the Act of Congress based thereon, make a distinction between Representatives in Congress and Senators, in that Congressmen may be elected by a plurality vote of the immediate constituents—the people; while Senators can only be elected by a majority of the Legislature, representing the State, which is the sole constituent of the Senator.

It may be that time and events have so changed conditions that the distinction which the fathers drew between Congressmen and Senators should now be abrogated. It can only be abrogated by an amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Pending such amendments the people may, by an advisory vote, indicate their choice for Senator, and such advice while not binding upon the action of the legislator, is yet binding upon his conscience, if it be interpreted according to the demands of its authors, the insurgents, and if he has been nominated and was elected upon a platform that pledged him to vote for United States Senator for whoever received the greatest number of votes in his district, or else vote for whoever carried a majority of the districts, then he would be guilty of the most inexcusable and shameless perfidy if he refused to vote for either the candidate who carried his district or for the candidate who carried a majority of all the districts, and he has no moral right to cast his vote for one who carried neither the one nor the other, upon the shallow excuse that the recipient of his support received four-tenths of one per cent. more of the popular vote than the gentleman whom he was bound in honor to support.

Under the advisory law, while the legislator is permitted to vote for whoever carries the greatest number of districts instead of the candidate who carried his particular district, he is not compelled to do so. He may continue to vote to the end of the session for the candidate who carried his district, although the result would be that no Senator should be chosen.

It might be that circumstances would render it justifiable for a Legislature to disregard the advisory law altogether and agree on a new man who had not been voted for by any of the people. We cannot but think that the unwarranted effort to defeat Mr. Spalding is inspired by a purpose to produce a condition that may by a combination of intrigue and audacity, and with the aid of Colonel Mazuma, enable its favorite, Lissner, to achieve a toga for which he is unfit, and of which he is undeserving.

But the plot will fail. The legislators are neither welchers nor tinhorn sports. They will neither sell out nor be bamboozled. They will elect Mr. Spalding, because he has received the advisory vote of a majority of the Senatorial and Assembly districts, and is entitled to the seat in the Senate which he will fill with ability.

Andrew Carnegie has given the Pittsburgh School of Technology the magnificent sum of $3,500,000 in honor of his seventy-fifth birthday, but what an amount of baked beans and pie that amount of money would buy. Besides, we understand that technology is an acquired taste.

Champ Clark might forestall the opposition to his election as Speaker, if he would approach the job by aeroplane instead of by four-mule power. Nothing like being up-to-date.

COMING AND GOING.

THE CROWN CITY.

Crowning the most ideal eminence in this, the New World Canaan, stands a beautiful city, set upon a hill. West and south of her stately streets and magnificent boulevards runs the green valley of the Arroyo Seco, its slopes majestically clothed with sycamore, live-oak and cottonwood, a natural park which the art of man may never hope to duplicate. Eastward, mile upon mile, stretch the world-famed orange groves of Southern California, hugging the foothills and embracing the green valleys; to the north, like Titans of old, tower the mighty mountains, guarding the gateway to the promised land.

To this modern Mecca, when winter frosts have gripped the bleak Eastern States in steel-cold fingers, flock all the lovers of taste and warmth and poetry. Here the artist may luxuriate in a wealth of light and color unsuspected in dimmer climes; here the poet may drink the same inspiring air which tuned the harp of Sappho and swelled the rolling epic of great Homer; here the weary man of affairs may for a season relax his over-wrought brain and worship the sleepy lotus in a heaven of dreams; here in perpetual spring and ever-blooming rose-time, a "young man's fancy may lightly turn to thoughts of love."

Magnificent hostelries, decorated by nature like the lily of the field, decorated by man with all the glory of Solomon, have opened wide their hospitable doors for the anxious seeker after rest; golf links and tennis courts and perfect motoring roads are tempting the play-lovers from a hundred eastern cities; soon the most wonderful New Year pageant in the world—the Pasadena Tournament of Roses—will spread again its dazzling feast of flowery profusion. A spectacle at once entertaining, uplifting and divine.

Yes, the annual tourist season in California has once more opened with a universal cheer of welcome from Los Angeles and all her clustering cities. For if Los Angeles is the Queen City of America, Pasadena is the most precious jewel in her golden crown.

THE PORT O' SHIPS.

"Down around the quay they lie,
The ships that sail to sea;
On shore the brown-cheeked sailormen
They pass the jest with me——"

And between June of last year and the June last passed no less than 65,163 of those same sailormen passed in and out of the harbor of Los Angeles.

Even those of us who imagine we keep an eye on what's going on have not a full idea of the magnitude to which our harbor has grown. There is, to be sure, a vague impression in the mind of the community that Los Angeles harbor is growing and that some day it is destined to loom large on the map. But that it is already the greatest lumber port in the world and that it ranks in other ways among ports far older and a thousand times more famed, how many of us know?

Sixty-five thousand seamen who come and go from one harbor in a year makes it "some harbor." They came under the flags of all nations, from the great highways of the deep, from all the narrow seas and the five oceans. Fair-haired Scandinavians, descendants of the Vikings, swart mariners from tropic waters, the Briton, the Teuton and the Oriental—our harbor knows them all. On the wharves at San Pedro in one year there come and go sailors in sufficient numbers to man a conquering navy or to people a great city were they to remain on shore.

The statement that the harbor of Los Angeles records a traffic of 1,478,633 tonnage would be startling if clearly understood, but the mere landsman doesn't grasp it because "tonnage" is to him a rather vague and almost meaningless term. But we grasp the situation easily enough when we are told that it required the services of 2432 vessels to handle that tonnage. In other words, that between June 1909 and June 1910 nearly 2500 ships visited the harbor of Los Angeles.

The importance to which our port has grown is impressed upon us more clearly still when we are informed that during the period above mentioned 284,135 passengers were recorded from these vessels at San Pedro. If we were to add to this vast number of people those who have patronized the harbor as passengers since June, the figures would be very much larger for the reason that new ships and new lines of ships doing a coastwise passenger trade have entered the trade since June and are now prosecuting an immense business.

Taking into consideration only that which is absolutely certain to occur unless the world comes to an end, no one need hesitate to make the statement that the harbor of Los Angeles will rank among the greatest harbors of the world within the next five years. With the completion of the Panama Canal it will be a port of call for great ocean liners such as are now seen on the Atlantic ocean between Europe and the eastern ports of America. When that time comes we shall be able to go down to San Pedro and board one of a dozen of the finest vessels afloat, pass through the Panama Canal and arrive in New York within twelve days. Over the same route for the same destination we shall be able to ship freight at approximately $6 a ton.

Obversely, what does the installation of these magnificent ocean liners between New York and Los Angeles mean to us in the way of tourist trade? It means that rich Americans resident on or near the Atlantic seaboard will be deflected from Southern France, the Rhine and the Riviera to Southern California, every winter. As it is now, these people come only occasionally to California although they well know that, our climate is superior to anything they can find in either Europe or Africa. It is the ocean voyage and the elegance of the Mauretania and other great ocean greyhounds that decides them against us. The day is coming when we also shall have the luxurious liners coming into San Pedro, landing the wealthy voyagers at our doors to spend their winters in the best climate on earth.

We stand upon the threshold of brave days indeed. From the mountains to the sea shall stretch the city of Our Lady Peerless, in her beauty and commercially as important as any city on the continent. A busy place is now the Port o' Ships, lying bright and sun-glinted within our gates; but in the days soon to come it will be as Carthage was of old—kaleidoscopic with the wandering tribes of all the world.

If the recommendations of the committee of the State Bar Association change the legal procedure so that a man is not compelled to prove himself an idiot in order to qualify himself for service on a jury, much will have been accomplished.

The projectors of the Santa Monica road race may congratulate themselves if the big function is held without some one being killed. It is a dangerous sport, when the machines are traveling at the rate of 70 miles an hour.

Count Jacques Alexander Von Morik de Beaufort has made his debut on the "vodeville" stage. That name is long enough to have served as a chunk of ice for Eliza to make her famous getaway.

If Jim White were here we are certain that he could sign his old battery partner, Al Spalding, for a ball that would strike out both "Judge" Works and Boss Lissner in the Senatorial game.

TOLSTOI.

This is the thing, above all others,
The dead man did for us, my brothers—
He gathered the flags of a warring world,
(All the banners beneath the sun.)
With garlands of love their folds he furled,
And bound them together—every one.

That joy shall come at the end of sorrow,
When sea and mountain, river and plain
The sons of mothers no more divide—
But the time shall come when, in sun and rain,

Hate shall fail, and the senseless clatter
Of spur and saber no more will matter;
Never again will the bugles call.
(Lean shall the red-beaked vulture die.)
Slav and Saxon, Teuton and Gaul,
At night aweary in truce shall lie.

Yea, they shall sleep—the roar and rattle
But they shall waken at break of morn:
(The ramparts fallen, the battle done.)
The wild bird's song in the springing corn,
And the banners folded, every one.

Then in the peace of golden weather,
Arm in arm, they will trudge together,
The bloodstains washed from love-cissed hands;
Goth and Mongol, Latin and Hun—
The world one nation of all men's lands,
The fortress crumbled, the trenches won.

The dead man did for us, my brothers—
For you and me and for men unborn.
(Lyof, the Slav, who died today—)
Lyof, the Slav, whose feet have worn
The man-made lines of the earth away.

JOHN S. McGROARTY.

The Cynic Says.

[Smart Set.]

The optimist pictures love as an oasis in the desert, the pessimist as a mirage.

The youthful lover who lacks words to express his ecstacy of bliss generally finds an inexhaustible flow at a later day when he has to pay the freight.

Widows' weeds are not always grave affairs.

Some women are born with beauty; some achieve beauty; but none ever have beauty thrust upon them.

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER.

One of the great and glorious results of the recent unpleasantness is to be a meeting tomorrow morning at Symphony Hall of the Executive Committee of the Democratic County Central Committee, which has been called by Chairman Norton for the avowed purpose of letting the job chasers try to scalp him. With chops well moistened in anticipation of the county jobs they didn't land, the Democratic brethren must perforce find something to chew and feed upon, and the sanctified element among them suggested Norton, their erstwhile Napoleon, as the preferred victim.

For it is the liveliest kind of fight that has broken out among the Unterrified. Norton is the mark that is aimed at and Editor Gibbon has passed out the word that he declares shall doom forever and include a side trip to purgatory, Napoleon Norton. The latter is to be shorn and quartered and then scalped for good measure. The edict has gone forth that he shall be bounced from his lofty and questionable office of chairman of the Democratic county cohorts and be succeeded by the vocabulary Handley who ran so far behind Will D. Stephens fanning himself with the thought that he had a chance of being sent to Congress as the only accredited representative of the people of the Seventh District.

Prof. Handley is to be chairman of the County Committee. The anti-Norton forces are mustered under the tutelage of Editor Gibbon. Several meetings have been held and at the last one a real genuine miracle was performed. Honoree Muggins McDonald was resuscitated and modeled after the form and manner of a live wire. In fact the conference was arranged so that McDonald should arrive and give the assembled statesmen a lesson in "How to Organize," for, be it known of all men, that Bobby Loucks and Richmond Plant—remember the $30,000 Councilmanic beauty?—swear wildly that Muggins is the "damndest organizer" they ever knew of. And both gentlemen have "done" politics in Pomona and St. Loo-ey. That Plant should be seduced by Muggins McDonald has been a source of almost scandal among the "reformed" Democrats. But, nevertheless, so saith the oracles Plant holds a directorate with Editor Gibbon, and in such circumstances "business is said to be business, strictly so."

Norton and his advisers decided yesterday to throw down the gauntlet to Gibbon et ala.

"If we are to have also-ran candidates to take Napoleon's place, let's know it," vociferated Joe Simons.

And so it was decided to send out a call for a special meeting. Norton announces that he is making the call "on his own authority." He has invited every member of the Executive Committee to attend either his political scalping, or the rout of his would-be destroyers.

The meeting is for the purpose of discussing matters of GREATEST IMPORTANCE to the party in this county," says Norton in his official call. And he naively adds:

"A complete financial statement and report of the primary and election campaign will be presented and, in view of the great Democratic landslide in the Eastern States, steps will be discussed looking toward the continuance of a permanent Democratic organization in this county. Other matters will probably come before the committee.

"It is extremely necessary that you be there. A full attendance is desired. No assessment of any kind will be levied or collected at this meeting."

The announcement that there will be no assessment of any kind levied promises to result in a full meeting. Special invitations have been sent to Police Commissioner Wellborn; Tim Spellacy, near-Lieutenant-Governor; John T. Gaffey, doge of San Pedro; Jim Hanley, ex-Supervisor and ex-Superintendent of Streets, and still hale and hearty; Ex-Senator R. P. Del Valle; Big Joe Simons, the brick magnate; Councilman Martin Frijoles Betkouski; Oscar Eugene — preferably Eugene — Parish; George S. Patton, who recently killed a Senatorial bee that had been bothering him for months; Councilman Robert M. Lusk; Jefferson Porthos Chandler, a southerner, b' gad an' proud of it; W. R. Burke, Charles F. Johnson, J. C. Steele, W. H. Poston; J. T. Belcher, now of Long Beach; Ham H. Cotton, W. E. Cole, Harrington Brown, Police Commissioner—not positively—John Topham; Alex Mitchell, Nathan Newby—yep, Nathan, the reformed; J. S. Lange, David Evans, Edgar Davis, Walter Dunn, of Monrovia; J. F. Carter, and as attending surgeons Dr. Randolph W. Hill, Dr. E. T. Maisdy and Dr. Si Van Meter. Bottle holders, seconds and referees will be selected on the spot.

Nathan Cole, Jr., is one of the few who looks as if he is going to be able to "come back." The Democratic National Committeeman from California—T'dore Bell, please write—was not talking to me while he was here a day or two ago, but nevertheless I am reliably informed that he has just returned from a second eastern trip, and sugar operations are looking up accordingly that Nate will be lighting cigarettes with real greenbacks and acting as an advance agent for the much-abused Col. Mazuma. And this is about what Cole had to say about politics on his side of the fence:

"Oh, I voted for Bell, all right. They can't get me on anything to the contrary." Then he paused, and after a faraway look had been used in retrospection, he commented: "If there had been another Democrat in my precinct, and I had been sure that he was going to vote for Bell,—well, then Bell mightn't have had more than one vote in my precinct. But I wasn't sure that there was another man in the precinct who would cast a vote, and so there I

FROM THE CRADLE TO THE GRAVE.

BY AUGUST SEYMORE.

Life is but a flash of light upon a midnight sky; it is a brief moment of consciousness between two eternal nights; it is at best a mystery to every living soul, since not a single one doeth know wherefrom we came, why we are here nor whither we are going.

Two hearts that beat as one worship at the altar of love—and a Spark of Life wrapped in a dimpled darling baby form is born and rocked to sleep in happy arms by a siren mother's lulaby of love and nourished at her breast blue-veined and fair. This is the story of the cradle.

Some tinsel toys, some tears and joys, some grammar and some Greek and thus the golden days of spring are spent—the youth is now a man, ready for his work upon the stage of life.

So, setting every sail and straining every timber in his gallant craft he navigates the furious waves with all their drifting weeds of faith and fear, of [illegible] and [illegible] and later still the craving for both self and power, until at last the golden sun of life sinks slowly in the western sky!

His trained eye, not dimmed by the battle, observes the shadows crawling stealthily toward the east and grow in length with each second—yet looks courageously into the face of the Creator, who hung the midnight heavens with patines of purest gold and painted the rings of bright Saturn. He looks and hopes for time; but Father Time acknowledges no man; he tints the head of all with locks of silvery gray; the rosy cheek of youth he turns from pink to pale; the one time velvet hand is chilled, the heart is stilled, the ruby lips are purple now—and quiet.

The storm has passed; the foaming waves are calm again; the evening embers have turned from a glowing red to an ashy gray; the spark of life has journeyed from the cradle to the grave and stands, wrapped in its robes of vestal whiteness, with outstretched arms, upon the threshold of an Eternal Night, awaiting the opening of a door

'good bedside manner' and a good presence in a drawing-room are worth a lot more to a court physician than eminence in his profession. Now in the case of Prince Francis, the doctor who attended him in London in the first place was not big enough to say, 'You shall not go to Balmoral,' and the man who had him in charge at Balmoral hadn't the moral courage to oppose his wish to return to London. It is all very well to say that royalty likes the complaisant doctor, but royalty values its life as much as anyone else and I know that the King is extremely angry at the condition of affairs which is only now becoming clear to him.

"The late King Edward also is believed to have been a victim of medical muddling. If his advisers had been strong enough to insist on his taking things easy and taking care of himself he would have been alive today. You may remember that one of his physicians was not re-appointed on King George's accession until a public scandal was made about it and then the King relented.

"Hitherto, the practice has been to have the complaisant drawing-room doctor in ordinary attendance and when things become really serious to call in the really big men. But in the case of King Edward and Prince Francis of Teck, the big men were called in too late to be of any use. There isn't a poor hospital patient in London who hasn't a better chance of recovery from a serious illness than a member of the royal family, under the present circumstances. The poor man has the advice and services of the most skilled physicians and surgeons free of all charge and there is no etiquette which prevents their being called in soon enough as in the case of royalty. Imagine a wealthy man allowing his medical adviser to put off calling in the best of advice obtainable because of the effect it might have on his own reputation."

I am told that Queen Mary especially is angry at the present condition and declares that she won't trust her children to any but the most competent doctors in the land. It is likely that we will hear of the appointment of a number of new court physicians and surgeons before long and that among them will be some clever young men whose names are quite unknown in the West End drawing-rooms, but who have made a reputation in the East End hospitals.

GOES AFTER PASSARELLA.

Police Detective Frank Carroll will leave today for Salt Lake City to bring back to Los Angeles for trial on the charge of grand larceny, Americo Passarella, an expert accountant. Passarella was arrested Thanksgiving Day as he stepped from a train in Salt Lake. He is charged with robbing his friend Vincent Bove, No. 513 North Figueroa street, of $150. After taking the money, Passarella bought a ticket over the Salt Lake for Rochester, N. Y.

Couldn't Trap Him.

A mother of four daughters, one of whom had recently married, cornered an eligible young man in the drawing-room. "And which of my girls do you most admire, might I ask?"

"The married one," was the reply.—[Judge.

Julie Opp,

Beautiful and distinguished actress, wife of William Faversham, who will be introduced to local theaters next Monday night at the Hamburger Majestic Theater, in "The World and His Wife."

JULIE OPP, who in private life is Mrs. William Faversham, who will present "The World and His Wife" in Los Angeles next week, is a new figure to Los Angeles theatergoers, although she has achieved considerable fame in the East, and especially in England.

Less than a dozen years ago Julie Opp was in London, of a party of girls being chaperoned by Kate Jordan, the dramatist and authoress. She was one day at a girl's party, and there met George DuMaurier, whose play "Trilby" was then being presented by Mr. Tree at His Majesty's Theater. Miss Opp had never met anybody connected with the theater, and knew nothing whatever of the stage. She was introduced to Mr. DuMaurier and was amazed when he told her he would like very much to have her go and see Mr. Tree, as he felt sure she would make an ideal Trilby.

Her mother objected, but Mr. DuMaurier's suggestion, while not acted upon, bore fruit. Miss Opp presently learned to "recite pieces" of one sort and another, and was in the habit of entertaining her friends.

Some time afterwards she met Sarah Bernhardt. The Divine was amazed at her amateur prowess, and gave her a place in "Camille," which constituted her real debut on the stage. And in order that she might be raised above the level of an extra woman she wrote several brief lines into the piece for Miss Opp to speak.

Following this wee Bernhardt engagement, Miss Opp understudied a part in "The Prisoner of Zenda," and when the woman playing it was ill, won her first chance to make good—and make good she did.

Fred Terry, brother of Ellen Terry—who, by a curious coincidence is to make her first appearance in Los Angeles on the same evening as Miss Opp—has been the good angel of the young actress, and gave her her first big part, Rosalind. She took the place of Julia Neilson, who was ill, but it was a very lucky thing for her, as Pinero saw her performance and immediately cast her for Mrs. Ware, the "stained-glass widow," in "The Princess and the Butterfly."

ANXIOUS FOR THE BATH.

Distinguished Appearing Englishman, Just in From Journey, Thinks of That Above all Else.

J. Keble Bell, a stalwart, distinguished-appearing Englishman, walked up to the register of the Angelus yesterday and signed himself from London. Before he wanted his room, paramount to all else, he desired his "bawth." He was assigned to a room with that very necessary adjunct included.

Before reaching the elevator he was met by a friend and the greetings of the day were exchanged. A correspondent appeared and was introduced.

"Rully, I must be going," announced Bell from the eminence of his six feet and over.

"Here's my cawd," as he delved into a case and brought out three or four engraved pastebeards. The cards announced: "Mr. J. Keble Bell, Special Commissioner of 'The Sketch,' Charing Cross, Craven Street; Clubs: Savage, Constitutional and Pilgrims'."

"Yes, I was for several years editor of 'The Sketch,' and am at present doing nothing more than travel and obtain sketches, not picture sketches," he quickly added, "but mental sketches for the transfer into articles."

"And what might some of your impressions of America be," was questioned.

"Wonderful and expansive country," he answered.

"And of the American people?"

"Most chawming, but rully, you know, I must be going to my bawth."

"But couldn't you say something more distinctive?"

"I haven't had time to think it over, and I've been on the road now for six days, and rully, you know, I must have my bawth."

"You came directly from New York, at that rate, did you," was asked in a last effort to get the English journalist to say something.

"I visited the Falls and Chicago and New York and—but say, old fellow, you'll excuse me, I know, so I can get to that bawth."

And with that he made a frantic dash for an elevator that had already started on its upward flight carrying the boy that carried the luggage of the English tourist.

Thanksgiving Day 1810.

A recent article by a Los Angeles writer in a current magazine gives some startling facts as to the difference in housekeeping a hundred years ago and now. Just in the matter of the preparation of Thanksgiving dinner, one is made to realize that as far as inventions for household convenience, greater progress has been made during the past hundred years than in all the previous history of the world; while as to the preservation and shipment of foods it is but a few years since the world was obliged to be content with what grew in its own local garden, at the hour of the dinner giving, while now the entire globe contributes to the luxurious viands of every spot under the sun. The list of what did not exist at Thanksgiving time in 1810 is far longer than that of what was in use then.

Cleaning Knives.

The Good Housekeeper says she always places a piece of raw potato in the knife cleaning preparation and uses it to rub the knives instead of with a cloth. Juice of the potato is itself a cleaner and it moistens the paste.

For cleanings silver knives and forks she sometimes plunges them for half an hour or so in sour milk and declares that they come out as shining as though scoured with silver polish and there is no powder to adhere to the engraved parts.

* *

Another Use for It.

I have heard of a family whose name I would really like to publish for the reason that they took such pains to prevent the howling of their newly acquired puppy. They were determined that no one should be made to suffer for their pleasures and when the little dog spent the first night away from its mother, that beneficent family took turn about in comforting the whimpering canine. They tried wrapping him in blankets but he missed something and howled as soon as he was left alone. Finally some one thought of placing beside him a hot water bag and he cuddled up to this foster mother and slept in contentment and allowed others to sleep.

The Housekeeper's Gift.

It was a housekeeper who thought up the plan of sending to a housekeeper a "Daily Recipe Book," for a Christmas gift. It contained a novel recipe for some dish for one of the three meals for each day in the year. The book was appropriately decorated and bound in a unique manner but the chief delight was found in the recipes themselves. Every home-keeper knows what a boon it is to have a suggestion for the daily eating and to have this come each day as a surprise and yet to feel that it is surely forthcoming and to be relied upon without the haunting thought upon your part, is a genuine pleasure throughout the year.

Fashion's Folly.

I saw pictured the lastest folly of Dame Fashion and really I do not believe she will own to it. It is the "hobble garter." Two garters are made from heavy elastic and a similar piece of elastic joins these together.

They or "it"—whichever it may be called—are worn above the knee, and its intention is to restrict from too long a step which may test the width of the dress skirt.

The stamp of approval has been set on corduroy.

...ORGAN'S BIBLE LESSON.

...fess that I never read it without sympathizing with Peter and his sword. Watching the procedure in imagination, one longs to break in and smite and slay.

Then Peter speaks to us through his letter, the man who in the garden drew his sword, and who following through these earlier stages saw everything; and he says of his Lord, "Who, when He was reviled, reviled not again," and as I read the words all my hot haste is rebuked, and I see the shame of my anger. Somehow in the presence of the infinite calm of the suffering King I become conscious that the pulsing of the blood in thirst for revenge is part of the sin which compelled His suffering. Then there is nothing for us to do but, reverently, and in solemn awe, to watch Him in the midst of the wicked and appaling travesty of justice.

The first matter that arrests the attention is that indicated in the first part of Peter's declaration, "He was reviled." The rulers at last have Him in their power. Betrayed by one of the inner circle of His own disciples to all human seeming He is successfully trapped, and now they are determined that He shall not escape them. Their method is at once a revelation of the depravity of their own hearts, and of the absolute and recognized purity of His. They have no charge that they can prefer against Him. There is no law that He has broken, no wrong that He has done; therefore "they sought false witness," and then even that it was difficult to find. At first they were unsuccessful. Can there be a more remarkable testimony to the integrity of His life, and the carefulness of His speech?

At last, however, two are found and their testimony is of that dangerous character against which it is hard to set up a defense. They declared that He had said, "I am able to destroy the temple of God and to build it in three days." What He had really said was entirely different. In answer to a demand for a sign, He had said, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." He did not suggest that He was able to destroy, but rather that what they destroyed He could raise up. Of course at the time they did not understand that He referred to His death and resurrection; but at the time they did not criticise Him for declaring He could destroy, because they did not understand Him to have made any such declaration. What they had then said to Him was, "Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt Thou raise it up in three days?" Now the testimony is the distortion of something already said and at such a distance that it was quite easy to make it extremely difficult for any to contradict. He made no attempt to answer the lying charge. Thereupon the high priest made Him a direct and personal challenge as to His silence, to which no answer was given.

Then immediately, in the solemn terms of a legal oath, the priest appealed to Him, not on the testimony of the false witnesses, but concerning His own Person and His claims, "I adjure thee by the living God, that thou be the Christ, the Son of God." While Jesus had given no reply to the charge of the false witnesses, and no answer to the personal question of the priest, He immediately availed Himself of the legal oath, and replied to it with perfect clearness and definiteness. Thus an oath, in the midst of these surrounds, He claimed Messiahship; and immediately, let it be observed, not on the testimony of the false witnesses which for some reason was allowed to drop, but on His own claim of Messiahship, a definite charge of blasphemy was formulated against Him.

Thus was He reviled, and through the whole of the processes He maintained the attitude of quiet and patienet dignity, never stooping to the level of the angry methods of His foes; in answer to their revilings, never reviling. Against the false witnesses He uttered no word of protest. In answer to the personal inquiry of the priests He was silent. When the legal oath was offered Him, He at once without a single word of bitterness took advantage of it, and claimed to be the Messiah, the Son of God adding to the claim the affirmation that the claim would yet be vindicated in a new manifestation wherein He should be seened sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

The contrasts of the lesson are most striking; the hot feverishness of His foes and the calm dignity of the King; the appeal on their part to all base things to ensure his destruction, and the rest in simple truth which characterized His speech. Looking at Him alone, we are overawed by the wonderful merging of patience and power, of faithfulness and truth, of dignified reserve and authoritative speech; and such observation forever convinces the honest heart of the uselessness of reviling, of the folly of answering anger by anger, and of the overwhelming superiority of quietness and confidence over all protest and pasife.

Such examination of the story in itself sets everything in a new light, and the first appearances are contradicted by careful examination of actual facts. He is seen as the Arrested and Accused, while they are the self-constituted Judges. Yet we look again, and know that in the midst of all the strange excitement, He the calm and dignified One is the Judge, while they are prisoners at His bar, the accused and guilty ones.

And there is a yet more wonderful change. They appear to be vindictive victors, while He is the helpless Victim. Yet as we look again we see that they are sinners in very deed, but He is suffering at their hands in order that even they may receive pardon, and purity, and peace at His hands. In this scene human justice is revealed as at an end, lacking every element of mercy, while the justice of God is creating a way for itself by which it will be able to act in mercy toward sinning men.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Some Christian Imperialists.

Terse Comments Upon the Christian Endeavor Topic for November 27, "My Favorite Missionary Hero or Heroine, and Why!" Heb. xi, 32-40.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

When Carey went to India and Judson to Burma, practically all the world was closed against foreign missions, now, practically all the world is open to them, with the Bible translated into more than 400 languages and dialects, covering the vast majority of the people on the globe.

Missionary work in India has been officially permitted since 1864. Some of the honored names on the missionary roll of India are William Carey, Henry Martyn, Reginald Reber, Bishop of Calcutta, Alexander Duff, William Butled and Bishop Toburn of our own time.

Thirty-five American societies are at work in India at the present time. The work of Pandita Ramabai for the child widows of India, include a school for high-caste widows at Poona as well as a mission for child widows, deserted wives and famine orphans, where more than a thousand girls are sheltered and cared for by this devoted Christian woman, who began life as a daughter of a Brahmin priest, becoming herself a Hindu widow early in life. Because of her own experience came the longing to aid the millions of girls whose lives were wrecked through the wrongs done to the child widows.

Ninety-two per cent. of the people of Burma are Buddists, and all the men of the country pass some time in a monastery. The pioneer of missionary work in this country was Adoniram Judson whose words, "The prospects are as bright as the promises of God," have become a missionary proverb. Definite work is now done for the forty-seven tribes that compromise the population of the country. Churches, colleges and theological seminaries are the outgrowth of the missionary work in Burma.

Siam, which is one of the small countries of Asia, has Buddhism as its State religion. The principle missionary body now at work in this country is the Northern Presbyterian. One of the early missionaries, Rev. Stephen Mattoon, so won the confidence of the Siamese that when the first treaty in behalf of the United States was negotiated they insisted in having the missionary as the first American Consul.

For nearly fifty years John G. Paton watched Christ work and worked with Christ, in the New Hebrides. "In deaths oft," he yet was preserved in such marvelous ways that we cannot wonder at his simple, childlike trust in a personal Heavenly Father's peculiar care. He proved the proposition that the way to know the truth is to do it; that the proof of God comes in putting him to the test.

The "new woman" is finding many strange careers for herself; but who of the most ambitious of these has dreamed of a career greater than that of the woman missionary who deliberately immures herself in the foundations of a new nation? Pidelit Fiske chose to "bury herself" in Persia, and lo, her life is emerging in a greatness and power that shine increasingly with the passing days.

Some of the heroes of the missions are Christians who never left their homeland but whose interests and devotion has borne unreckoned fruit in that distant country.

Morrison, Milne, Chauncey Goodrich, Walter Lowrie, J. Hudson Taylor, John L. Nevius, Dr. Peter Parker, Bishop Boone, Wells Williams, H. Bledget, Dr. Griffith John, James Meadows, Hunter Corbett—how the names of the great servants of God in China mount up. The western world little knows what they have done, but some day China will enshrine them in her hall of great ones.

Verbeck, Brown, Stepburn, Neesima, are names high up on the roll of fame of missionaries who were shaping forces in the life of the new Japan. They gave themselves for God and a nation, and only the succeeding centuries can rightly appraise the services which they and their fellow missionaries rendered.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY.

HAPPEN TO THE HAPPY.

GOOD NEWS AND BAD, VISALIA, PORTERVILLE, VICINITY.

Absconding Clerk of Fraternal Organization Can't Stand the Strain and Gives Himself Up—New Buildings in Ducor Section—Great Activity in Orchard Lands.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PORTERVILLE, Nov. 24.—Overcome with remorse after brooding over his crime during a period of twelve years, in which time he had wandered into all parts of the States, and with his constant fear of capture worrying him into incipient insanty, R. H. Chase yesterday gave himself up in Yuba City, asserting to the Sheriff to whom he delivered himself that he is wanted in Porterville on a charge of embezzlement of funds from the W.O.W. lodge.

A dozen years ago Chase was the clerk of Orange Camp 303, W.O.W., and between two days disappeared with $112 of the lodge money. Just before leaving he attempted to secure control of all the funds in the hands of the banker, some $1100 all told, but the members had already become suspicious of him and refused to turn the funds over. This frighted Chase into flight.

Constant worry over his crime has unbalanced his mind, and in the telegram which was sent yesterday to the local lodge telling of his surrender, the Sheriff of Yuba stated that the man is completely unbalanced mentally and advises that he be committed to the State Insane Asylum. By reason of Chase's mental condition, it was voted at a special meeting of the lodge, held last night, to make no attempt to have him brought back here to answer for his alleged peculations. There is some question whether or not he could be convicted, in any event, as nearly all the members conversant with his crime are no longer residents of this section.

Strawberries, of the very finest flavor, color and size have made their appearance in the Porterville market, the fruit being local grown and commanding an especially high price by reason of the Thanksgiving season.

To the west of Porterville in the deciduous fruit section of Poplar and Woodville, strawberries may be raised at almost any time of the year. Several of the growers this year will attempt to have some fancy packed berries for the Christmas market.

To work in connection with the Merchants' Association and to develop activity along much the same lines, leading realty dealers are now organizing the Porterville Real Estate Board, in which it is hoped to include practically all of the score of dealers in dirt in Porterville.

Chief among the objects of the board will be to prevent irresponsible persons from securing listings of property and to put out of business all who make misrepresentations in their dealings with prospective customers.

It is planned to have all responsible dealers supplied with an ornamental sign setting forth their membership, upon it being the statement that membership in the Board is prima facie evidence that all representations may be trusted implicitly. In case of unethical practices, the offending member will be asked to hand in his resignation.

This will be for the particular protection of Easterners who are unfamiliar with local conditions and practices and for self-protection from the "curbstoners," who are in the habit of knocking deals in which they are not personally interested.

Visalia.

VISALIA, Nov. 24.—To aid the local officers in the detection of the criminal or criminals who attempted a night or two ago to blow the safe in the Leslie Cook Department Store, there has been called in a finger print expert from San Francisco and reproduction of the prints left conspicuously on the safe door are to be sent to all parts of the State where records of such prints are kept, in the hope of identifying those responsible for the attempt.

Mr. Cook carried a burglary insurance and a representative of the indemnity company stated today that the work was evidently that of amateurs and that sending the prints about the country would fail to reveal the burgiars. Only enough nitro was used in the attempt, to wreck the safe door, but not nearly enough to blow the strong box open. Experts would not have failed in this manner, it is related.

Horace Hunter, a prominent young man of the younger social set, has returned home, very indignant at the sensational reports which appeared in San Francisco papers regarding a sensational elopement with a prominent young woman of San Francisco. Hunter admits that he and Miss Harris, the bride soon to be, left San Francisco and were married in San Rafael, but says this step was taken because of the crowd in the license clerk's office in the bay metropolis. He asserts that the story of a chase by angry parents of the young woman were evolved from the fervid imagination of a reporter.

A Good Salesman.

"That rocking-chair you sold me is an outrage and a fraud," she exclaimed indignantly.

The second-hand dealer endeavored to look pained and surprised. "How vos dot?" he asked.

"The rockers are not even, and as you rock it keeps moving sideways all over the room."

"Mein gracious! I have made a meestake und sent you von new patent rocker, varranted not to vear oud de carpet all in von place. Dot kind cost two dollars more."

"Huh! Well, it's your mistake, and I won't pay the two dollars and I won't send it back.—so there!"—[The Pathfinder.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

On the street yesterday morning there was very little trading, but on the exchange there was a different story. Very active buying and selling was the rule. Dealers through the city bought lightly owing to the fact that they were not entirely successful in disposing of all their Thanksgiving stock. Much of this still remained on hand with the result that the market showed very light business.

Egg receipts were only 131 cases for two days past. The market on local stock was active. Fifty cases of Petroleum stock, seasoned storage paid brought 34 cents in jobbing.

Butter arrivals were 44,654 pounds. The feature of the market was a very steady quotation and with reports of higher prices in other parts of the country, the possibility of slight advances within a few days. Eastern ladle butter maved very freely.

Cheese receipts were 1515 pounds. Northern fresh sold freely at the jobbing price of 17 cents. Most of the storage cheese is being used at present rather than pay the higher price of the present. Oregon twins and Edam cheese were the other two best sellers.

Three cars of Oregon rose potatoes to arrive brought $1.65, two cars of Oregon Burbanks brought $1.40 and one car of northern spuds sold for immediate delivery at $1.85. Arrivals of spuds were 1610 sacks for the day.

A car of Oregon onions for immediate delivery brought $1.60 per hundred. Receipts of this product were 200 sacks.

There were no bean receipts reported. Pinks and small whites were in fair call. Sweet potatoes were more firm and a number of jobbing sales at $1.50 per hundred were reported. Receipts were 325 sacks.

Romanite apples moved freely at $2.25 among jobbers. Other well-colored fruit was also in good call. Prices on all apples are firm. Receipts were only 800 boxes.

Nuts were in good call. Filberts averaged 13 cents in very large quantities. California peanuts brought $2.25 per hundred. Almonds were also in demand.

Five barrels of Jersey cranberries, some of those that were left over brought $8.00 per barrel in a jobbing way. Other berries were down in their valuation.

STOCK MARKET VERY SLUGGISH.

NEGLECT FOLLOWING HOLIDAY HELD RESPONSIBLE.

Apprehension Felt, However, That Period of Trade Revival Must Be Set Forward to Next Year—Week's Currency Movement in Favor of New York Banking Institutions.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The neglect of the stock market left it nearly idle today and the price movement was the merest drift. There was practically no outside participation in the dealings. The remnant of the week after yesterday's holiday gave such a small promise of profitable activity that many brokers did not take the trouble to attend.

While the holiday period was called responsible for the neglect in part, it is recognized that deeper underlying causes also are at work, and apprehension is growing that the period of trade revival must be set forward to some time next year.

The week's currency movement has been in favor of the New York banks, both from the interior and on the sub-treasury operations, and a gain of nearly $5,000,000 in cash, allowing for a $500,000 shipment of gold to Canada, is promised by the preliminary estimates. The foreign trade banks of England, France and Germany all made strong weekly returns and the tendency of discount rates is downward in foreign markets. The foreign exchange market averaged higher in the morning owing to a rapid fall in interest rates here.

The duties of the stock exchange authorities in admitting Lehigh Valley to the list gave some slight impetus to the speculation on Reading. There were rumors also that a decision was imminent in the anthracite-trust cases in the United States Circuit Court at Philadelphia. A less serious view was taken of the Mexican situation than earlier. Unless Pacific ceded 1-4 higher than on Wednesday. Reading unchanged and United States Steel 1-8 lower.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,962,000. United States Bonds unchanged on call.

New York Curb, Stocks.

[Special service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., members New York Stock Exchange, 42 West Third street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The curb market was steady and active, the Copper group leading. Inspiration closed at top prices. There was very aggressive buying of Ray Consolidated, and it looks as though it would go over 25. Chino was strong, and looks like 30 soon. It is believed that Inspiration is good for 12 on this move. Green Cananea looks cheap for a long pull. The market closed a little quieter than earlier in the day. The Boston Exchanges showed irregularity on a small volume of trading.

STATE OF TRADE.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—R. G. Dun and Company's weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

"Business moves along lines of safety, the absence of speculation making the situation appear duller than it actually is. The volume of transactions although by no means as large as it might be if expanded to full speed limits, is nevertheless sufficiently large to keep the great body of workmen employed, so that the average of prosperity is fair. That the mass of the people still have spending power is evidenced by the hopeful anticipations concerning the holiday trade now opening. The buying of equipment by the railroads developed slowly yet considerable new business is in sight and a more hopeful feeling prevails in iron and steel. In structural lines, prospects are considered better as certain railroads are planning new bridgework, while proposed municipal subway construction will result in a considerable demand for material. The primary cotton goods markets are quiet but the high costs of production tend to hold prices firm. A few inquiries from China are still in the market for three yard sheetings on the basis of 7¼. Mills ask 7¼ cents, which is the highest price in four years with no sales reported. Trade in staple prints is fair; bleached goods are quiet and firm, ginghams hold steady and the leading duck mills have secured more business than for a year. In woolens and worsteds the demand for spot shipments of overcoatings is good in some quarters, but suitings are quiet and there is complaint of the effect of strikes in the West which cause cancellations. New business in footwear is small and trade continuues quiet but a good indication for the future is the greater activity of wholesalers in most parts of the country. The leather market continued steady. Hides show less activity than for domestic and foreign varieties."

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"The demand for holiday goods is becoming more prominent and developements in this respect are responsible for whatever expansion has occurred in trade this week. Novelties, jewelry, and such articles appropriate to the season are in good request and the consensus of reports indicate that trade is in excess of last year. But on the other hand trade in general has become more irregular. In the central trade shows a slight increase, but in the East the turnover was disappointing. Collections the country over range from slow to good. Incidentally the improvement noticed in the iron and steel trades last week has been replaced by less optimistic views. For one thing considerable disappointment is reported at the slowness with which the railways are coming into the market for supplies and pig iron has turned somewhat quieter. Business failures in the United States for the week ending 24, were 231, against 248 last week, 217 in the like week of 1909, 287 in 1908, 253 in 1907 and 174 in 1906. Wheat, including flour exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending November 24, aggregate 4,814,610 bushels, against 3,729,492 last week and 4,547,423 this week last year. Corn exports for the week are 951,615 bushels against 958,700 last week and 254,551 in 1909.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET.

Logan & Bryan's letter says:

"An over-night accumulation of crop estimates left the trade still at loggerheads as to the size of the crop, but were any of the reports correct there would be a shortage of supplies at end of season. The financial equipment of the southern farmer is greater than ever before in his history, and his unwillingness to sell is the real backbone of the market, although those who have been incautious enough to sell the market short are contributing somewhat to the buying power. Europe has gradually lowered her estimates of size of crop, and as trade seems much better than in America, it is not surprising taht she should lead the way to higher prices. Liverpool was four decimals better than looked for when we opened, and American speculators all were eager buyers in early trading. Rather heavy movement for the week seemed to have but little influence on values, as it generally reported that the prices of spots in the South are marked up as fast as our contracts advance. The only feature lacking to make this market enthusiastically bullish is expanded speculation and increased spinners' takings. It matters little which side of the market speculation enters, since a short interest, if developed, would be a very bullish argument, but a better dry-goods market, or perhaps a better understanding of the present dry-goods market would do much toward reconciling the world to 15-cent cotton, which to many looks high."

H. J. TILLOTSON, M.D.
Established 50 Years.

I am the only specialist in Los Angeles who is sole owner of his office and equipment, who does not advertise a fictitious name and photograph. I publish my true photograph, correct name, personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. Imitation of my copyrighted announcement is an evidence that I am a bona fide Specialist. I make this statement that you will know you consult a specialist, who sees and treats patients personally. I possess skill and experience, acquired in such a way that no other can share, and should not be classed with medical companies. Experience is the safe standard by which Judgment may be valued, and it is unwise and expensive to embrace the statements of medical companies. It is impossible for a medical company to attend college. Companies have no diploma or license to practice medicine in California or any other State. Medical companies usually are named after a doctor. A portrait, whose personality and identity are indefinite, is selected and published as the legitimate specialist of the office. Hired substitutes, ordinary doctors with questionable ability, give consultation, examination and treatment.

A thorough investigation should be made by every ailing person as to the specialist he consults. "Duty and destiny to self and those who depend upon you demand the best medical attention. I have the ability and can give you this service. I have always charged a very reasonable fee, so that my services may be obtained by any one who sincerely desires to be cured. I make no misleading statements or unbusinesslike propositions; neither do I desire to be particularly independent, and I would like to have you for a patient, if you will come to me on a strictly professional basis, and the inducements that I offer, which are my ability and the thirty years' successful experience, timesaving treatment and guarantees of cure of certain diseases.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their conditions, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. Health is capital at interest. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me for my services. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Ulcerations, or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

FIELD SHOWS BIG INCREASE.

Production of the Fullerton District Gaining.

General News of Interest from Oil Fields.

Oil production figures show that the Fullerton field increased its output in October about 40,000 barrels over the previous month. The total yield of the field in September was approximately 440,000 barrels, against 480,000 barrels in October.

The Union Oil Company increased its production by several thousand barrels, as did also the Industrial Oil Company, the Petroleum Development Company (the Santa Fe) and others. The Olinda Land and Oil Company has completed its well No. 4 which is good for about 225 barrels of 15.5 gravity oil. This makes three wells on the pump for the Olinda and two strings of tools running.

The Industrial Oil Company has finished its well No. 38 and now has it on the pump making about 175 barrels daily. The Industrial is running ten strings of tools and has a new rig up. The company has thirty producing wells.

The Graham-Loftus Oil Company is running four strings of tools. The Amalgamated Oil Company is taking the Graham-Loftus production through an arrangementw ith the Union Oil Company whereby the latter handles it through its pipe line, transporting it to the Amalgamated's refinery or "topping" plant in this city.

Other companies are also keeping up with the procession in increasing production in this field. There is a total of fifty-nine wells drilling in the Fullerton district, and four rigs were up on the last day of October, indicating a slight increase in development work as compared with previous months. Three drilling wells are suspended. The Petroleum Development Company has forty-five producing wells and ten strings of tools running.

PALMER'S PRODUCTION.

NEW WELLS BEING SUNK.

The Palmer Oil Company will soon have a large increase in its production. Its wells 1, 2 and 3 are rated respectively at 1700, 3000 and 12,000 barrels per day, a total of 21,700 barrels. The wells soon to come in and swell this amount are well No. 4 B, now down about 3000 feet and more than 200 of that into the pay sands; and well No. 7 S, now being cemented off at a depth of 3200 feet. In this hole the drill penetrated 800 feet of oil sand and shale, and this, together with heavy gas pressure, indicates the bringing in of a big well.

Wells of less depth are No. 5 B, 1450 feet; No. 6 B, recently spudded in; and No. 7 S, which has gone down about 500 feet in the past three weeks.

The Palmer, Jr.'s well No. 1 is down more than 3600 feet, and has already penetrated more than 600 feet of oil shale and sand. Well No. 2 is down about 1250 feet. There is every indication that the 880 acres in this holding will become as productive as the Palmer tract of the same size.

Beginning with a derrick and rig, now being set up, the Palmer, Sr., holding of 950 acres is coming in for its share of development work, and before the winter is out there will be much activity.

WORK OF COMMITTEE.

WILL GATHER INFORMATION.

The California oil men's committee of seven which met in this city on November 18 for organization elected Frank H. Short of Fresno chairman, and R. L. Peeler of Coalinga secretary. The secretary was authorized to go to the abstract companies in the oil counties and procure the history of every oil placer mining claim in these counties for the use of the committee.

The statement has been made that it is doubtful if a single set of the original eight locators has patented lands in California, the custom having always been to convey their interests to an operating company, which sells the stock to others, and when the discovery of oil is made to secure the patent in the name of the company.

Five men have been named as a finance committee to collect funds from the companies operating on government lands to defray the abstract expenses and other incidentals. The committee of seven will ask the boards of trade all over the State to indorse the resolutions adopted at the Bakersfield mass meeting held on November 12, to the end that a solid front may be presented to Washington in support of the State's biggest industry.

WHITTIER-OLINDA FIELD.

MAP BY MINING BUREAU.

The California State Mining Bureau has issued a map of the Whittier-Olinda oil field, under direction of State Mineralogist Lewis E. Aubury. This field is in Los Angeles and Orange counties. To make the map complete, a large number of original maps and surveys were used.

These were furnished by the Santa Fe railway system, the Puente Oil Company, the Standard Oil Company, the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation, the Brea Canyon Oil Company, the Murphy Oil Company and others. Data was furnished by most of the operators in the field and also by others. A bulletin is in preparation that presents much information that has not been published regarding Whittier-Olinda and other Southern California fields. The Whittier-Olinda map was drawn by Paul W. Pruitzman. Upon it are indicated the producing wells, the drilling wells, the abandoned wells, the wagon roads, the railroads, the pipe lines, the gravity of oils produced and other particulars that are necessary to convey the fullest and most accurate information regarding the field.

This thoroughness characterizes the entire bulletin concerning the oil fields that has been in preparation for some months and that will be, when it is issued, the most comprehensive handbook on California petroleum and California petroleum fields that has been published.

MINERAL OIL EXPORTS.

STANDARD IS JUSTIFIED.

Not long ago the Standard Oil Company issued a circular in which it was announced that it would promote the market for American oil by reducing the price. While it is recognized that the oil fuel market has shown a good expansion at home, it is claimed that the country still needs the foreign market for oil products.

For ten months of this year, ending September 30, the total exports of mineral oils were 1,162,716,828 gallons, valued at $74,712,991, compared with 1,247,136,487 gallons valued at $83,444,819 for the same period of last year. This is a loss of $4,419,659 gallons and of $8,731,828 from the low prices prevailing last year. This total was distributed, crude, 95,691,231 gallons, valued at $2,829,529, as against 108,079,021 gallons and $4,102,176 for the ten months of last year. Naphtas, 64,538,762 gallons, valued at $5,312,812 against 51,365,885 gallons valued at $4,248,355, a gain of 13,172,877 gallons and of $1,000(187. Illuminating, 779,412,904 gallons, valued at $47,031,580, against 870,806,520 gallons, valued at $56,592,157, a loss of 91,393,626 gallons and of $9,560,577 from last year. Lubricating and paraffine oils, 132,492,465 gallons valued at $16,591,706, against 126,499,655 gallons, valued at $15,366,375, a gain of 5,993,810 gallons and of $1,225,375 over the ten months of last year. Residuum, 90,580,466 gallons, valued at $2,946,324, against 90,385,896 gallons valued at $3,140,798, a gain of 195,070 gallons and a loss of $193,464 in value.
